SOLDIER WINS PRINCESS.

Sultan of Turkey Bestows His Niece on Young Turk Leader.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 31.—Major Enver Bey, one of the most notable leaders of the Young Turk revolution, which overthrew Sultan Abdul Hamid of Turkey and now the military attaché of the Turkish Embassy here, will become a husband under most peculiar conditions. His bride to be is an imperial Princess, a niece of the present Sultan, Mohammed V., and of his deposed brother.

The Princess has been bestowed upon Enver Bey, in accordance with the ancient Turkish royal custom, as a reward for his services and the gallant part he played in the overthrow of the old régime in Constantinople. Enver Bey has never seen his Princess sweetheart, who is only 16 years old. He is laughingly telling his Berlin friends, however, that he has seen her brother's photograph, and that if the Princess looks anything like that he is sure he will be the happiest of husbands.

Enver Bey, of course, gratefully accepted this signal mark of his sovereign's favor, but requested that the marriage be postponed for two years. In the meantime he desires to widen the scope of his international knowledge by residence in England and France. The Princess, who has never set foot outside of Constantinople, will employ the time she is waiting for her marriage in perfecting herself in the English and French languages and the other accomplishments necessary to fit her to be the wife of a Turkish soldier with the most brilliant prospects.

Enver Bey is now only 26 years old.

YOUNG KNOX IN DETROIT.

Departure with Bride Causes Rumor That Father Has Taken Pair Home.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., March 31.—Philander C. Knox, Jr., son of the Secretary of State, with his bride, who was Miss May Bolles of Providence, R. I., arrived in Detroit to-night and registered at the Pontchartrain. With them was D. W. Flint of Providence, agent there of the local automobile concern by which Mr. Knox has been employed since he ran away from school and married.

Efforts to locate Mr. Knox were unavailing for a time, but finally he was discovered at a banquet given in his honor at the Pontchartrain by Henry Ford. He declined absolutely to be seen. Mr. Flint would say nothing more definite than that Mr. Knox would remain in Detroit only two or three days, and that the purpose of his visit here was to inspect the automobile plant.

As to a story that Secretary Knox had forgiven his son and invited the young man and his bride to Washington to live, Mr. Flint would say nothing.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 31.—Philander C. Knox, Jr., son of the Secretary of State, with his bride, formerly Miss May Boller of this city, have left Providence.

For the past few weeks young Knox has been earning his living by acting as salesman for an automobile concern, of which Dutee Wilcox Flint is the local agent. Mr. Flint is out of town and Mrs. Flint said to-night that her husband had gone to the factory of the automobile concern in Detroit and that Mr. and Mrs. Knox had accompanied him.

At the Knox apartments, on Benefit Street, to-night a young man was busy packing up. He was decidedly non-committal, and declined to parley with reporters.

When it became known that the couple had gone a report became current here that Secretary of State Knox had secretly come to Providence and taken the couple away.

COURTNEY BACK TO ASYLUM.

Judge Will Ascertain How He Was Deceived Into Freeing Insane Murderer.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 31.—James Courtney, otherwise "Leadville Jimmy," the murderer who was released from the State Asylum for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan last Saturday and sent to the Tombs to await trial on an indictment for murder in the first degree, is once more back in the asylum. He was returned by order of Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins, and there will be a rehearing before that Judge at Nyack Court House on Saturday, on the application for a writ of habeas corpus for his release.

Judge Tompkins is determined to have the whole matter reviewed. When Courtney was brought before him last Saturday no one appeared on behalf of the Attorney General or District Attorney Whitman. Dr. Lamb, the Superintendent of the asylum, was not present, and Judge Tompkins was not informed that Courtney was incurably insane. On the contrary he was told that Courtney was a victim of a drug habit and had been cured, and consequently made the customary order, discharging him from the institution and directing his delivery to the Sheriff of New York County, to be held under the indictment for murder.

Judge Tompkins said to-day that no one had given him the slightest intimation that this indictment had been dismissed, and he purposes making a rigid investigation to find out who was to blame for failing to make a report of the exact facts to him.

FINDS HUSBAND DEAD.

Gas in the Bathroom Where Louis D. Wildman, Insurance Man, Lay.

Louis D. Wildman, an agent in charge of the Harlem office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, was found dead on the floor of the bathroom in his apartment on the third floor of 622 West 137th Street, overlooking Riverside Drive, by his wife Bertha and his son Julian, when they came home from an afternoon of shopping early last night.

The son called Dr. Martin Schwarts of 601 West 137th Street. According to the physician, when he entered the bathroom he found a strong odor of gas, and requested the son to throw open one of the windows. Mr. Wildman lay with his head in his wife's lap, and was dead when the doctor reached him. Dr. Schwarts said that death might have been due to asphyxiation or possibly to heart failure, in which case the gas jet might have been turned on by contact with Mr. Wildman's hand as he fell.

Mrs. Wildman and her son said that the dead man had had no troubles either in business or at home, and they declared it incredible that he could have committed suicide. The police reported the case merely as a sudden death, with no suspicious circumstances, and notified Coroner Hellenstein, who will make an investigation.

BAR ASSOCIATION AFTER H. A. ROBINSON

Former Metropolitan Ry. Counsel Accused of Unprofessional Conduct in Damage Suits.

SIGNED QUEER VOUCHERS

Dinners to Judges, Payments to Court Clerks, Fees for "Roping" Plaintiffs' Witnesses—Charges Preferred.

An order made by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court yesterday disclosed that the Bar Association has brought charges against Henry A. Robinson, who for the fifteen years previous to 1906 was chief counsel of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company. No other complainant appears. The Bar Association alleges that the attorney was guilty of unprofessional conduct and malpractice in approving vouchers presented by his assistants, detectives and investigators, representing expenditures wholly improper in character and made for the purpose of delaying and defeating the claims of persons suing the railroad company. The Appellate Division has ordered the charges to be heard by a referee, who has not yet been named.

According to the testimony taken by the Bar Association and contained in its report to the court the charges cover the period between 1899 and 1902, when Mr. Robinson withdrew as counsel from the accident department of the company. One feature of the complaint has to do with 117 vouchers which the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association believes represent corrupt expenditures in some cases.

Included in the list are items purporting to be the expenses for taking three City Court Judges out to dinner. There are also other items, such as "getting in touch with" plaintiffs, witnesses, and physicians, paying policemen for a list of real witnesses of accidents when they had turned in bogus lists at the police station, buying hats and cigars for court clerks in Manhattan and Brooklyn, and paying clerks for special services in Manhattan, Queens, and Brooklyn; making payments to Sheriffs in Queens and Westchester Counties, buying dinners for court attendants who had been kept up late with juries, and entertaining plaintiffs' counsel, and sometimes "plaintiffs' counsels female stenographers."

The defense of Mr. Robinson before the Bar Association was that the 117 vouchers mentioned are but a small number of the thousands which went through his hands in the course of a year, and that while he was unable to say in many cases what the payments were for he denies that they were improper or corrupt. He insists that they were for the purpose of exposing frauds on his client and the court. Mr. Robinson argued that it was unreasonable to expect him to meet the charges after a lapse of eight to eleven years. He says he cannot find any of the papers in the suits in which the vouchers were drawn because all court papers prior to 1902 were sold to dealers in old paper.

For more than a year the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association has been considering Mr. Robinson's case, the first hearing being held in October, 1908, the complaint being signed by Finar Chrystie, counsel for the Grievance Committee on March 1, 1909. The complaint is contained in a large volume of printed pages and include such explanations as Mr. Robinson could give regarding the expenditures for the 117 vouchers. Mr. Robinson is represented in the disbarment proceedings by ex-Justice Edward W. Hatch and ex-Justice Joseph F. Daly.

Included in the 117 vouchers are the following:

Dec. 22, 1898, special expenses in Court House, $350.

March 31, 1899, special expenses in New York County Court House, check to Knox the hatter, $235.86.

Dec. 23, 1899, special disbursements and expenses in County Court House and City Court, December, 1899, $400.

Jan. 2, 1900, special and additional distribution, City and United States Circuit Courts, December, 1899, $180.

Amount paid for services County Court House and City Court, as per bill and check to E. M. Knox, hatter, $519.33.

Cater case, Sept. 26, amount paid Kings County, services of clerk in preparing cases for trial, $75.

Willis case, Sept. 25, special services at County Court House at Nassau County, trial before Marean and jury, $75.

Under various dates the complaint cites other alleged payments under such heads as: Brooklyn Court House, Assistant Clerk, $150; special expense, clerk, &c., New York District and Municipal Courts, $150; special disbursements and services, County Court House, and for information, $400; expense with calendar clerk, City Court, $25; O'Rourke case, expenses with Judges Hascall, Fitzsimmons, and Colon, City Court case, $10. Received payment, A. F. McCabe.

Here are more vouchers:

Klippert Case.—Disbursements preparing trial, night work, roping plaintiff, locating and interviewing his witnesses, learning the strength of his case, $18.25—C. O. Bagg.

Howan Case.—Expenses at court, interviewing witnesses, lunches, incidentals with officers during trial, $11.90—G. R. Bagg.

Jacobson Case.—Disbursements at Atlantic Garden with witnesses, one of plaintiff's, two evenings, $5.50; general expenses with his counsel securing information while case was on trial.

Tower Case.—Expenses with three court attendants, who remained in charge of the jury room from 1 to 9:30 P. M.; meals and incidentals, $25.

Holsman Case.—Special expenses with court officers.

Lufty Case.—Expenses two jurors, $1.25; disbursements at court with counsel, assistant, two doctors of plaintiff, and plaintiff's attorney, runner, $14.80; expenses talking with plaintiff's witnesses, $14.30.

Rice case, supper plaintiffs' witnesses, and two men in Post Office where he works and general incidentals getting them right, $16.50; paid J. E. J.'s friend, special services rendered, $20; special charges for investigating room and services U. S. Post Office, $125.

Friedman case, supper with two friends of plaintiff's attorney Green, while preparing case, $55—C. R. Bagg.

O'Shea case, (death,) expenses roping plaintiff, clerk's fee and disbursement, $40; expenses plaintiff and brother and roping them, $4.

Benas case, bill of $100.95, including disbursements shadowing plaintiff, his attorney and attorney's female typewriter, $31.75; expenses interviewing plaintiff's physician, $6.50.

Kaust case, case of accident, expenses at night, 125th Street and Park Avenue with plaintiffs' two witnesses, Fay and Bowers, and disbursements with friends for purpose of keeping them away from home, $11.00; hotel bills, suppers, and breakfasts, $5.50.

Coe case, expenses with three of our witnesses who had been approached by plaintiff.

Rosenzweig case, total, $46.30; roping two discharged conductors and straightening matters out, one of whom had gone to plaintiff's attorney, $9; expenses with the fathers of witnesses, $2.50.

It was explained by Attorney Robinson that the payment for a room in the Post Office was for the rent of an outside office used by the Post Office Inspectors, which was wanted for the use of the railroad investigator, Bagg, who drew some of the vouchers.

"What do you mean by 'roping'?" queried one of the committee.

"That is just slang for going out and getting close to them and finding out what they know about the accident," was the reply.

Mr. Robinson said the payment of $150 for Brooklyn between Jan. 1 and July 1, 1899, was for the regular Christmas presents. The clerks got hats and cigars, he said. The Manhattan court clerks got hats because they kept the railroad attorneys posted as to the position of the company's cases. He made this explanation regarding the payment of $10 to A. F. McCabe for expenses with City Court Judges Hascall, Conlon, and Fitzsimmons.

ROBBER KILLS WOMAN WOUNDS ANOTHER

Fires Twice After Being Told Four Lone Women Victims Had No Money.

Body Found on Railroad Tracks Resembles Intruder—Injured Woman, Shot in Head, May Die.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 31.—Miss Martha B. Blackstone was shot and instantly killed, and Miss Harriet Dow was wounded, probably mortally, to-night by a masked burglar in the home of Mrs. Sarah J. Dow, Miss Dow's mother, on Round Hill. The murderer then ran from the house.

Several hours later the body of a man was found on the tracks of the Boston & Maine Railroad at a bridge at Willimansett, eight miles north of this city. He had been run over by a train. From the description furnished by Mrs. Dow the police think that the dead man may have been the murderer.

Mrs. Dow and her two daughters, Harriet and Lucy, with Miss Blackstone, who was spending the evening with them, were seated in the parlor trying to solve a picture puzzle, when they were startled by hearing a man's voice demand money. Looking around they saw a masked burglar with a revolver in his hand confronting them. Mrs. Dow, who kept cool, told the burglar that there was no money in the house, but Miss Blackstone, thoroughly frightened, arose from the table and ran screaming toward an adjoining room.

The burglar called to her to stop yelling, and when she did not do so he fired, the bullet entering Miss Blackstone's heart. Then, turning on the group at the table, he fired another shot, which struck Miss Harriet Dow in the head, inflicting a wound that probably will cause her death. He then fled from the house, disappearing in the direction of the Boston & Maine Railroad tracks.

Miss Blackstone was a graduate of Smith College, and had been a teacher in the public schools of Springfield for several years. She was the daughter of C. J. Blackstone, a retired hardware dealer of this city. Miss Harriet Dow is also a teacher, and her sister Lucy teaches in the West Springfield High School. Mrs. Dow is a widow.

The women were not able to give a very accurate description of the burglar. As near as they could judge he was a young man, about 22 years old, and was about 5 feet 10 inches in height. He wore a black slouch hat, dark clothes, and had a black handkerchief or a piece of dark cloth tied around the lower portion of his face, concealing his features.

About a year ago the city was terrorized by a masked burglar, who, in a general way, corresponded with this description. He broke into a dozen or more houses, frightening men and women, but got very little booty. After a number of suspects had been gathered in by the police the mysterious burglar suddenly suspended operations. It is the theory of the police that the same fellow is responsible for to-night's crime.

The four women were alone in the house. The police believe that the man entered the house while the family were at dinner and concealed himself in a closet. Mrs. Dow remembered having locked all the windows and doors about 7 o'clock, and the police found all the locks turned and windows fastened.

Marks were found on the side of the house under a sheltered window that lead to the belief that the murderer entered in this manner. Footprints were plainly visible in the soft earth beneath the window.

WORK ON PRISON SITE STOPS.

Convicts Back from Bear Mountain—New Site on the Hudson.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURG, N. Y., March 31.—The proposed new State Prison which was originally planned to be built on the Bear Mountain site in Rockland County will be erected at some point along the Hudson River, South of Wappinger's Creek. This was announced to-day by Prison Commissioner W. Johnston McKay.

Mr. McKay said that the reason for building the new prison close to the metropolis is obvious, when it is understood that 75 per cent. of the prison inmates at Sing Sing are from New York City. To take the convicts up to the interior of the State would entail unnecessary expense.

The last detachment of convicts engaged in making the improvements at Bear Mountain, were taken back to Sing Sing to-day. The commission has decided to retain its hold on the Bear Mountain property for the present, but not with a view to placing prison buildings there. All improvements made on the Bear Mountain site prior to the abandonment of work to-day will be of use to the Park Commission in connection with the proposed State park.

Say Prices Have Been Raised at Memorial Grave Decorating Time.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., March 31.—Early preparations are being made by G. A. R. posts in Pennsylvania for the annual Memorial Day exercises. Adjt. Sidney Brauff of Post 88 has been requested to have the floral committee consider a plan of placing artificial flowers on the graves this year in place of plants and cut flowers.

It has been a custom for several years for school children to donate plants. Exorbitant prices have been charged by the florists, however, and the suggestion of using artificial flowers is meeting with great approval.

Local G. A. R. people say they have figures showing that prices on flowers have been raised unduly about Memorial Day for six years.

ALDRIDGE CARRIES PRIMARY DECISIVELY

Opposition Develops in Only Two Wards and His Nomination Is Assured.

WASHINGTON TAKES A HAND

Democrats to Send Spellbinders in Hope of Accomplishing Another Turnover as in Massachusetts.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 31.—Despite the broadside which the press of Rochester has fired at George W. Aldridge, Republican State Committeeman from Monroe County, since the announcement of his candidacy for the vacancy in the Thirty-second Congressional District caused by the death of James Breck Perkins, Aldridge will be nominated on Saturday. To-day the primaries of both parties were held. In the Republican Party the result was a decisive victory for the organization of which Aldridge is the boss.

In only two wards did the wave of indignation indicated by protests in the newspapers find expression. This was in the Fourteenth and Eleventh Wards, where the opposition to the State Committeeman took the form of contests by the anti-machine men. In the Fourteenth Ward, where the opposition was strongest, the Aldridge forces won out by 380 to 120. In the Eleventh Ward the machine delegates to Saturday's convention were elected by 239 to 37.

The vote was the largest polled at any primary in recent years, not exceeded even in a Presidential year. News from Washington that the minority in Congress, in the hope of bringing about a repetition of the Massachusetts turnover, which resulted in the election of Eugene N. Foss, would send a battalion of spellbinders into Monroe County next week in the interest of the Democratic candidate, put the organization men on their mettle, and every resource of the machine has been and will be utilized to prevent the defeat of Aldridge.

The wavering ones in the Republican ranks fell into line upon the publication of Aldridge's reply to the Rev. A. S. Crapsey's open letter, which was given to the morning papers late last night and was well digested before the primaries opened. Mr. Aldridge's categorical answers to the minister's pointed questions, it is conceded, won him many votes in to-day's contest. The further evidence given by Elijah R. Kennedy at the insurance investigation in New York to-day did not reach Rochester in time for the general edition of afternoon papers. Up to a late hour to-night Mr. Aldridge had made no reply to Mr. Kennedy's charge that the $1,000 was a personal gift for services rendered, and not a campaign contribution. This was Mr. Aldridge's answer:

> Rochester, N. Y., March 30, 1910.
> Rev. Algernon S. Crapsey:
>
> My Dear Dr. Crapsey: Permit me to acknowledge the courtesy of your open letter of inquiry, and to reply thereto.
>
> I have already explained the circumstances under which Mr. Kennedy made the contribution of money referred to in your letter. Prior to that time I had interested myself in the passage of an amendment to the tax law, but only after receiving the assurances of the late Hon. Frederick Cook and Mr. H. F. Atwood, both of whom were then officers of the Rochester German Insurance Company, that the proposed amendment to the tax law was designed to benefit the insurance companies and policy holders alike. That this legislation did, in fact, accomplish just that purpose is presumptively established by the recent revision of the tax law, made by trained experts, in which this particular provision was reenacted and later approved by Gov. Hughes.
>
> Mr. Kennedy's contribution was not made in contemplation of any legislation. It was purely voluntary, after the law had been passed, and after the Legislature had adjourned. The funds thus contributed were used, as I have already said, for the benefit of the Republican Party of Monroe County.
>
> I answer categorically the one question of fact upon which you interrogate me by saying I do not think "it is right to deal secretly with the various interests affected by legislation, and to take money payment also secretly, either to further or to prevent legislation," and never in my life have I done such a thing. You are pleased to draw a number of unwarranted inferences from a very simple fact, and these inferences I do not admit. Neither do I believe that the public will condemn me for a transaction which had in it no element of secrecy, and no intention of wrong. Very sincerely yours,
>
> GEORGE W. ALDRIDGE.

Delegates to the Democratic Convention elected at to-day's primaries were uninstructed. The Democratic County Committee has not decided yet upon a candidate. Early in the afternoon it was believed that ex-County Judge John D. Lynn was in the lead for the nomination. It was said then that the choice had narrowed to the former Judge and John Sibley Whalen, ex-Secretary of State. To-night it was intimated that pressure was being brought to bear upon James S. Haven, a leading lawyer and a former law partner of James Breck Perkins, to accept the nomination, but it was admitted that probably no decision would be reached until Saturday.

With the organization men determined to stand by the leader, as evidenced by to-day's primaries, the Democratic nomination, it is conceded even by the Democrats, is a dubious prize. The fact that the Democrats have no coherent organization makes Mr. Aldridge's victory appear more probable. The date of the election favors his chances, the farmers will be busy with their planting, and hundreds of them will not spare the time to go to the polls, and the machine men will be out in force.

TRACED TYPHOID TO MILK.

Dr. Biggs So Reports to the Health Board—Dr. Lederle Warns Consumers.

Several of this city's typhoid scares are directly traceable to the city's milk supply, according to a recent report of Dr. Herman M. Biggs to the Health Department. For this reason Health Commissioner Lederle, Health Officer Doty, and Police Commissioner Baker met yesterday and passed a resolution advising that all milk used here should be either boiled or "pasteurised" before being used in this city's households, unless it is "certified, guaranteed, or inspected" milk.

The Health Department's present method of inspecting dairies and creameries, both in and out of the city, is very thorough, according to the health officers. But no amount of inspection can keep milk from being tainted with typhoid bacilli by being handled by persons who have for years been carrying the typhoid bacilli latent in their systems. The Health Board recently traced several typhoid cases to a milkman who had had an attack of typhoid forty-six years ago. [illegible]

French Senate Approves Government's Plans—German Supremacy Denied.

PARIS, March 31.—Gen. Brun, Minister of War, replied in the Senate to-day to criticisms on the inactivity of the Department of Aeronautics as compared with that department in Germany. He said the strength of that country in aeronautics had been exaggerated.

Germany, he said, had six units at the outside. France, while only three were actually in commission, had four others. The respective merits of dirigible balloons and aeroplanes were receiving the most careful attention, and he proposed to ask Parliament for $4,000,000 in four installments, to be used for aeronautical purposes.

The Senate approved these statements and adopted a vote of confidence.

Novelist's Condition from Pneumonia Is Considered Dangerous.

LONDON, March 31.—Marie Corelli, the novelist, is dangerously ill of pneumonia at Stratford-on-Avon.

Miss Corelli's home in Stratford-on-Avon is known as Hall's Croft. This house 250 years ago was the home of Susannah Shakespeare, who married Dr. John Hall. It has all the picturesque appurtenances of the Elizabethan period—gabled windows, climbing ivy, low ceilings, and the rest.

Her life there has been not without strife, as some of the townspeople do not like her, and she has never hesitated to express her opinion of them.

TO CURE RHEUMATIC FEVER.

Dr. Rosenthal of Paris Declares His New Serum Is Effective.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 31.—Dr. George Rosenthal, clinical chief at the St. Antoine Hospital here, has discovered a serum which, he declares, is a perfect cure for rheumatic fever. He obtains it from horses after inoculating them with rheumatism cultures.

Dr. Rosenthal says that the serum entirely eliminates the grave after effects of acute rheumatic attacks, such as heart weakness, deafness, and St. Vitus's dance. He asserts that cases have been successfully treated with it. Injections of the serum are made in the region of the stomach.

The Academy of Sciences has appointed a special commission to investigate the new remedy.

TORNADO SWEEPS AUSTRIA.

Causes Loss of Life and Ties Up Land and Water Transportation.

TRIESTE, Austria, March 31.—The fiercest tornado in years, accompanied by a heavy snow, has caused loss of life and much damage in Southern Austria. A passenger train was blown off the rails near Muggia and rolled down an embankment, killing four persons and injuring eighteen.

Steamship navigation has been suspended and great damage done in the new harbor. Several steamers of the Austrian Lloyd Line dragged their anchors and narrowly escaped disaster.

VIENNA, March 31.—This city is suffering greatly from a heavy snowstorm, which has extended over a considerable part of the country. Many accidents are reported and several deaths, and the tramway, telegraph, and telephone services are practically at a standstill.

MISS MORGAN AN INSURGENT.

So Says Gov. Stubbs After Meeting J. P. Morgan's Daughter.

Special to The New York Times.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 31.—Gov. Stubbs of Kansas returned from Emporia to-night, where he visited with Mrs. J. P. Morgan and daughter at the home of William Allen White. He liked Miss Morgan. He says she is one of the greatest women he has ever known, considering all the circumstances.

"She is an insurgent," the Governor said to-day. "She is a square dealer. She is handsome and has a mind of exceeding brilliancy. When it is considered that she is the daughter of a multi-millionaire her case is remarkable. She is able to see the human side of things. She wants to know all about the conditions in the West. If that young woman keeps a level head and develops as she had developed in her years she will be one of the leading women of the country."

BOOTS FOR MINISTER GAGE.

Scorns Shining Pumps and "Lord Fauntleroy Pants" for Court Functions

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, March 31.—With eighteen new pairs of long-legged boots Henry T. Gage, ex-Governor of California, left to-day for King Manuel's Court in Lisbon to be American Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Portugal.

Gov. Gage and his boots are an institution in California, but when his appointment was announced he received from a London tailor, who makes a specialty of diplomatic outfitting, a circular, sternly informing him that he must provide himself with smalls, silk stockings, and shiny pumps.

According to the best information from the firing line, the newly appointed diplomat threw the diagrams of what he called "Lord Fauntleroy pants" into the waste paper basket, and sent out for those eighteen pairs of high boots.

"I'm going to go dressed as an American," said he, "and in full-length trousers. Not to mention boots."

Since his youth Mr. Gage has stuck to real boots. When he was elected Governor his friends chuckled, and said that they had him, for they said: "They don't make patent leather boots." But when the inaugural took place the Governor-elect triumphantly led the grand march in a pair of patent leather dress boots.

LINKS INSURANCE IN ALBANY GRAFT

Fire, Casualty, and Life Companies Aligned Through 'Andy' Hamilton and Buckley.

THE $1,000 ALDRIDGE GOT

Was Given for His Personal Use, E. R. Kennedy Testifies, Not for Campaign Purposes.

McCALL FINDS A DEFENDER

Legislature Plans a New Investigation, Which, Rumor Says, the Life Companies Have Prompted.

The ghost of Andrew Hamilton came back yesterday and hung all day around the big room at 165 Broadway, where Supt. William H. Hotchkiss of the State Insurance Department is holding an inquiry has so broadened that it now by the fire insurance companies at Albany during the last ten years. The inquiry has so broadened that it now includes not only fire but casualty and surety companies in its exposures, and the frequent mention of the name of the man who was legislative generalissimo of the New York Life in the days of John A. McCall has linked the graft machine of the fire and casualty concerns to that which the life companies maintained in the days before the Armstrong investigation of 1905.

Other interesting testimony brought out in the course of the investigation came in statements from E. R. Kennedy of the insurance firm of Wood & Kennedy, who was legislative manager for the insurance people for twenty-one years down to 1901. Mr. Kennedy has previously testified that George W. Aldridge, the Republican boss of Rochester, who has recently announced his intention of being nominated for Congress there, accepted $1,000 of the $8,311 he paid out in connection with the passage of two insurance bills, which the fire insurance interests wanted in 1901.

$1,000 to Aldridge Personally.

Kennedy testified yesterday, after Supt. Hotchkiss had called his attention to subsequent interviews with Aldridge [illegible] the money was contributed for [illegible] ro County Republican organization [illegible] used for campaign purposes, [illegible] the conversations he had with Aldridge no word was spoken to indicate [illegible] was anything but a personal contribution to be applied to personal uses.

Mr. Kennedy had to refresh his memory, when he came back on the witness stand yesterday, with a transcript of his personal account in the Nassau Bank, covering the year 1901. The account showed the receipt of the check for $8,311 which went to reimburse him for a part of his expenditures in the Legislature of that year in connection with the bills in which the fire insurance interests were concerned. The check by which Aldridge got his $1,000 was also put in evidence, and then Mr. Hotchkiss asked the witness:

Q.—Did Mr. Aldridge say anything in your conversation with him at that time or subsequently to the effect that the check was to go to the Monroe County Republican campaign fund? A.—No.

Q.—You did not so understand? A.—No.

Q.—Do you think he did? A.—No, [illegible] as I could judge his mind.

Q.—So that so far as you know, that was strictly personal? A.—It was.

New Connecting Links.

William H. Buckley, Hamilton's understudy and a protégé of John A. McCall, was definitely connected with the Hamilton organization at Albany in the testimony, from a time antedating his exit from the Insurance Department in 1901 down to the general cessation of Hamilton's activities when the life insurance scandals were exposed. Buckley had already been shown to have been in some manner associated with E. E. McCall, now Justice, who in 1901 was a lawyer with offices in the New York Life Building. No explanation came yesterday from Justice McCall of his connection with the flotation of the International Banking and Trust Company, in which Buckley got 100 shares of stock, nor the use of his bank account to carry over Buckley's loan with the Phenix Fire Insurance Company when that company wished to get them out of its annual statement to the State Insurance Department.

In the person of Stewart Browne, the banker, who was the first President of the International Banking and Trust Company, which E. E. McCall incorporated, the connecting link was furnished between old and new operations by insurance interests at Albany. Mr. Browne, whose last public appearances have been through letters to the newspapers in support of the campaign conducted by President Darwin P. Kingsley of the New York Life against the present insurance laws of this State, turned up yesterday with a general defense of E. E. McCall in the Buckley transactions and in the International Banking and Trust Company.

Anxiety to Hear from Judge McCall.

Mr. Browne offered himself a willing sacrifice upon the altar of investigation, but Supt. Hotchkiss was not quiet ready for him, and accordingly his examination has gone over until this morning. The statements contained in the long letter which Mr. Browne sent to the Superintendent in defending the transactions to which reference has been made, have made Mr. Hotchkiss all the more anxious to hear from Justice McCall, who has so far not evinced any desire to go on the witness stand.

Mr. Kennedy's memory, when [illegible] fied, still proved intermittent [illegible] individuals to whom he had [illegible] in connection with the passage [illegible] bills which the fire insurance [illegible] wanted that year. He produced [illegible] were names of Commodore P. V. [illegible] then a legislative lawyer, and [illegible] Rhodes, an insurance man at Auburn, who induced the National Board of Fire Underwriters to pay him $20,000 in 1900 for services, real or supposed, in conne tion with the repeal of the Spanish war stamp tax at Washington.

Mr. Kennedy surprised Supt. Hotchkiss somewhat by explaining that these were the influential Republican politicians to whom particularly he had reference. After accounting for their fees—$2,500 to Vedder and $800 to Rhodes—a matter of $700 or $800 remained, which Mr. Kennedy thought might have gone to some influential up-State politicians whose names have escaped him. So, Mr. Hotchkiss, after the witness had described the pain he had suffered at seeing himself classed in the newspapers as a lobbyist, sent him back home to think some more with a reminder that he might be summoned from time to time, as the investigation proceeds.

New Legislative Inquiry.

Word came down to the investigation room yesterday of the resolution introduced in the Assembly at Albany, providing for an investigation by a legislative committee of all matters relating to fire insurance companies during the Summer recess. Mr. Hotchkiss would not comment upon it more than to say that he knew nothing about it, and was in no way responsible for its introduction. Some shrewd guesses were made, however, that some part of the inspiration behind this resolution might have come from life insurance sources, which are not particularly pleased with the way in which the legislative doings of the life and the fire companies are being paraded in double harness at the present time.

It may be said, however, that the action of the Legislature on this resolution will in no way affect the conduct of the investigation which is now under way. Supt. Hotchkiss has broad powers under the act giving him the general right of investigation.

The alliance between Andy Hamilton and William H. Buckley was the subject of a most interesting tale by Henry C. Willcox, Vice President and General Solicitor of the American Surety Company, who was a witness at the afternoon session yesterday. Mr. Willcox had the best memory and the frankest manner of speech of any witness thus far upon the stand; in fact, his power of recollection was that which an ordinary business man might be expected to have if he was undertaking to tell the truth. He started right in by saying, when asked what he went to Albany for, that it was "to defeat and pass" legislation.

Back Again to 1901.

The year 1901 was the one in question. There were two bills which Mr. Willcox's company was interested in and three amendments to the Code of Civil Procedure. One of these bills, and the most important one, was that which Mr. Kennedy had had introduced, seeking to circumvent the decision of the Court of Appeals with respect to the taxation of the unearned premium of fire companies. The bill, as originally drafted, applied only to fire companies. Mr. Kennedy and other representatives of the fire insurance interests were up in Albany in force and had influential friends at work for them, so, when Mr. Willcox, having been turned down by the fire people as to amending the bill so as to include the casualty companies, sought to get in touch with the sources of legislative authority, he found himself up against a stone wall.

Mr. Willcox wandered around the Capitol, but he couldn't start anything. Finally, having heard of the activities of Andrew Hamilton, he decided that that gentleman would be the one to retain. But Hamilton was not around, and Willcox, inquiring for him, was advised to seek out Buckley, then still Third Deputy of Insurance. He found Buckley and this is his account of what happened:

"I was in the Ten Eyck Hotel. Buckley got Hamilton on the wire and I stepped into the booth and told him the situation. Hamilton wanted to talk to Buckley, so Buckley went into the booth, and when he came out he said that Hamilton would take care of the matter."

Attorney Alfred Hurrell, who was conducting the examination, asked the witness where he was in the habit of meeting Hamilton, and Mr. Willcox replied:

"While the Legislature was in session I had occasion to inquire for Hamilton, and I was told that I would probably find him at the Insurance Department."

"Did he hang out at the Insurance Department?" demanded Mr. Hotchkiss, interrupting the examination.

"Well," said the witness, "Buckley was there and Buckley and Hamilton were generally together, particularly in the evening. If I did not find Hamilton at any time, I would generally find Buckley and he would look up Hamilton and tell me where he was."

Gov. Odell Gave a Lift.

Q.—Did you tell Hamilton of your inability to get attention in the Legislature? A.—I did.

Q.—What arrangement did you make with him? A.—None. He sent in his bill later.

Q.—What else did you do in connection with that matter? A.—I was in Albany two or three times more, but I did not pay any more attention to the bill. I thought I did not need to.

Q.—You were content to leave matters with Mr. Hamilton and believed that he would take care of them all right? A.—That was my belief, and the result showed that it was well founded. I remember, for instance, that after this Gov. Odell indicated his belief that the surety companies ought to be included in the Unearned Premium Reserve bill, and they were.

Q.—Did you get a bill from Hamilton? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you pay it? A.—I objected to its size, and he called on me about it. I told him in substance that I thought it was too large, and we finally came to a compromise.

Q.—Did he say anything about disbursing part of the money to other people? A.—He suggested that he had assumed certain obligations and made certain promises that he could not keep unless the bill was paid. I tried to get other companies interested, but I only got two, and the American Surety paid most of it.

Q.—You were not interested in finding out whether any of the money represented by that bill had been used as grease in Albany? A.—I had my suspicion.

The testimony of the next fifteen minutes made it plain that Hamilton, while his bill was cut from $10,000 to $6,469 by the American Surety Company, made up most of the balance by another bill for $2,500, which the National Surety Company paid, and then, with Buckley's assistance, importuned the American Surety Company for the next two years to get $1,000 more. Buckley, in fact, got accustomed to dunning the American Surety Company, both with and without suggestions as to hostile legislation, so that in his final letter, written Dec. 11, 1903, he referred to the bill as "the balance due Judge Hamilton and myself on the 1901 matter."

Buckley was still in the Insurance Department while Andrew Hamilton performed the services in connection with that bill.

Willcox and Hamilton parted company in the Spring of 1901, after they had disagreed about this bill, and the former said that Buckley had even gone so far as to stop him in Broadway and ask him about the remaining $1,000 which Hamilton wanted. In this connection a significant little memorandum accompanied one of the Hamilton letters. It read:

"Send check to 'A. H.' for $1,000, care E. D. Wood, Hoffman House, New York."

The E. D. Wood was, of course, Gene Wood, who had something of a reputation himself as a lobbyist and who was a warm friend and admirer of Col. Hamilton, the greatest lobbyist of them all.

The letters relating to this subject divide themselves into two classes, namely, those which were written in the Spring of 1901 in the first effort to get the additional $1,000 and another series, which began at the opening of the legislative session of 1902 and extended through that year and along to December, 1903. In one of the first letters Hamilton speaks very plainly of the promises that he had made in connection with the passage of legislation. This letter and one of the early dunning letters received from Buckley follow:

Hamilton to Willcox June 7, 1901:

> My Dear Mr. Willcox: Passing through on my way to Albany, I find your letter, which has been forwarded here. Its contents surprise me. My opinion that all of the companies should share does not alter the fact that the expense was definitely known to and distinctly assured by you. Wholly through my interference the National came in as they did; what occurred during my absence being the detail of time and method of doing it. I did say to you that rather than have the matter fail after we had gone so far and made our promises, that in order not to have them broken I would cut myself off. This was before final action was taken and its acceptance distinctly by you before the National had agreed to help. I shall be very busy from now until my departure—too busy to call or to discuss this matter. If the American Surety is indebted to me for services rendered—balance $1,000—let it pay it. It it does not there is an end of the matter. Yours truly,
>
> ANDREW HAMILTON.

Buckley to Willcox July 19, 1901:

> Dear Mr. Willcox: I have word from Judge Hamilton, dated Rome, 5th inst., advising me that you did not pay the balance on the $1,000 due on account of bill rendered. I am sorry to learn this, as I told the Judge you informed me "You would settle with him for the balance due in another way," and expected, of course, you had done so, the failure of which is embarrassing. I feel sure that with your experience and knowledge of the services rendered, you know the charges made by Judge Hamilton are most reasonable, and therefore will be most grateful if you will send me check to Judge Hamilton's order for the balance due, so that I can deposit same to his credit here and so settle up the matter. Trusting this will find you well, and with best wishes for yourself and Mrs. Willcox, believe me, very sincerely yours,

> WILLIAM H. BUCKLEY.

Buckley a Persistent Collector.

The letters which open the Winter of 1902, took up the correspondence again after it had lapsed, Buckley being the negotiator. He was as friendly with Mr. Willcox as if there had never been any misunderstanding with Andy Hamilton, and, writing to the American Surety man, when the latter was confined to his home by illness, expressed deep concern over his condition, which was only equaled by the concern which he felt for the interest of the surety company in view of legislation that was about to be introduced in the session of 1902. This legislation eventually materialized with a bill, said by Buckley to have the support of Controller Grout, to repeal the law enacted the previous year, which reversed the decision of the Court of Appeals regarding the taxation of unearned fire insurance premiums. It was a very pretty little club to swing in an effort to collect $1,000 or more, as will appear from the three letters which follow. The first two relate to the course of this bill in the Legislature, and the last one is a final plea, in which, it will be noted, Buckley seeks to excite Mr. Willcox's charitable sympathies as a means of obtaining the long lost $1,000. Here are the letters.

Buckley to Willcox, Feb. 7, 1903:

> Dear Mr. Willcox: I was much pained when I called you up at your office or Friday to learn that you had been so seriously ill, but was glad that the worst was over and that you were on the improve. I myself have undergone a siege, being convalescent from a severe attack of typhoid fever which overtook me about the middle of October. What I desired to confer with you about was regarding the within bill. I am reliably informed that the Governor would like to see it passed as well as Controller Grout. I learn that the National are ready to join to protect their interests with you and the lawyers, which action must be done at once. Kindly have whoever is taking care of your affairs confer with me with reference to the matter. Regretting that I am obliged to intrude upon your time while you are ill and trusting that you will continue to improve, I am, yours with best wishes.
>
> WILLIAM H. BUCKLEY.

Buckley to Willcox, Feb. 11, 1902:

> I have arranged on my own responsibility that no action be taken by the committee this week, which they under ordinary circumstances would not be likely to do, but would suggest under the circumstances that your interests be protected and arrangements to that effect ought to be made this week.

Buckley to Willcox, Dec. 11, 1903:

> Dear Mr. Willcox: I am aware that it is not necessary to remind you regarding the balance due Judge Hamilton and myself on the 1901 matter, in order that you may endeavor to bring a settlement about, because you told me that you would attend to this in your own way, sometime when you had an opportunity. It occurred to me that if the matter could be adjusted this month it would be the means of not only pleasing me but as well it would give some unexpected help to a very worthy charity in this city, namely, St. Peter's Hospital, which is building an addition and needs assistance very much. Trusting you are well and with very best wishes, believe me very sincerely yours,
>
> WILLIAM H. BUCKLEY.

Mr. Willcox testified yesterday that he learned upon his own inquiry that Controller Grout was not behind the bill in question. This came with unusual interest for the reason that Buckley made 1903 one of his banner years with the fire insurance companies, and one of the measures which he waved before their faces was this same old bill to repeal the unearned premium tax measure of the year before. Mr. Willcox advised his company not to do anything about it, and the company did not, so the matter rests to this day.

Mr. Willcox, who sought in vain to get the National Surety Company to help out on the Andy Hamilton fee in 1901, discovered yesterday for the first time that that company had itself paid Hamilton on account of the same services $2,530 direct. For some reason the National Surety people did not take the American Surety people into their confidence, and therefore Hamilton had the opportunity to dun Mr. Willcox for the additional $1,000, which he never received.

There was one very interesting development in the testimony of William J. Griffin, Vice President and general solicitor for the National Surety Company. His evidence at the outset flowed smoothly enough, barring the payment of $2,530 to Hamilton in 1901. He could find but two payments by his company in connection with legislation, and they were innocent little payments of $150 each to A. J. Parker, Jr., in 1908 and 1909 in connection with some automobile legislation.

But here, once more, turned up a certain letter from Buckley from which it appeared that William D. Joyce, President of the National Surety Company, and Buckley were in intimate and extended correspondence throughout the legislative session of 1908 in an effort to obtain the passage of bills regarding bonds to be filed by automobile owners and by chauffeurs. The effect of these bills, without going into detail, was summed up in the statement of Mr. Hurrell that they would eliminate nearly all competition among surety companies on these bonds except for the very largest companies. Buckley did not succeed in getting those particular bills passed in 1908, but his services to the National Surety people were such that President Joyce asked him to send in his bill. No record of the payment could be found by Mr. Griffin, and it now remains for Mr. Joyce to get back from California and tell Supt. Hochtkiss just how these services were paid for. The Superintendent is anxious to know, because Buckley was not registered as a lobbyist in 1908, and some serious consequences will await him if it is shown that he was interested in the promotion of legislation that year.

Buckley's Fee from the Travelers.

The Buckley-Hamilton story was still further developed by John B. Lunger, Vice President of the Travelers' Insurance Company, who went to the Travelers' in 1902 from the New York Life, and prior to that service was with the Prudential of Newark. Mr. Lunger admitted that he knew Andrew Hamilton, Buckley, and E. E. McCall when he was with the New York Life. He was asked to tell who it was that recommended Buckley, the fledgling lawyer, to the Travelers' of Hartford so enthusiastically in 1903 that the Travelers' forthwith employed him, and paid him $21,400 for something less than five months' service. He declined to answer, explaining that he was moved by respect for the dead, and would give Mr. Hotchkiss the name of Buckley's sponsor in private. Mr. Hotchkiss asked the single question as to whether the witness had reference to Andrew Hamilton, and Mr. Lunger said that he had not.

Then Mr. Hotchkiss took up the checks with which Buckley was paid by the Travelers', both dated May 20, 1903, one for $10,000 and one for $8,900. The former check was cashed at the New York Life and deposited by the New York Life in its account in the New York Security and Trust Company. Not only this, that particular check was sent to Buckley in care of the President of the New York Life Insurance Company. Mr. Hotchkiss picked it up.

"Why did you ask my examiner, Mr. Smith, when he got this check from your files to tell me not to use it?" demanded the Superintendent.

"I didn't," said the witness.

Mr. Hotchkiss drew from E. R. Kennedy the statement that $2,500 had gone to Commodore Veddyer and the admission that, to the best of Mr. Kennedy's knowledge, no bill was rendered and no receipt taken for this money. Next, Mr. Kennedy asid, he gave $80 to Emmett Rhodes of Auburn, and he thought that this money was paid about Sept. 13, 1901, because he found a draft of that amount against his account on the date mentioned. He was very hazy about the services which Rhodes performed, and, indeed, about Rhodes himself, until Mr. Hotchkiss pointed out, from correspondence which has recently turned up, that way back in the Winter of 1900 Mr. Kennedy and Rhodes went over to Washington together concerning the stamp tax repeal, and that Kennedy O. K.'d vouchers for Rhodes's retainer and disbursements of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Mr. Kennedy was much surprised that his memory once more proved so fickle. Finally Mr. Hotchkiss said to him:

Q.—As I recollect your testimony on the first day, you said that you distributed money among certain influential New York State politicians. The only one you mention is Mr. Aldridge. A.—I consider Commodore Vedder and Mr. Rhodes in that category.

Q.—But there still remains some other cheap ones who got the $700 or $800 that you had left after caring for Mr. Aldridge, Mr. Vedder, and Mr. Rhodes? A.—They were not cheap ones. They did not do so much as the others.

Q.—So you cannot tell me who got the rest of the money? A.—Not to-day.

Q.—When can you? A.—I don't know.

"Well," remarked the Superintendent, "you'll have a chance to come back here again."

Mr. Kennedy had a couple of his ancient reminiscences yesterday, but both were thirty years old, and, although they involved the deeds of two very wicked persons, one of whom approached him in a Pullman car and another one in the old Delavan Hotel in Albany, he couldn't give names or specifications in sufficient detail to make them of much value. But in telling how he had indignantly rejected these advances he remarked with pride: "My friends were Mr. Fassett, Mr. Hendricks, and Mr. Loomis of Batavia. I never dealt with middlemen."

Supt. Hotchkiss aksed the witness what he meant by middlemen, and Mr. Kennedy then described his conception of the evil of "extra constitutional government," in which he said the machine had become a "cancerous growth" more powerful than the voice of the people.

"In the last two Democratic Legislatures," observed Mr. Kennedy, "there was an office in the old Trinity Building, at 111 Broadway, where you went when you wanted bills passed by the Legislature."

"And," added Supt. Hotchkiss, "there was also, through many Republican Legislatures, an office on Broadway where you went if you wanted bills passed by the Legislature."

"Yes," replied the witness.

"They were not far apart," remarked Mr. Hotchkiss.

"They were not," remarked Mr. Kennedy.

"It has hurt me deeply to be classed as a lobbyist," Mr. Kennedy remarked, and after this thought had been commended to the newspaper men present by the State Superintendent, Mr. Kennedy was excused.

The investigation will continue at 11 o'clock this morning.

"Get Mr. Smith," said the Superintendent.

The Deputy came in and reaffirmed his original story, with the single variation that the request was made of him in the first instance by a subordinate and concurred in by the witness.

"Was that not an extraordinary request to make of a public official in this State?" asked the Superintendent.

Mr. Lunger still said that he did not make it.

In reply to other questions he admitted that although he ordered Buckley's bill paid after conversation with Buckley he did not know what in detail Buckley's activities had been in Albany and was aware that the company's general counsel and local Albany counsel had been concerned in the effort to secure the passage of the legislation which the Travellers' desired. Mr. Lunger said he was much surprised at the amount of Buckley's bill and obtained permission to take the matter up with Buckley. The two, therefore, got together at the Manhattan Hotel in this city and Buckley insisted that his bill could not be reduced.

When Buckley Worked for the State.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I went back and said I could not get a reduction.

Q.—Did you know that Buckley had been practicing law less than two years? A.—It did not occur to me.

Q.—Did you know Buckley intimately? A.—No.

Q.—Here is a letter which begins "My dear Buckley." Why do you say that? A.—Because around the New York Life we knew him either as Willie or as Buckley.

Q.—He was well acquainted around the New York Life when he was still in the Insurance Department? A.—Yes.

Q.—He was a protege of President McCall? A.—I think the President started him in the Insurance Department as a clerk.

Q.—What did Buckley do to justify such a charge? A.—He said that he had been very busy for several months, and to meet the opposition of other companies he had to do a great deal of explaining to members of the Legislature.

Q.—Did he tell you what persons he had importuned? A.—No.

Q.—Did you consider his services worth at the rate of $15,000 or [illegible] a year? A.—No.

Q.—Do you recall any similar case in which your company, one of the greatest in the country, has paid $21,400 or any similar sum to a lawyer of less than two years' practice for a service that could not exceed five months? A.—No.

Mr. Lunger was very hazy, indeed, about the cashing of the check for $10,000 which went through the New York Life, and Superintendent Hotchkiss tripped him up once or twice in his memory of what he actually did know about this transaction. Mr. Lunger was somewhat disposed to protest.

"Why do you drag in another company?" he demanded.

"That other company is pretty well in now," commented Mr. Hotchkiss.

Q.—Did you ever hear of the yellow dog fund? A.—Only through the newspapers.

Q.—Do you know who had charge of it? A.—I do not.

Letter Defending E. E. McCall.

Q.—Wasn't the kennel in charge of Andrew Hamilton? A.—The dead?

"Yes, the dead," said the Superintendent.

"I cannot testify about the 'yellow dog,'" said Mr. Lunger. "The animal was never in my keeping."

There were two other checks paid Buckley by the Travellers' in 1903, one for $1,000 in June, and one for $1,500 on November 30. The memory of the witness was equally faulty in regard to both of these checks.

Stewart Browne sent his letter defending E. E. McCall to Mr. Hotchkiss by messenger at the beginning of the day, offering to appear as a witness and asking that the letter be given out to the newspapers. Mr. Hotchkiss, although he was not yet quite ready to examine Mr. Browne, called him as a witness at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and read the letter in evidence. It reads:

> I was the inceptor, organizer, and first President of the International Banking and Trust Company, and caused the special bill incorporating such company to be introduced in the Legislature, and personally in Albany had Gov. Roosevelt sign it in my presence. I, therefore, assume full responsibility for its introduction, passage, and signature, and am cognizant of everything pertaining thereto. Not one dollar was ever paid by me directly or indirectly to Mr. Buckley or any one else in connection with said bill, nor do I know of any having been paid, nor do I know of any promises of payment having been made, nor can I see how any could have been paid or made by any one without my knowledge. If Mr. Buckley aided the passage of the bill in any way, I have no knowledge of it; Justice Edward E. McCall had nothing to do with its introduction, passage, or signature.
>
> The paid in capital stock of the International was $1,000,000 and paid in surplus $500,000, the stock being issued at 150. Every stockholder including Justice McCall paid $150 per share without abatement of any kind, direct or indirect, whether present or future, and without promise, direct or indirect, of any future abatement.
>
> Mr. Buckley obtained two loans from the International on securities as collateral and with a margin satisfactory to me and to our committee as appears by the minutes; such securities were owned by him personally, and to my personal knowledge owned by him months before said loans were made, and I do not believe any one had any interest direct or indirect in said securities excepting himself. These loans were negotiated by Mr. Buckley with me personally in the usual manner, and neither Justice McCall, (then a practicing lawyer,) a then Director, or any other Director, had any knowledge of said proposed loans until presented by me before the committee. Neither Mr. Buckley or any one else borrowed from the International on the collateral security of its own stock.
>
> I am cognizant of the financial assistance that Mr. Justice McCall, out of friendship personally extended to Mr. Buckley when the latter's loans were called by the North American Trust Company, and Mr. Justice McCall had nothing to do with replacing (for a lesser amount) such loans with the Phenix, and knew nothing about it until advised by Mr. Buckley at the time he asked Mr. McCall to temporarily help him by lending him the difference between the amount to be paid the North American Trust Company and the amount Mr. Buckley was to receive from the Phenix. Mr. Buckley returned to Albany before the transfer was actually made, but before leaving he instructed Mr. Sheldon of the Phenix to send the latter's check to Mr. McCall, who was to attend to the transfer, Mr. Buckley instructing Mr. McCall to indorse the Phenix's check in Buckley's name, deposit it in Mr. McCall's bank account, and for the latter to give his own check for the larger amount to the trust company, all of which was done.
>
> When Mr. Buckley's loan in the Phenix was called in January, 1901 he applied to Mr. McCall to assist him, which the latter did by giving him his personal check on Jan. 14, 1901, to take up said loan; if Mr. Buckley took up his loan in December, 1900, as has been publicly suggested, to deceive the Insurance Department, it was not Mr. McCall's check that paid it; if taken up in December, no matter by whom, there was no intent to deceive the Insurance Department, as there was no necessity for so doing.
>
> The loan was legally made, on securities authorized by law to be lent upon, the margin was satisfactory, and the borrower was not prohibited by law from making or obtaining such loan. If the Phenix, for purposes of their own, did not want collateral loans to appear in their annual statements, they followed the practice of other companies, but the purpose was not to deceive the Insurance Department.
>
> Mr. Justice McCall in 1900, and prior thereto, then a practicing lawyer, was real estate counsel of the New York Life, and at my earnest solicitation agreed to act as general counsel of the Munich Reinsurance Company, and I introduced Mr. Schreiner, Foreign Manager of the Munich Company, to him, and even suggested the amount of annual retainer; subsequently, at my solicitation, he agreed to act as general counsel of the International Banking and Trust Company, and in none of his relations with the above three companies did he have anything to do with legislative matters, directly or indirectly, during the sixteen years that I have known him.

LEGISLATIVE INQUIRY LIKELY.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 31.—An investigation of the fire insurance business in this State is contemplated in a resolution which was favorably reported to-day by the Assembly Ways and Means Comittee. Assemblyman John J. McInerney of Rochester, who introduced the resolution, says that if adopted there will be an investigation similar to that conducted by the Armstrong Life Insurance Committee.

Mr. McInerney's resolution provides for the appointment of a committee of three Senators and five Assemblymen to investigate all kinds of insurance companies in the State except those engaged in the life insurance business. An appropriation of $25,000 is made to meet the expenses of the inquiry.

"The object of my resolution," Assemblyman McInerney said to-day, "is to do away with the bleeding of policy holders by the fire insurance companies. Grave abuses have been complained of in nearly every community. There is a Board of Fire Underwriters or a Fire Insurance Exchange, making arbitrary rules in favor of the companies and against the insued.

"District Attorneys in various counties of the State have instituted inquiries before Grand Juries, but the members of the board have claimed their constitutional privilege, and it has been impossible to obtain information upon which indictments could be based or which would lead to a cure of the fire insurance evils.

"The laws on conspiracy in this State are inadequate to cope with the cunningly organized boards of underwriters.

"The laws against monopolies and combines require strengthening so as to provide protection for policy holders. The people have groaned under the conditions imposed by the insurance companies and have endured gross exactions, yielding to one-sided appraisal and submitting to intolerable conditions until an investigation was demanded.

"It is often the case that when a man suffers loss by a fire he appoints an appraiser under his policy, while the company insuring the person appoints another, the two appraisers appointing a third. In many cases the insured can nominate until he is black in the face, but the company will refuse to recognize the insured man's appraiser. In the meantime the business of the insured is held up because no settlement can be reached. The insurance company holds out until it secures an appraiser in sympathy with the company. This gives the company two of three appraisers.

"Instances have occurred where a man who raised considerable objection to the methods of the company was blacklisted, and was unable to get insurance in this State. Such instances have come under my observation. I believe the situation is rotten to the core. I believe insurance conditions are a stench in the nostrils of the public, and the object of my resolution is to secure remedial legislation.

"The conditions disclosed by the Hotchkiss investigation show corruption, misappropriation and misapplication of insurance funds. It is believed an investigation will result in legislation which will uncover any insolvent companies so that the man who wants fire insurance will be protected."

Chairman Merritt of the Ways and Means Committe, which reported the resolution, said he believed the result of the investigation which is being conducted by Superintendent Hotchkiss, warranted action on the part of the Legislature. He said that Mr. Hotchkiss could not compel witnesses to answer, and he expressed the belief that more light on the fire insurance situation could be obtained by an inquiry conducted by the Legislature.

Senator Cobb, majority leader of the Senate, said that while he had not read the McInerney resolution, he believed in the general principle of an investigation.

HAFFEN QUITS; WON'T EMBARRASS COURT

Refuses Commissionership After Mayor Threatens to Make Trouble for Justice Davis.

DECLINATION TO WATSON

It Forestalled Action by Gaynor, Who Would Have Asked Legislature to Remove the Appointing Justice.

Mayor Gaynor took a hand yesterday in the fight which has arisen between Corporation Counsel Watson and Supreme Court Justice Davis over the latter's appointment of Louis F. Haffen, whom Gov. Hughes removed from the Borough Presidency of the Bronx, as a Commissioner in the East 174th Street condemnation proceedings. The Mayor wrote this letter yesterday to the Corporation Counsel:

> March 31, 1910.
>
> Sir: If the court does not substitute forthwith some one in place of Mr. Haffen on the commission I think it will be our duty to lay the matter before both houses of the Legislature, as they have, under the Constitution, supervision of the conduct of Judges and power to remove them.
>
> To have such an appointment made after the effort which we have made to do away with the waste and abuses of the public funds in condemnation proceedings by having honest and fit men appointed as commissioners therein is discouraging to the last degree, and in addition is an affront to the Governor of the State, who so recently removed him from office for official misconduct.
>
> We may as well have this matter out now and once for all. Several of our Judges here have been to see me heretofore and are most anxious to have these condemnation proceedings put on a proper footing, and that proper commissioners be appointed. Very truly yours,
>
> W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.
>
> A. R. Watson, Esq., Corporation Counsel.

After reading this letter, and after holding a long consultation with his lawyer at his East 162d Street home, Mr. Haffen decided last night to decline the Commissionership, although Mr. Van Doren, his lawyer, had said earlier in the day that his client would stand pat on his letter of Wednesday accepting the place. Mr. Haffen wrote two letters. Here is the first to Corporation Counsel Watson:

> Archibald R. Watson, Esq., Corporation Counsel, Hall of Records:
>
> Sir: In view of the letter of the Hon. W. J. Gaynor, Mayor, to you dated March 31, 1910, and to avoid the inconvenience and embarrassment therein indicated as about to be caused to the Hon. Vernon M. Davis, Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, because of his having honored me by the appointment of the Commissioner of Estimate and Appraisal in the matter of the opening and extending of East 174th Street, Borough of the Bronx, I hereby notify you that I decline the appointment. Respectfully, &c.,
>
> LOUIS F. HAFFEN.

Sends Letter to Justice Davis.

Mr. Haffen's second letter was to Supreme Court Justice Davis, who had offered him the Commissionership, and was as follows:

> Hon. Vernon M. Davis, Justice of the Supreme Court, County Court House, Borough of Manhattan:
>
> Sir: I am deeply sensible of the honor you have conferred upon me in naming me as a Commissioner of Estimate and Appraisal in the matter of opening and extending East 174th Street, Borough of the Bronx. But I am unwilling to allow that appointment to be made because of the inconvenience and embarrassment to you.
>
> I have always been willing personally to defend myself at any expense and at any amount of labor against accusations arising from my twelve years' administration as President of the Borough of the Bronx. It is my duty to defend myself at all times and under every circumstance, but I am unwilling to allow my appointment as a Commissioner of Estimate and Appraisal in a street opening to interrupt the orderly transaction by the Supreme Court or any of its Justices of the great public duties with which it and they are intrusted.
>
> For these reasons I now decline the appointment, and inclose to you a copy of a letter declining it, which I shall cause to be delivered to the Corporation Counsel on April 1, 1910. Very respectfully yours,
>
> LOUIS F. HAFFEN.

Mr. Haffen's friends yesterday expressed their regret that in their opinion Mayor Gaynor had torn from Haffen a chance to show what a fine condemnation Commissioner he could make, thus removing the impression left in the public mind by Gov. Hughes's recent findings against him.

Supreme Court Justice Davis, whom Mayor Gaynor threatened to have removed if he did not substitute some one else for Haffen, in his chambers yesterday afternoon, implied that he felt that the Mayor's threat was excessive.

Was Sorry for Haffen.

"I have been on the city's bench for seven years," Justice Davis said. "I have known Mr. Haffen for ten or twelve years. We belong to the same political organization. I felt sorry for him in his trouble. I have never considered him dishonest. To give him some little thing to do I appointed him on this small commission. The commission had to decide merely about the extension of a street for half a block. A block on each side of the street was to be condemned.

"Haffen was to help to determine how much the city should pay the owners. He was to be paid $250 for this. The whole value of the property to be condemned would only amount to from $30,000 to $40,000."

Corporation Counsel Watson would not comment on the Mayor's threat to appeal to the Legislature, as Mr. Haffen had refused the appointment.

"The section of the State Constitution which Mayor Gaynor threatened to invoke against Justice Davis," he said, "is Section 11 of Article 6, which provides that Supreme Court Justices may be removed by a vote of both houses of the Legislature, when two-thirds of the members of each house concur. No officer shall be removed, however, the section says, except for cause, or unless the accused officer shall be served with a statement of the cause alleged against him, and unless he shall have an opportunity to be heard."

The part of Mayor Gaynor's letter referring to the appeal which certain Justices have recently made to him to have condemnation proceedings put on a different footing refers to a plan which the younger and more energetic of the Supreme Court Justices have of taking these proceedings out of the hands of "commissions" entirely and of turning them over to juries.

Justice Davis's father, Robert V. Davis, has been an Inspector of regulating and grading in the Bureau of Highways in the Borough of the Bronx at a salary of $4.50 a day ever since April, 1897. At the time of the elder Davis's appointment Haffen was the city's Commissioner of Street Improvements in the Bronx.

Eight Years for "Marrying Count."

Judge Blair, in Jersey City, yesterday sentenced Emil Carl von Mueller, the "Marrying Count," of Los Angeles to serve eight years in State Prison. On Tuesday last he was convicted of marrying Regina Velheleman of Jersey City in 1908, when he had a wife and two children living. He married Anna Jacobs of Jersey City in 1903, and it is said he married Pearl Fischer in Los Angeles after deserting the Velheleman woman.

TAFT WOULD KEEP MEN LONG IN OFFICE

Tells Ohioans Not to Change Their Congressmen So Often and So Get Influence.

POLICY GIVES EAST POWE

Senator Dick, Who Has a Hard Fi for His Seat, Promptly Indorses the Speech.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Presid Taft in an address before the Ohio ciety of Washington to-night pointed that the dominating power of the Eas States in Congress lay in the fact they kept men in office. His words ated a mild sensation.

The President was the guest of hono the meeting called for the purpose of ganizing an Ohio Society in Washing He congratulated Ohio on its high p in the Nation, and upon the influenc its people, who had scattered throug the country.

"There is only one thing I want t about Ohio that has a political tinge, said, "and that is that I think a mis has been made in recent years in Ohi failing to continue as our representat the same people term after term.

"I do not need to tell a Washing audience, among whom there are cer some who have been interested in lation, that length of service in the H and in the Senate is what gives influe And therefore, that rotation in of while it may satisfy the different c ties and keep them from a count ternecine war very much interferes the State of Ohio exercising that infl that it ought to exercise in the Senat in the House.

"Why is it that the small States of East exercise so much power in Congr It is not because an Eastern man has more capacity in the matter of legisla than a Western man—certainly not m than an Ohio man. It is because the Eastern States get a good repres tive they keep him as long as he and then he has an influence that v exceeds the mere numerical repres tion of population.

"I don't know whether this is qu germane to the subject of this occasion, but it occurred to me to say this because I feel as though we are all interested in having Ohio well represented and in hav ing Ohio make herself felt in the legisla tion of this country by adopting a sys tem that will certainly bring about weight she is entitled to. I am in favor therefore, of continuing the representa tion as we have it, so that the repre sentatives shall be the foremost in both halls of the Legislature."

REMARKABLE
NEW MUSICAL POSSIBILITIES PRESENTED BY The Aeolian Orchestrelle

People are accustomed to regard the violin and piano as capable of finer effects than other musical instruments.

As a matter of fact, the marvelous modern instrument known as the Aeolian Orchestrelle, offers much more in the production of music, than any other single instrument.

The Aeolian Orchestrelle produces as delicate effects of tone shading—diminuendo, crescendo, etc.—as does the violin and piano.

Unlike these, however, the Aeolian Orchestrelle has the capacity for tone-coloration—the most beautiful element of music.

In effect, playing the Aeolian Orchestrelle is like playing many different instruments—each of which is surpassingly beautiful—all at the same time.

Moreover, the performer actually does play the Aeolian Orchestrelle. He has the same sense of personal achievement as the violinist or pianist. This removes the Aeolian Orchestrelle entirely from the ranks of mechanical instruments and makes it one of the most remarkable musical inventions known.

Every music-lover owes it to himself to investigate this marvelous instrument and a cordial invitation is extended to everyone to do so.

Ask to hear the attractive model at $400.
Very moderate monthly payments if desired.

Are Your Nostrils Closed?

The importance of having the nostrils kept open and free of disease is just being appreciated. In opening closed nostrils there has heretofore been too much cutting away of the bones in these parts. I have developed a method of freeing the nostrils of obstructions which usually does away with the necessity of any cutting. I performed my operation on Mr. James Jeffries, champion pugilist, on his return from Europe.

The following is an interesting case of obstructed nostrils treated by me recently:

Mr. Chas. Howard resides at 57 South Sixth Street, Brooklyn. When Mr. Howard consulted me he told me that since he was five years of age he has had trouble to take air through his nostrils. When he grew up he got so he could not breathe through his left nostril at all, and only on dry days could he breathe a little through the right one. He has had his nostrils operated on fourteen times. As a result of the operations he would get a little relief and could breathe some through his right nostril. His left nostril, however, has been tightly closed all this time. At night, he said, that being compelled to breathe through his mouth, it would make his throat very dry and cause him to wake up every two or three hours. He said that until now he cannot remember ever having been able to breathe freely through his nostrils during his entire lifetime, or being able to blow his nose to free it of secretion.

Mr. Howard has been under my treatment for about six weeks, there has been no cutting done in his nostrils. He says his left nostril is now absolutely free, and that he can sleep eight hours at a stretch without waking up, and that when he does wake up he feels rested and refreshed. He says that he can take air freely through his nose now for the first time in his recollection.

ARE YOU GOING DEAF?

I have discovered a method of treating deafness and head noises that does away with the necessity for the passage of instruments through the nostrils and into the ear tube.

I have found that the passage of instruments through the nostrils and into the ear tubes is painful, and instead of curing the disease often forces it further up into the ear tubes.

How important my method of treating head noises and deafness is will be shown by the case of Mr. Turner.

When Mr. John N. Turner consulted me last August he said: "I am 60 years of age, and I have been deaf in my left ear since 1870. My right ear began to fail a year ago. I cannot hear a watch tick even when it is held close to my ear. I cannot hear an alarm clock tick when it is held close to my ear. I cannot hear what people say unless they are right close to me, and then they have to speak very loud to make me hear. I cannot hear the clergyman speak when I am in church, even when I sit in the front seat; besides all this I have very annoying sounds in my ears; sometimes the sounds will change their character; at times there is a continual buzzing, and then there will be sounds like a teakettle singing, or chirping of crickets."

I placed Mr. Turner under my method of treatment, and the last time he visited my office was Saturday, March 19th, when he said: "I can hear better than I ever could since I was twenty years of age. I can hear the preacher in church, and I have to be continually telling those who know me not to speak so loud, that I am no longer deaf; all the head noises have disappeared from my ears."

The case of Mr. Turner is cited as showing what my method of treatment will often accomplish in cases of deafness of long standing in those who are advanced in years. Mr. Turner resides at No. 246 Main Street, Lakewood, New Jersey, where he has lived for a number of years.

This is who I am and what I have done: I graduated in medicine in New York in 1879. I was the prize winner of my class. I won in competitive examination the position of physician to Bellevue Hospital, where I served in 1879 and 1880.

I have made a specialty of dieases of the nose, throat and ear for thirty years. The following interview with Professor Loomis will explain what he thought of my ability:

New York World, Sept. 2, 1904.

"Professor Loomis of the University of New York, the great specialist, said in alluding to medical men who advertise: Dr. McCoy, for instance, is an able man, well educated, a thorough scientist and a first-class physician. He is a graduate of Bellevue Hospital. He advertises, does an immense business, and is doing much good."

If you think my training and experience should make me a good doctor I should be pleased to have you visit my office. It will cost you nothing for an examination and advice.

If you suffer from obstructed nostrils, diseased nostrils, are going deaf or have head noises, or have a bad throat I will be pleased to advise you without charge.

If your ears have been so neglected that treatment will not restore your hearing I have the best instrument ever invented to make deaf people hear. It is called the Baker Microphone. I will be pleased to give you an opportunity to test this little device free.

CANADA MAY CONFER ON TARIFF IN MAY

Wood Pulp Question, Omitted from Present Agreement, Will Then Probably Be Dealt With.

MANY FAVORS TO FRANCE

Gets Lower Rates from Canada on 110 Items in Two Classes—United States on 13 Only.

OTTAWA, Ontario, March 31.—While the time and the place are yet to be definitely fixed, there soon will be a conference on better trade relations between Canada and the United States, according to a statement made at the Canadian Prime Minister's office to-day.

It is probable that the meeting will take place in May at Washington, and will be participated in by President Taft and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and by W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, who has conducted the recent tariff negotiations for Canada.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The House to-day disagreed to the Senate amendment to the Diplomatic bill, increasing to the extent of $25,000 the appropriation for extending trade relations of the United States. This, it is feared, will affect the trade conferences with Canada proposed by President Taft looking toward the negotiation of something like a tariff reciprocity treaty.

The tariff officers of the Government declined to discuss these negotiations today, but the suggestion of efforts for closer trade relations has been received in a friendly spirit by the Canadian Premier, and it is assumed that should such a treaty be negotiated it will deal among other things with the question of pulp and pulp woods, which did not appear in the just proclaimed tariff agreement with the Dominion.

It was explained to-day that the questions involved in the importation from Canada of pulp and pulp woods could not properly enter into the present agreement, as the only matters involved had to do with the discrimination again American goods. The statement was made, however, that the Province of Quebec had not yet prohibited the exportation of pulp woods, but had been a stumpage tax of 25 cents a cord on such wood if worked up in Canada, and 25 cents a cord additional if exported. The United States, it was explained, could meet that tax by imposing a countervailing duty under its present laws.

While there has been an agitation throughout the Dominion in favor of placing further restrictions on the exportation of pulp wood, the Government has not up to this time taken such action, and the probabilities are that it will not. The whole question relates to the action by the different provinces of Canada. They have full control of their own Crown lands, and can enact such measures as they may see fit.

NO MAXIMUM TARIFF.

Not a Single Nation Subject to Penalty Rates of Payne-Aldrich Law.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—President Taft, having been satisfied that the United States is not being discriminated against in tariff schedules by any of the countries of the world, the Treasury Department to-day notified Customs Collectors that the maximum tariff rates of the Payne-Aldrich law are not to be applied as against imports from anywhere.

On the contrary, they were informed that the minimum rates now applied are to remain in force. Had there been an imposition of the maximum schedules against any nation they would have become operative April 1.

ASQUITH TO PRESS ISSUE.

Motion for Early Vote Portends Another Election Very Soon.

LONDON, March 31.—The Government has apparently decided to bring political matters to an issue early in May. In the House of Commons this afternoon Premier Asquith announced two guillotining motions, the first to be made on April 4, providing that the committee stage of all three veto resolutions shall be concluded on the night of April 14, and the second designating the time to be given to consideration of the budget, which, it is understood, will be limited to one week.

The general aponion in the lobby to-day was that this arrangement portended a general election within six weeks.

The official opposition amendment to Premier Asquith's resolutions on the veto power of the House of Lords was moved in the House of Commons to-day by Sir Robert Bannatyne Finlay. It declares in favor of a strong and efficient second chamber and expresses willingness to consider proposals for the reform of the upper house, but declines to proceed with the Government proposals, which would destroy the usefulness of any second chamber.

Winston Spencer Churchill declared that when the veto resolutions were disposed of the Government would advance the budget, regardless of the consequences. Unless the House of Commons carried the budget, it was idle, he said, to look to the King or to the country to carry the Veto bill, but he predicted that at the proper time and under the proper circumstances they would succeed in carrying both the veto and budget measures to the steps of the throne.

"The time for action," he said, "has arrived. Since the Lords have used their veto to affront the prerogative of the Crown and have invaded the rights of the Commons, it has become necessary that the Crown and the Commons, acting together, should restore the balance of the Constitution and restrict forever the veto power of the House of Lords."

HIGH PRICES IN 1804, ALSO.

Pennsylvanians Objected to 25 Cents for Meal of Victuals.

BUTLER, Penn., March 31.—Records yellow with a century's age were found in the office of Clerk of Courts Robert M. McFarland to-day, which showed that a high-cost-of-living crusade was in progress as early as 1804.

A document filed with Judge Moor in that year is signed by 100 citizens, petitioning the court to "set a stipulated price on provisions for man, and horse, and on liquors in the taverns of the county." The petitioners asserted: "It is the consensus of opinion that 25 cents for a meal of victuals and 12 cents for a half pint of whisky is an extortion, as whisky has been purchased for 40 cents a gallon, pork from 3 to 4 cents a pound, and flour for $2 per hundredweight."

The records give no evidence as to whether the prayer was ever answered.

ALDRICH MAKES A PROPHECY.

Thinks Congress Will Adjourn May 15—Others Not So Optimistic.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Congress may be able to adjourn May 15, is the belief of Senator Aldrich, expressed to-day. The Senate leader issued his prophecy on leaving the White House, where he conferred with President Taft on legislation in which the Administration is interested.

Several influential members of Congress believe the prediction is too optimistic, and that opposition to certain features of the Administration programme may develop that will carry the session much further along.

RAILWAY BILL BOLD, SAYS SENATOR ROOT

Supports Taft Measure as Most Radical Step Forward in Commerce Regulation.

ARGUES STOCK ISSUE ITEM

Practical Decision Reached That Commerce Commission Shall Pass on Traffic Agreements in Advance.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Senator Root to-day in a three hours' discussion practically concluded his argument in favor of the Administration's railroad bill in its present amended form. The additional amendments promised by Senator Elkins have not yet been formally presented, but three of them are to-day practically agreed on.

One of these, providing for a review of traffic agreements by the Inter-State Commerce Commission before they go into effect was discussed and supported by Senator Root. Without saying that the committee of which he is not a member had agreed to it, he said in response to queries that he had written the amendment into his own copy of the measure and thought that it improved the bill.

The other two amendments, discussed informally in the corridors to-day, are very slight changes on the existing bill. One eliminates the last sentence in section 12, which specifies that the court of commerce in passing on the legality or illegality of a road's acquisition of a stock in certain other road, must consider, besides the letter of the law, the "relative importance of any benefit to the public interest and of any effect upon competition resulting from such acquisition." This amendment, it is expected, will strengthen the section.

Mr. Root spoke at some length in defense of the twelfth section, and said that the inhibition it placed upon the acquisition of any stock in a competing line marked a great step forward in railroad control. He took direct issue with Senator Cummins and others that the existing law amply provides against such acquisition, and gave a novel interpretattion of the decision in the Northern Securities case to support his contention that the bill now advocated by the President goes far beyond anything now on the statute books.

Cites Northern Securities Case.

"The Northern Securities case, I think," said Mr. Root, "expressly excludes from its purview the mere acquisition of stock in a rival line. Under that decision the offense against the law existed only in so far as the acquisition tended to the restraint of trade. I doubt even that the Supreme Court then would have sustained the Constitutionality of an act of Congress prohibiting the mere acquisition of stock by a State corporation. It is here that the present bill makes a new step."

"Section 12," said Mr. Root, "is the greatest, boldest, and most radical step forward in the regulation of commerce by the Government."

Mr. Root is of the opinion, however, that, taking the Northern Securities case as a basis, the Supreme Court would now sustain an act making the mere acquisition of stock unlawful, in spite of the fact that the corporations are creatures of the States. Mr. Root said that he believed the purchase of stock in a rival line had now come to be considered so inherent and natural a part in all efforts in restraint of trade that the Supreme Court would sustain an effort on the part of Congress to prevent it. On that ground he thought the constitutionality of the Twelfth Section would be secure against assault.

"As for the charge that the provision allowing roads owning 50 per cent. of rival lines at the time of the passage of this bill to purchase the remainder, will nullify the anti-trust act in regard to railroads," said Mr. Root, "nothing is more misleading. If the acquisition of the stock is contrary to the Sherman act the provision in this bill will not help; it will be as if this bill had not been drafted and the offending roads will have to answer for their acts in the courts."

The third amendment simply makes clearer the fact that the bill in regard to the acquisition of stock in other lines does.

Argues for Allowing Agreements.

Discussing Section 7 of the bill permitting traffic agreements between railroads and repealing so much of the anti-trust law as prohibits such agreements, Mr. Root declared the present prohibitive act provoked its own violation. It was better to have the railroads voluntarily conform to the law than to have them forced to do so, he said.

"We insist upon competition," he continued, "but we prohibit such prohibition as we think injurious and we forget that the railroads themselves may be better able to enforce the law than can any officer in Washington."

He argued that in many matters the railroads were practically required to enter into agreements, and so long as this was true, he said, it was absolutely necessary that the roads should be authorized to come together. To do this would be to wipe out an anomaly and abuse.

It was in reply to an inquiry from Mr. Rayner that Mr. Root said he would favor an amendment requiring that agreements among railroads should have the approval of the Inter-State Commerce Commission before going into effect. He did not, however, regard the addition as of particular importance.

Senator Clapp said he would insist that the bill should be worded so as to make agreements unlawful unless approved by the commission. Mr. Root said he never would consent to give to the commission the right to suspend a rate fixed by a railroad without investigation. He would not consent that any official should fix the railroad rates, but was willing that the Government should supervise rates. To do more would be to change from the American to the European system, he said, with Government ownership inevitably following.

"We all desire the extension of our system, but we will never say to the capital of the country that we encourage its investment only with the end in view of concentrating its control in Washington," said Mr. Root.

Mr. Bacon took issue with Mr. Root's assertion that the fixing of rates by the Government would lead to Government ownership. He said that for thirty years the Railroad Commission of Georgia had had such power.

Mr. Aldrich asked Mr. Bacon whether he was in favor of giving the Inter-State Commerce Commission power to fix the rates on all the railroads of Georgia. Mr. Bacon replied that he would not favor turning over control of all the railroads to the commission.

Mr. Root will conclude his speech in a few minutes to-morrow morning. Several other speeches are expected, though it is possible that they will not be delivered until individual amendments are under discussion. It is expected that the amendments will be taken up one at a time next week and voted on as fast as the debate will allow.

ARE AUTOS LOCOMOTIVES?

Smoke Nuisance Fighters Think So—Dr. Lederle to Help.

A determined effort will be made to abate the automobile smoke nuisance in the city. Col. John Schuyler Crosby, Chairman of the Nuisance Committee of the National Protective Highways Society, held a conference yesterday with Health Commissioner Lederle. Dr. Lederle said he had been waiting for some action by the Aldermen, but if no assurance was forthcoming from them the Board of Health would institute proceedings looking to a termination of the nuisance.

It is intended to try to make Section 181 of the Sanitary Code applicable to the case. This section says regarding the smoke nuisance: "No person shall cause or allow dense smoke to be discharged from any building, vessel, stationary, or locomotive engine." The National Highways' Protective Society believes that automobiles should be classed as locomotive engines.

Grifenhagen Removes Negligent Clerk.

Register Grifenhagen yesterday removed Vincent W. Woytisek, the Satisfaction Clerk of his office, on charges of incompetency and neglect of duty. Woytisek received a salary of $3,400 a year and had been in the office since September, 1907.

The prices at all good clothes shops are practically alike

Were it simply a matter of price, the average man would find the choice of his apparel as easy in one good shop as in any of the others. But it is not.

Just as "charity covers a multitude of sins," so does the usual range of prices cover a multitude of errors—usually of omission—for it is the things omitted that point the difference between our clothes--and the others.

With garments made for the general market, all too often when quality of fabric is present, style is lacking—or vice versa. Or, when both are present there is evidence of hurried craftsmanship. If fabric and style are good, sometimes the finish develops shortcomings; in a word, there is usually omitted some feature or features absolutely essential to that very close approach to perfection which garments of our production have achieved.

Do you know what is happening on Fourth Avenue? If not, go there and look at the class of buildings being put up.

At Twenty-seventh Street you will see a magnificent office structure that would be a credit to lower Broadway. Sixteen stories, and a beauty! It is called "The Fourth Avenue Building."

Fourth Avenue has a wonderful future. There is no broader street up-town. And right on the subway line! In a year or two all property there will be at a premium.

And "the Fourth Avenue Building" is the new section's particular ornament.

I happen to control two of the choicest corner spaces in this building. I can offer them to acceptable tenants on exceptional terms, if spoken for quickly. One space is about 3000 square feet, net,—the other about 2000. Lease for one, three or five years. But I have only two of these spaces, and it is a case of "first come, first served."

Why not find out about them to-day?

PINCHOT IN EUROPE TO SEE ROOSEVELT

Reaches Copenhagen and Says Conference Will Be Held There or in London.

Listed on Steamer as Gaylord Smith—Roosevelt Is Due in Copenhagen About May 1.

COPENHAGEN, March 31.—Gifford Pinchot, former Chief Forester of the United States, arrived here to-night. He admitted that he expected to meet Col. Roosevelt either in Copenhagen or in London, but he was silent when questioned as to whether he had been summoned to a conference with the ex-President or was seeking a meeting on his own initiative.

Mr. Pinchot refused to discuss politics. He said he intended to study Danish agriculture, especially the co-operative system, and the Danish forest administration.

He is a guest at the British Legation, where he is visiting his sister, Lady Johnstone, wife of Sir Alan Johnstone, the British Minister to Denmark.

HAMBURG, March 31.—According to other passengers on the President Grant, Gifford Pinchot landed here yesterday. He remained over night and proceeded this morning for Copenhagen. He appeared on the passenger list as Gaylord Smith.

When the steamer arrived the officials of the steamship company asserted that they had no knowledge of the presence on board of the deposed Chief Forester of the United States, who, it has been persistently reported, was summoned to Europe by former President Roosevelt for a conference.

On embarking at New York Mr. Pinchot was listed as Gaylord Smith in order that he might avoid reporters. Once out of New York Harbor, however, he made no attempt to conceal his identity, and conversed freely with other passengers. He did not make known his definite intentions regarding a meeting with Mr. Roosevelt, but fellow passengers who were in close touch with him affirmed to-day that they had gained the impression that such a meeting was proposed.

CHRISTIANIA, March 31.—Ex-President Roosevelt will spend a day in Copenhagen on his way to Christiania, where he will arrive on May 3. He will deliver his Nobel prize lecture on May 5, and will leave for Stockholm on May 6 or 7. From there he will go to Berlin.

King Haakon has invited Col. Roosevelt to be his guest at the palace during his stay here. The University of Christiania will confer on him the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, Col. Roosevelt having signified through the American Minister his acceptance of the honor.

NOT TO DISTRIBUTE TROPHIES.

Roosevelt Will Send Practically All to Smithsonian Institution.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Officials of the Smithsonian Institution announced to-day that the impression prevalent throughout the country that the trophies of Col. Roosevelt's African hunt would be distributed among various museums was incorrect.

Aside from a few specimens sent to the American Museum of Natural History in New York as a personal gift to Mr. Akeley and the elephant sent to the University of California, all the specimens will go to the Smithsonian Institution for exhibition in the National Museum.

Young Egypt Committee Calls It Offensive to the Whole Country.

GENEVA, March 31.—The Young Egypt committee has published a protest against Col. Roosevelt's speech at Cairo.

It declares that his remarks were offensive to the whole nation and were made only with the object of pleasing his official hosts.

NEWS FROM "BUFFALO" JONES.

He Has Lassoed Wild Animals Roosevelt Gunned For, He Cables Home.

News of the success of the expedition of Col. C. J. (Buffalo) Jones to British East Africa was received yesterday by one of his backers, Francis W. Bird, a lawyer, of 31 Nassau Street. "Buffalo" Jones left this country in February. His exploits with mountain lions and buffalo of the West had led him to believe that he could rope and capture the animals Col. Roosevelt was shooting. His cablegram reads:

> Nairobi, March 31, 1910.
> Roped, tied rhinos, giraffes, leopards, cheetahs, others. Immense bull rhino made trouble. Charged hundred times. Smashed tripod. Operator escaped. All recorded. Lions, buffaloes next. Men, horses, dogs, splendid condition. JONES.

Accompanying "Buffalo" Jones are Guy H. Scull of Harvard, who served as a newspaper correspondent in the Boer and Russian-Japanese wars and led the Harvard party a year ago on the Mayflower to hunt sunken treasure in the West Indies, and Arthur A. Fowler, a sportsman of Peapack, N. J., who is paying his own expenses on the expedition.

"Buffalo" Jones will bring back to the United States the live specimens he has captured.

Roosevelt Committee to Meet.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Chairman of the committee appointed by the Mayor to represent the city at the reception to be given to Theodore Roosevelt on his arrival in New York, has called a meeting of the body to be held next Tuesday afternoon in the Council Chamber at City Hall.

TO IMPORT AFRICAN BEASTS.

Louisiana Game Commission Wants to Breed Them at Home.

NEW ORLEANS, March 31.—No more trips to Africa for specimens of the hippopotamus and eland, dikdik, wart hog, and other animals will be necessary ten years from now if the Louisiana Legislature heeds the request of the State Game Commission.

The commission, after a conference with Congressman Broussard, decided to-day to ask for an appropriation for the importation of big African game to Louisiana for breeding purposes. Mr. Broussard, who has introduced a bill in Congress looking to the introduction of African mammals into the United States for food purposes, said to-day:

"I do not think this importation idea can be laughed down. It is merely a matter of education, and when the people see the value of the hippopotamus, koodoo, dikdik, and a host of other varieties I might mention as meat producers at a time when a supply of meat is an economic necessity, there will be no objection."

Photographing African Game.

An interesting illustrated lecture on photographing Africa's live game will be given at 8 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon at the Waldorf-Astoria by A. Radcliffe Dugmore, F. R. G. S., for the benefit of the Social Service of the Roosevelt Hospital out-patient department. Mr. Dugmore followed in the trail of Theodore Roosevelt from Mombassa, British East Africa, right through the East African Protectorate and Uganda. The pictures are especially intended to interest children.

GERMAN CRUISER SENT AWAY.

Liberians Resent Offer to Land Detachment and Restore Order.

LIVERPOOL, March 31.—The German cruiser Sperber has left Cape Palmas on the orders of the Liberian authorities, according to the latest advices from Liberia. The German commander's offer to land a detachment and quell the outbreak of the natives is said to have so incensed the Liberians that they ordered the Sperber to leave Liberian waters within thirty-six hours or "take the consequences."

The situation between the natives and the Liberian troops is said to be improving.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The situation in Liberia is giving rise to apprehension here. The Navy Department announced to-day that the swift scout cruiser Birmingham had sailed this morning from St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, direct for Monrovia, where she should arrive by next Saturday evening. Mr. Lyon, the American Minister to Liberia, is aboard the cruiser with specific instructions from the State Department to do what is necessary to protect American interests in Liberia and to help out the administration there as far as can properly be done.

The gunboat Des Moines, which has been lying in Hampton Roads, was ordered to the Norfolk Navy Yard to-day, and the work of putting her into condition to proceed to Africa and relieve the Birmingham will be rushed. She should be ready to sail within a fortnight, reaching Monrovia by May 1.

ENGLISH BIRTH RATE DROPS.

Figures for 1909 Are the Lowest on Record.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 31.—England's birth rate last year was the lowest on record—25.58 per thousand of population.

This is nearly 1.0 below the rate for 1908, which showed a slight increase over 1907, the first for many years.

TO CONTROL CABLE RATES.

Canadian House of Commons Passes Bill for Government Supervision.

OTTAWA, March 31.—At the instance of Postmaster General Lemieux, the House of Commons passed a bill last night giving the Railway Commission control of the rates and facilities of cable companies. This legislation is in lieu of the proposition for the laying of a trans-Atlantic cable by the Government.

In connection with the bill a schedule of rates is proposed whereby urgent messages are to be transmitted at the present rate—1 shilling a word; semi-urgent messages at 6 pence a word, and press matter at 3 pence instead of the present rate of 5 pence a word.

The bill brings under the control of the Railway Commission not only the cable companies operating between Great Britain and Canada and all other cable companies touching Canadian territory, but also cable companies operating in conjunction with telegraph companies in Canada.

The introduction of the bill followed consultations with the Right Hon. Sidney Buxton, former British Postmaster General, who promised to pass concurrent legislation through the British Parliament, following which, upon proclamation, the Canadian legislation is to become operative.

LINER PERICLES IS LOST.

Sinks Off Australian Coast—Passengers and Crew Saved.

PERTH, West Australia, March 31.—The big British liner Pericles was wrecked six miles south of Cape Leeuwin, the southwest point of Australia, to-day. The passengers and crew took to the small boats and all were landed safely at Cape Leeuwin. Soon after being abandoned the steamer disappeared beneath the waters.

The Pericles was built at Belfast in 1908, and was owned by G. Thompson & Co., Limited, of London.

LONDON, March 31.—The Lloyds are hit heavily by the loss of the Pericles. She was insured for $1,125,000 and her cargo for nearly as much more. She sailed from Melbourne for London last Saturday.

O'BRIEN STARTS NEW LEAGUE.

Denounces Irish Nationalist Party as Detestable and Sectarian.

CORK, March 31.—A large and enthusiastic meeting at City Hall to-day inaugurated the "All for Ireland League," the object of which William O'Brien, M. P., said in the course of a long speech was to enable the Irish people to choose between his programme, which would reconcile Catholic and Protestant fellow-countrymen, and John Redmond's, which sets them against each other.

Mr. O'Brien characterized the Nationalist Party as "a detestable sectarian secret society, whose avowed purpose is to build up a system of Catholic Orangeism more inexcusable than its Protestant forerunner."

Lords Dunraven, Rossmore, and Castletown sent letters approving the movement.

SAYS JAPAN FEARS WE WILL JOIN CHINA

Admiral Fournier Declares She Is Arming Against Such an Alliance, Not Against Russia.

WOULD GIVE US STRONG BASE

England Would Aid Japan, and If Triple Alliance Helped Us France and Russia Would Be Drawn In.

PARIS, March 31.—The memoirs of Vice Admiral Fournier, commander of the Mediterranean squadron of the French Navy, in which he discusses particularly the possibility of a war between the United States and Japan and the resultant danger of a general European conflict, were issued in book form to-night. The memoirs have caused something of a sensation in political and diplomatic circles.

Admiral Fournier accords the star rôle on the stage of international politics to the German Emperor, "not only in Europe, where the Emperor is trying desperately to break the league of powers against him, but also indirectly as an influential factor in the relations between the United States and Japan."

Admiral Fournier says it is useless to deny that there is a possibility of war between the United States and Japan as a result of popular irritation in America should Japan's demands or Japan's policies of absorption prove intolerable to America's excessive self-esteem or interests in the Far East.

These interests, he adds, are antagonistic to those of Japan, which, pushed on by fate to expand in the Asiatic continent by conquest or diplomatic victory, seeks to become predominant in the very regions which the United States protects in supporting the integrity of China, and the policy of the open door.

The Admiral declares that Japan's great fear is that the friendly relations between the United States and China will culminate in an out-and-out alliance, and thus in the event of war the United States would have a base of operations and general resources vastly superior to the Philippines. Japan's increased armaments, therefore, are explainable, not as a menace to Russia, but in preparation to combat, before it is too late, the peril contained in America's policies.

Admiral Fournier thinks the naval strength of the United States eventually will not only exceed that of Japan, but will probably equal that of Great Britain, in spite of the effort of England to preserve her supremacy of the seas, and Japan's inferiority would oblige her ally, England, to come to her aid in the event of a conflict with the United States.

In case of a hostile coalition of the United States with the Triple Alliance, the Admiral believes France would be forced to supplement the forces of England, Japan, and Russia. He doubts, however, that the German Emperor, "although devoured by a desire to smash the league and adopting a diplomacy as unscrupulous as that of the Iron Chancellor," would enter on the perilous venture of such a war, which would offer little chance of victory on sea or land.

"Without the intervention in Europe of the navies of the Triple Alliance in a way to help the American fleet at the moment it was seriously engaged in the Atlantic and the Pacific, the decisive superiority in that struggle," declares the Vice Admiral, "would rest with the forces of Japan and England. Under these conditions, which spell defeat, the United States would undoubtedly resist the temptation to settle her differences with Japan by an appeal to arms."

TUG PILOTS STRIKE FOR A SHORTER DAY

Reject a Compromise Offer of Higher Pay—Harbor Shipping Tie-Up Feared.

SOME RAILROADS GIVE IN

But Others Appeal to the Federal Authorities for Aid—Men Save Perishable Goods.

At noon yesterday, Capt. Luther B. Dow, manager and counsel of the American Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots, the organization of the pilots having licenses to operate railroad tug boats and steam lighters in the waters adjacent to New York City, hoisted a square blue flag on top of the Battery Park Building, at 24 State Street, the headquarters of the association. It was the signal that the 280 pilots in charge of tugs and lighters employed by the railroads entering New York had gone on strike.

The action of Capt. Dow was the culmination of the fight the association has been waging for several months to obtain better wages and shorter hours for its members. Within a few hours after the strike had been declared several railroads gave in, and the prospect of a wholesale tie-up of freight was averted. At midnight, however, several other roads were still holding out, and it is possible that there will be more or less of a congestion at railroad wharves, where quantities of freight is handled. There is a prospect, too, that two or three thousand firemen, cooks and deckhands, employed on the railroad tugs, may be forced to strike in sympathy with the pilots, as they can't very well operate the tugs without the pilots.

The railroad pilots work twelve hours a day, every day in the year, and they have every second Sunday off duty. Their principal demand is for an eight-hour day. Although conditions have become acute within the last three weeks, negotiations looking toward a peaceful settlement have been going on since last Winter between committees from the Pilots' Association and representatives of the New York Central, the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Lehigh Valley, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, and New York, New Haven & Hartford railroads, as well as the Bush, Arbuckle & Brooklyn Eastern terminals, but no agreement could be reached.

Manager Dow let it be plainly understood that the pilots would be entirely fair with their employers. It was agreed that the pilots in charge of boats during the day should quit at 6 o'clock last night. The night men, however, were ordered to take charge of the boats and see that all perishable freight was unloaded and that the railroads should not be crippled in any way.

When the railroads decided to make a fight they engaged the firm of Bergoff Brothers, strikebreakers, to advertise for pilots, cooks, deckhands, and firemen, and the firm opened a bureau at 205 West Thirty-third Street. Yesterday morning 500 men were at the agency, but very few were employed. The railroad pilots of New York have a tight organization. A Government license is required to operate a tug or lighter, and the members of the organization have little fear that enough non-union men could be found to take their places.

Late last night the Pennsylvania, the Erie, and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroads, according to Capt. Dow of the association, had agreed to the demands of the pilots, and their boats will be operated as usual. The New Haven Road, it was said, had promised an extra concession in that they agreed to let the eight-hour rule apply to several men employed as extra pilots.

Before refusing to grant the pilots' demands the railroads offered a counter-proposal in the shape of a compromise of a 6 per cent. wage increase all around. It was rejected by the Pilots' Association, and when the order to strike was given yesterday it looked as if every railroad tugboat and lighter in the harbor would be out of commission.

The pilots of tugs and boats not employed by the railroads have an organization of their own, known as Independent Harbor No. 1. This organization, however, let it be understood that it would take no part in the fight. There are about 160 men in the organization, under the leadership of Michael O'Shaughnessey.

Yesterday afternoon the first overtures of peace came from the Bush Terminal Company, which operates six tugboats. It agreed to give the pilots in its employ one day off each week, two weeks' vacation each year, and an increase of $5 a month in salary. The New York Central, which operates sixty boats, giving employment to that many pilots, came to terms next. It agreed to the same terms, except that it allowed only one week off each year. Both proposals were accepted by the pilots, and they stuck to their boats. The Pennsylvania and New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroads were the next to submit to arbitration. Negotiations with these concerns were still on at midnight.

Early in the afternoon the association chartered the lighter E. J. McCormick, and it was used by the pilots' sub-committee, made up of one man in each railroad's employ, to see that none of their men broke their agreement not to abandon perishable freight or neglect to tie their tugs to the proper piers when their work was finished. At noon yesterday every pilot in the association hed sent in his resignation to the railroad companies, to take effect at midnight.

Under the Admiralty law, pilots are not permitted to go out on strike on penalty of having their licenses revoked, so they took the course of resigning. As soon as a railroad would agree to the terms of the pilots the latter would either go back to their boats or withdraw their resignations.

The railroads affected have organized a committee composed of the following: J. M. Emery, Manager of the Marine Department, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad; Walter Ancker, Superintendent of the Floating Equipment, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; W. W. Abbott, Superintendent of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and H. L. Joyce, Manager of the Marine Department, Central Railroad of New Jersey. Mr. Joyce is Chairman, and last night he sent the following telegram to Supervising Inspector General Uhler of Charleston, S. C., and to Secretary Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor at Washington:

> All of the tug and propeller Captains in the employ of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, the Lackawanna Railroad Company, the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, and the Erie Railroad tendered their resignations, effective to-day at midnight.
> These companies offered to all of the crews upon the self-navigating boats they operate an increase of 6 per cent. in salary, effective April 1, all conditions to remain as they are at present, and have been for some years. The Captains in the employ of the Erie Railroad have accepted these terms. The Captains in the other companies have refused. The situation, commencing at midnight to-night, will, therefore, be a very serious one—and the public are, of course, bound to suffer.
>
> The General Manager of the Masters, Mates, and Pilots Association, at an official conference held between the officials of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey and himself, on behalf of his association, openly stated that the Captains employed by the outside or independent towing companies had agreed to "keep off the grass," which means that illegal combination in restraint of trade has been made by the Masters, Mates, and Pilots Harbor with these men to refuse any of our floating equipment while our Captains are out. This action on their part not only means a large loss of money to those companies but it means serious distress and injury to the commerce of New York. On account of the local conditions existing here, it is our opinion that the seriousness of the situation demands that the head of the Steamboat Inspection Service should be on the ground and not leave the deciding of important questions that are bound to come up every minute to any subordinate.
>
> We submit these facts to you in the earnest hope that you will appreciate the force of our argument and take prompt and immediate action to protect the commerce of the Port of New York and our floating property as well as our business from the injury which these licensed officers under your jurisdiction are working to accomplish.

"We have never made any demands on the railroads before," said Capt. Dow last night, "and we were driven to take [illegible] the long hours the men have to work. Their demands are entirely just and we hope the entire strike will be amicably settled by to-morrow."

MAY INDORSE TARIFF BILL.

Indiana Republican Candidates Balk at Senator Beveridge's Plans.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 31.—Candidates for State offices who will go before the Republican State Convention on Tuesday are trying to arrange a tariff plank that will not appear to be a repudiation of President Taft and at the same time will permit Senator Beveridge, who voted against the Payne-Aldrich bill, to stand on it as the party candidate for the United States Senate. Except for Mr. Beveridge's opposition there would be no question about the convention approving the new tariff bill.

All the candidate for State offices met to-day and they were practically unanimous in the opinion that the Payne-Aldrich bill must be indorsed in some form. They admitted that it was not popular with all Republicans, but declared that any other course would appear to be a desertion of the protective principle and would aid the Democrats.

It was suggested that the platform should state that general and tariff revisions always result in a disturbance of business and that the truth about any tariff law could not be known until it had been tried out thoroughly. Then would come an indorsement of a tariff commission, as an institution which would prevent general revision.

It was decided that Senator Beveridge should be unqualifiedly indorsed for reelection and that special praise should be given for his fight for a tariff commission.

Senator Beveridge arrived to-day, and it is said that he has a tariff plank which will speak of a tariff commission and ignore the new law, but many Republicans do not believe it will get through the convention.

$465,000,000 FRANCHISE TAX.

Exemption of Subway Makes an Apparent Decrease Over Last Year's.

ALBANY, March 31.—An apparent decrease of $8,592,300, but in reality an increase of $15,497,700 over last year in the special franchise valuations in New York City, appears from the list of assessments made against corporations under the special franchise tax law, which has just been issued by the State Board of Tax Commissioners.

The apparent decrease is due to the exemption of the Subway franchise of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, which last year was valued by the board at more than $23,000,000. The principal increase appears in the assessed valuation of the franchise held by the Consolidated Gas Company. This has been boosted by nearly $4,000,000, despite the confirmation by the United States Supreme Court of the eighty-cent gas rate.

Though the principal traction companies in New York City are in the hands of receivers, there has been practically no decrease in the assessed valuations against their franchises. In the case of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, however, there is a decrease of nearly $2,000,000.

In the list of last year an assessment of $550,000 was made against the Staten Island Water Supply Company. This is lost to the city for taxation purposes this year, because it has since become municipal property.

The total assessments in New York City for this year aggregate $465,409,600, as compared with a total of $474,001,900 last year, and $492,492,970 for 1908.

Among the principal assessments this year are: Brooklyn Transit Company, $53,276,300; Manhattan Railway Company, $78,512,500; Pennsylvania Tunnel and Terminal Company, $16,470,000; Consolidated Gas System, $86,144,500; Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Brooklyn, $12,000,000; New York Telephone Company, $44,170,000; Metropolitan Street Railway Company, $20,258,000; Coney Island & Brooklyn Railroad Company, $4,036,000; Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company, $10,900,000; Empire City Subway Company, Limited, $9,192,000; Interborough Rapid Transit Company, $183,500; Western Union Telegraph Company, $814,200.

MAY RAISE MORE RATES.

New Haven Road Explains That Recent Advances Were Not General.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 31.—Relative to the increase in passenger rates on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, the following statement was issued from the offices of the company here this afternoon:

"There has not been a general increase in passenger rates, the only changes being in the rate from New York to Boston, which has been increased from $4.65 to $4.75, and increases made in various local rates, which affect the through rate. It is, however, not at all improbable that a general increase in the passenger rates of fare may be necessary later, owing to large increases in wages granted to employes."

CHAUFFEUR SENT TO PRISON.

O'Hanlon Gets Twelve Months for Running Over and Killing a Girl.

For running over and killing Elizabeth Bott at Ninth Avenue and Twenty-third Street on the night of Oct. 1 John O'Hanlon, a chauffeur, who drove for the New York Taxicab Company, was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary by Justice Vernon M. Davis. The man had been convicted of manslaughter in the second degree, and could have been sent to Sing Sing for not less than seven years and six months, nor more than fifteen years.

Thomas Minford of 310 West Ninetieth Street, a broker with offices at 110 Wall Street, was fined $50 yesterday in Special Sessions for motor speeding as a second offense.

Albert Vastenhourd of 549 East 148th Street was sentenced to five days in City Prison and $100 fine for speeding as a third offense.

Western Maryland Road Extension.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 31.—Stockholders of the Western Maryland Railroad to-day ratified the action of the Board of Directors in authorizing the sale at $50 a share of the $25,469,670 unissued common stock of the company. The proceeds will be used for the construction of the extension from Cumberland, Md., to New Haven, Penn., 85 miles, which will connect the Western Maryland with the Pittsburg & Lake Erie, a subsidiary of the New York Central.

OHIO GRAFT SCANDAL TO BE FAR-REACHING

Inquiry Just Begun, Says District Attorney — Harmon Declares Democrats Will Not Be Spared.

PROGRESS IN PITTSBURG

Brand Makes Full Confession, and Announcement of Startling Developments Is Expected to Follow.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 31.—Another indictment was returned to-day as a result of the Grand Jury investigation of grafting among former State officials. The name of the man indicted has not been made public, but he was formerly a State official and is now practicing law in Cleveland.

The conviction of former State Printer Mark A. Slater and the indictment of six more men in the last two days is but the beginning of the greatest graft scandal ever known in Ohio. Prosecuting Attorney Weber said to-day that the investigation had only begun, but the present Grand Jury was tired out by its long work, and more indictments had been found already than could be handled in the courts this term, so that a short adjournment would be taken.

Attorney General Denman said to-day that he had been hampered in his work of investigation by some Democrats who ought to have given him more assistance, and that perhaps the significance of this was an effort to shield Democrats who might come under scrutiny. On learning of this Gov. Harmon said he would exert all his influence to see that none was shielded, and would demand that the wrongdoing of Democrats be punished as severely as that of Republicans.

Judge Evans decided to-day that the State had a right to include the bondsmen of former State Treasurers Isaac B. Cameron and William S. McKinnon, deceased, as defendants in the four suits which have been instituted to recover $328,506 interest on State funds, alleged to have been misappropriated.

Ex-Judge John T. Gale, George L. Ruggles, and ex-County Clerk John McCafferty, all members of the Ruggles-Gale Company, from which State officials bought supplies, appeared in court to-day and gave bond in the sum of $10,000 each.

Mr. Gale, who is an old man, insisted at first on going to jail, saying he would ask no man to go his bond. He was placed in a cell, where he sat nervously smoking a cigar.

"I consider this indictment a conviction, and it is now up to the court to sentence me," he said.

His son, Frank, finally persuaded him to sign the bond and he was released.

George F. Wood and Harry E. King, the others indicted yesterday, also gave bond to-day.

WILLIAM BRAND CONFESSES.

Contributes His Evidence Toward Trailing Pittsburgers "Higher Up."

PITTSBURG, March 31.—William Brand, former President of the Common Council, who was brought from the penitentiary to testify before the Grand Jury to-day, contributed his full confession to help the graft investigators in trailing the "men higher up."

When the jury came out this evening for a recess until to-morrow, District Attorney Blakely said Brand had given way completely in the grilling the inquisitors gave him to-day.

"I don't believe he could have suffered more in years of imprisonment than he has through the worry and humiliation of the last week," said Mr. Blakely.

Brand's confession and that of Charles Stewart yesterday leave but one more important witness to be heard, it is said, before more sensations are made public. This witness is Councilman Hugh Ferguson, who was at the Court House to-day seeking opportunity to tell his story and have done with it. The Grand Jury was too busy, however, and put him off until to-morrow.

P. B. Kearns, a former Select Councilman, was mutinous when brought up as a witness to-day, but was forced into submission by threats of commitment to jail for contempt of court. There were also more Directors and employes of banks before the jury to-day, and two young women, Bessie Currin and Nellie Sherlock, telephone operators at the Farmers' National Deposit Bank.

Three more Councilmen took the immunity bath by pleading no defense to charges of taking bribes. These were Samuel Poster, who admitted getting $400 from Stewart for his vote on the bank ordinance; T. C. Atkinson, who confessed taking bribes of $100 from Dr. W. H. Weber for his vote on a street ordinance and $500 from Stewart to support the bank ordinance, and John McCartney, a former Selectman, who said he got $400 for his votes on both ordinances.

Under threats of commitment to jail fourteen of the men recently indicted appeared to-day with bondsmen, who gave bail of $5,000 each.

To strengthen the evidence already obtained about the transfer of $45,000 to Stewart at the Hotel Imperial in New York in May, 1908, for alleged use in bribing Pittsburg Councilmen to vote for the bank ordinance, the Grand Jury is said to have asked for the 1908 registers of several New York hotels. Handwriting experts are to be employed, it is said, to determine definitely what Pittsburg men were in that city at the time the money was paid to Stewart.

EX-SUPERVISOR CONVICTED.

Other Graft Indictments in West Seneca Case Expected.

BUFFALO, March 31.—Henry C. Lein, a former Supervisor and President of the Town Board of West Seneca, was found guilty to-night of grand larceny in the first degree. Sentence was deferred.

The conviction was on an indictment which charged that money was secured from the town treasury on a false bill for extras in favor of L. Savage & Co., contractors. Savage, who was convicted a month ago, turned State's evidence, and was the principal witness for the prosecution.

Town Clerk Cosgrove and Justice Ott, another member of the board, also are under indictment. Additional indictments are expected to follow Lein's conviction.

NO STRIPES FOR GRAFTERS.

Influx of "Gentlemen Convicts" Brings Change in Pennsylvania.

PITTSBURG, March 31.—There are so many "gentlemen convicts" among the 700 prisoners of the Western Penitentiary that Warden John Francis announced to-day that the stripes are to be practically abandoned at that institution. The conspicuous prison garb serves only to embitter men, he says, and makes it more difficult to reform them.

Neat suits of blue with class letters on them are to be substituted gradually, and only the very worst men are to be punished by uniforms of the "zebra" type. At present a bank President and two former Councilmen at the penitentiary are wearing the humiliating prison clothes.

MAY END CARMEN'S STRIKE.

John Mitchell Intervenes at Philadelphia—New Yorkers in Jail.

PHILADELPHIA, March 31.—Following the arrival here to-day of John Mitchell, the well-known labor leader, several conferences were held with a view to adjusting the strike against the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company. At a late hour to-night, however, leaders of the street car men and officials of the Rapid Transit Company united in declaring the situation to be unchanged.

Soon after Mr. Mitchell arrived with Denis Hayes, National President of the Glass Blowers' Union, and several local labor leaders, he went into conference with State Senator James P. McNichol and counsel for the transit company. The conference lasted a half hour, and at its conclusion Senator McNichol said the prospects for a settlement are much brighter. Mr. Hayes predicted an agreement by Saturday.

Later a conference was held at the City Hall between C. O. Kruger, President of the transit company; State Senator Clarence Wolf, a Vice President of the company; Henry Clay, Director of Public Safety, and Senator McNichol.

Three strikebreakers were committed to jail this afternoon by Coroner Ford to await the action of the Grand Jury on the charge of homicide. They are accused of being responsible for the death of Leo Timmermann, an aged man, who was thrown from a car while it was running at high speed. The men were Charles McNamara, 112 West Twenty-first Street, New York; John J. Gaffney, 302 West 114th Street, New York, a motorman, and Frank H. Wilson, West Sixty-first Street, New York, a conductor.

MRS. ARNOLD NOT TO SUE.

Though Her Husband Is Not Going with Her to Europe.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., March 31.—Mrs. Lemuel Hastings Arnold, Jr., said here to-day that she is sailing for Europe on Saturday with a positive denial that she is suing her husband, whose home, The Orchard, is at Garden City, for a separation. This is in direct contradiction to the admission Mrs. John B. Horsington, her mother, is said to have made—that the pair had separated about two months ago. Mrs. Horsington could not be seen to-day in regard to the conflicting statements.

Mrs. Arnold is a very beautiful blonde and was, at the time of her marriage about five years ago, Mrs. Marie H. Holmes, a widow. Since her marriage her kennels of Dalmatian coach dogs have been famous at all the open air shows and in Madison Square Garden. Young Arnold is a grandson of a former Governor of Rhode Island, and is well known in the clubs. He is opening his home at Garden City this Spring.

WANT DR. STARK ARRESTED.

S. P. C. A. Charges That Rival Society Caused an Unfit Horse to be Worked.

John F. Freel, Superintendent of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, swore out a warrant yesterday for the arrest of Dr. Henry Stark, chief veterinarian of the Humane Society, the rival organization. Magistrate Harris adjourned hearing the case until April 5 in Jefferson Market Court. David Belais, President, and George Noll, Superintendent, of the Humane Society, declare that the arrest of Dr. Stark is due to spite and will support him.

Supt. Freel charges that Dr. Stark certified that a horse belonging to John Kaufman of 294 First Avenue was fit to work. The horse was killed by the S. P. C. A. officer with the owner's consent, so Supt. Freel said, after an examination had shown that it was too lame to work and too feeble to live.

The charge against Dr. Stark on the court docket is "causing and permitting a lame horse to be worked." Dr. Stark said that the horse was fit for light work when he issued the certificate.

PRAYED IN STREET; ARRESTED

Devout One Said 'Twas the Lord Had Filled His Pockets with Cutlery.

Kneeling in the street, at 110th Street and Manhattan Avenue, a man was found praying last night by Policeman Crosson of the West 125th Street Station. Receiving no answer to his questions as to what was the matter, Crosson arrested the man as a suspicious person.

At the station he said he was John Sullivan, a waiter, of 432 West Fourteenth Street. When Lieut. Meehan, deeming prayer an insuffiecent cause for arrest, asked him what was the matter, the man replied:

"The city is going to ruin. The Lord is approaching! Let sinners repent!"

When searched in the man's pockets were found 12 pairs of scissors, 12 pairs of eyeglasses, and 12 pocket knives.

"How did you get these?" asked the Lieutenant.

"I guess the Lord must have put them there," replied Sullivan.

"Sinner, repent," said the Lieutenant, as the disciple of repentence was taken toward a cell.

HIS LOST DAUGHTER A REAL 'WHITE SLAVE'

Father's Vain Search for 16-Year-Old Girl and Her Pitiable Return Told in Court.

WAS CAST OUT AT MIDNIGHT

And Came Home Ill and Aged—Mayor Sent Case to Rockefeller Jury—Alleged Slaver Caught.

Behind the arraignment in General Sessions yesterday of Angelo Gionfrida, a young fruit-dealer, of 7 Little West Twelfth Street on charges of abduction and assault runs a story of a father's weary search for a missing daughter, of her return, and of Mayor Gaynor's indignation at the wrong that had been done her growing so keen that the matter was called to the attention of those conducting the White Slave investigation. All this Assistant District Attorney Reynolds whispered to Judge Mulqueen yesterday, and asked that bail be fixed at $5,000.

"I make it $10,000," said the court, "and I wish I could make it ten times as much."

The Italian, who had been arrested earlier in the day by Detectives Russo and Thomas, was taken to the Tombs. This is the story Mr. Reynolds tells:

Nearly two years ago Maria Francesca Loschiavo disappeared from her home at 226 West Twenty-seventh Street. A man had met her, had told her there was no need for her to work, and she had gone away with him. Her father, Antonio, took up the search for the girl, who was then only 16 years old. Just as it began to seem as though the search would be vain some one brought word that such a girl as Maria had been seen in a resort in West Fortieth Street.

The father went to the address, disguising his intent, and one by one young girls were led before him. He sent them all away until one, a little girl, stood in the doorway. When he saw her the father cried out, and fell in a heap on the floor. He was hustled into the street, and when the police returned with him the occupants of the flat had vanished. Meanwhile the girl was taught to say she was 21. She said it dutifully before the Magistrate when complaint was brought, the case was dismissed, and the father saw her and her new friends disappear through a side door of the courtroom just as he and his wife entered from the front.

That was the last they saw of her until one cold morning in January, long before dawn, the girl knocked at the door of her home in West Twenty-seventh Street. The door was opened to her. Weak and ill, she told her story. In the house where her father found her only to lose her again she had been keut behind locked doors for two months. Last Fall the man took her to a house in Harlem, and it was from there, just after midnight, that they had driven her into the street. She had outlived her usefulness. They gave her 5 cents, the first money that had come to her of all she had brought them.

The girl was taken to Mayor Gaynor, and told the story as she had told it to her parents. It was through him that the matter reached the attention of Assistant District Attorney Reynolds. The Rockefeller Grand Jury found the indictment, and yesterday Detective Russo arrested Gionfrida, the man whom Maria accuses.

ONE OLD FIRE HORSE SAVED.

Almeda, City Servant for 25 Years, Won't Pull a Junk Cart.

Almeda, a fire horse known throughout the city, who has done valiant service in his time, besides taking many prizes at exhibitions, was saved yesterday from having to spend the rest of his life drawing a junk wagon around town, a fate that befell twenty-two of his mates when an auction of superannuated Fire Department horses was held at the sales stables of Fiss, Doerr & Carroll. The horses, ranging in ages from 15 to 25 years, brought from $25 to $135 each. Several years ago the department paid $350 apiece for them.

But Almeda was 25 years old, and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals went to his rescue. Several east-side hucksters and truckmen made an effort to get him, but Mr. Carroll bid him in and turned him over to the society. He will spend his days at ease on some farm where the clover is deep and fires cease from troubling.

Lawrence Mulligan Sued for $10,000.

Lawrence Mulligan, brother-in-law of "Big Tim" Sullivan, is being sued for $10,000 for breach of contract in the Supreme Court by Albert J. Kobler, who asserts that the holder of "New York's Best Known Annual Ball" defaulted on a contract by which Kobler should enjoy the programme privilege at the Circle Theatre. Mulligan obtained yesterday from Justice Fitzgerald an order compelling Kobler to submit a bill of particulars.

A Change Is Good If It's A Change for the Better

Many thought that with all the innovations developed by this house, such as the close-fitting collar and the natural shoulder, we would rest content with the fact that our garments were as perfect fitting as they could be made to be.

But no, the word content is not in our policy—we want to lead in the development of men's clothes in the future as well as in the past. To this end we have placed a new man at the helm in our designing department. He's strong, very strong on the subject of fit and style.

You should see his ideas of fit and style expressed in our suits and overcoats—$15 to $45.

Talks on Teeth
BY
G. GORDON MARTIN
(INCORPORATED)

Must Wear Plate

About five years ago a well known artist then residing in New York City made the rounds of the prominent dental offices, in an endeavor to find some way of supplying the teeth he had lost without wearing a plate.

He was in such shape that he could not even get a bridge.

When he came to us he only had four teeth in the upper jaw and five loose snags in the lower.

This was another desperate case, but we assured this gentleman, who is Mr. K. E. Felix, the well known landscape artist, that we could restore all of his missing teeth with the Martinolar Method, and that the results would be perfectly satisfactory.

He went to see several of our patients, and he got the same story from all of them, namely: —that the work was wonderful as well as satisfactory, and that if we promised to make a success that was all that he needed to concern himself about.

He concluded to have the work done, and after using these teeth for five years and more he wrote us the following letter:—

Lyon, N. J.

G. Gordon Martin (Inc.):

Gentlemen:—

Replying to your inquiry in reference to the dental work you did for me in 1905, will say that before going to you I consulted a number of prominent dentists in New York City, none of whom offered me anything more than a plate, but you agreed to restore my teeth permanently. Your work was splendid and quickly completed, and ever since has been a source of great comfort and satisfaction to me,—thanks to which I feel as young as I did 10 years ago, and my friends tell me I don't look a day older than I did then.

Hoping you are having the success your splendid work entitles you to, I remain, most sincerely,

K. E. FELIX.

He says that all of the dentists he consulted before he came to us told him the same thing, namely: that they could not do anything for him but pull what teeth he had left and give him plates to wear for the rest of his life.

They all agreed on that point.

By means of the Martinolar Method we are able to build around teeth that remain in the mouth, and when the structure is completed it is as firm as a rock in the mouth.

There is no strain on it anywhere.

Each tooth we supply carries its own strain independent of all the others, just as in the case of natural teeth.

We do not confine our work entirely to the Martinolar Method. We do dental work in all of its branches, from the simplest form of filling to the most intricate porcelain work.

The men that work here are master craftsmen. They have to be in order to hold positions in our offices. It is work that requires the highest type of the dental operators.

The Martinolar Method is painless, calls for no surgery, and, everything considered, is no more expensive than other first class dentists charge for ordinary bridge work.

Call and see us for a free examination and diagnosis. If you cannot do this at once, send for our book, "Martinolar Dentistry," which explains the method in detail. It is sent free on request.

NEW HEAD DETECTIVE M'CAFFERTY IS OUT

Replaced by Russell, Who Was Demoted to a Captaincy in the Duffy Case.

GENERAL POLICE SHAKE-UP

Carson from Harlem to a Park Command—Galvin, Who Cleaned Up Chinatown, to Coney for His Health.

Inspector James McCafferty, for nearly three years the Chief of the Detective Bureau of the New York Police Department, lost his job yesterday morning. Capt. John H. Russell succeeds him to-day in what is admitted to be the hardest job in the gift of the Police Commissioner. The appointment of Russell, who now becomes an acting Inspector, was totally unexpected by the rank and file, for only last year he was transferred from the Borough Inspectorship of Brooklyn and reduced to a Captaincy, as a direct result of the now famous Duffy case, stirred up by Mayor Gaynor, then a Supreme Court Justice, and responsible for the ousting of Gen. Bingham as Police Commissioner and the elevation of William F. Baker to his present place.

For several weeks it has been rumored that McCafferty, whose three years in the bureau have been the subject of bitter criticism, was soon to be retired, but nobody, either in or out of the department, had any idea that it was so near at hand. McCafferty goes to the Flatbush District in Brooklyn as Inspector in command there. He will assume his new duties this morning, and though the job does not carry with it such prestige as the one he relinquishes, he will have plenty to keep him busy, for many have been the complaints from Flatbush recently of inadequate police protection.

Inspector McCafferty, however, was not the only high police official to feel the axe yesterday.

Inspector O'Reilly New Captain.

Acting Inspector Miles O'Reilly, who some years ago came over to New York to clean up the Tenderloin, and for some months has commanded the Eleventh Inspection District in Brooklyn, fell a peg, and from an Inspectorship goes to command the Prospect Park Station, Brooklyn. Commissioner Baker in announcing the reduction of O'Reilly from a district to a precinct commander took occasion to say that his action was not in any way to be considered a reflection upon that officer.

"I am putting Capt. O'Reilly," the Commissioner said, "in Prospect Park in consideration of his long and good service in the department. As he is a veteran he will have a fine place in congenial surroundings."

Capt. Michael Galvin of the Elizabeth Street Station, the man who has been credited with cleaning up Chinatown, was another who figured in yesterday's shake-up. As in the case of O'Reilly, Commissioner Baker announced that Capt. "Mike's" going was in no wise a reflection upon his ability as a policeman. Galvin goes to Coney Island, and the Commissioner said that he wanted it understood it was because he hoped the change from the unpleasant Elizabeth Street surroundings to the sea air of Coney Island would improve Capt. Galvin's health that he was transferred.

"Galvin," said Commissioner Baker, "has been in bad health and has wanted to get away. He wanted to leave Elizabeth Street two months ago on this account, but there was some work that had to be done there and he consented to stay and do it."

Capt. Frederick Carson of the West 125th Street Station, one of the police officers who figured in the strenuous ten days' happenings that followed Commissioner Baker's Atlantic City vacation recently, was also transferred, and goes from the busiest precinct north of the West Forty-seventh Street Station to the peaceful post in Central Park.

Carson Recently Tried and Acquitted

Carson, it will be remembered, was recently tried on charges preferred by Chief Inspector Schmittberger for his failure to close a certain gambling house in West 116th Street. Schmittberger's men raided the place while Baker was away, and First Deputy Commissioner Bugher was the acting head of the department. Commissioner Baker, when he got back from his vacation, acquitted Capt. Carson of blame so far as his failure to close the place was concerned.

The other officers transferred were Acting Captain George L. Harrington, from the Prospect Park Station, Brooklyn, to the Gates Avenue Station in the same borough; John G. Farrell, from Central Park to the West 125th Street Station; Acting Captain Richard Enright, the department orator and President of the Police Lieutenants' Benevolent Association, from Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, to the Elizabeth Street Station, Manhattan; Acting Captain Matthew Robinson, from Coney Island to Fifth Street, Manhattan, the last named being the station vacated by Russell, who becomes Chief of the Detective Bureau.

These were the transfers announced yesterday. The rumors are that more are to come. The going of McCafferty, however, was the cause of most talk, and naturally, owing to that officer's prominence, his reduction overshadowed all others, both in public and police interest. McCafferty took his downfall philosophically, but would make no comment. Talking it was said has not improved the standing of certain policemen to any appreciable extent recently.

Nothing Against McCafferty.

In announcing the transfer of McCafferty, Commissioner Baker spoke of him as an honest and hard working officer, but added that, in view of important changes soon to be made in the methods of the department, he had deemed it best to put a younger man at the head of the bureau who could easily adapt himself to the new conditions. Asked why he had selected Russell as the man best adapted to inaugurate the proposed changes, the Commissioner said:

"Inspector Russell is a very able man. He has had twenty-three years' experience on the force, and is still a young man, and, as there will be a lot of work involved in bringing the Detective Bureau up to a higher standard of efficiency, a man is needed who is unhampered with any past affiliations with the bureau. Inspector Russell I think is such a man."

John H. Russell, the new Chief of Detectives, entered the department in October, 1886, when he was made a patrolman. Ten years later he was made a Sergeant, and in April, 1897, he was promoted to a Lieutenantcy. In October, 1905, he was made a Captain, and two years later, in 1907, an Inspector. In 1909 he was made Borough Inspector of Brooklyn, retaining that position until the Duffy case cropped out, and as a result of Mayor Gaynor's activity he lost his Borough Inspectorship and was reduced to a Captaincy.

Things in McCafferty's Way.

Inspector Russell has had a great deal of clerical experience in Headquarters. He was held in high esteem by Commissioners Partridge, McAdoo, and Bingham, particularly the last, who was the one who promoted him to the Borough Inspectorship of Brooklyn.

The new Detective Chief is a rather small man and has red hair. He has long been considered one of the best disciplinarians. He is wiry and quick in action, and is one of the best-dressed men in the department.

Inspector McCafferty owed his place to ex-Commissioner Bingham, who promoted him from a Lieutenantcy to a Captaincy, and then to an Inspectorship all within a few days, his promotion being the quickest, it is said, in the history of the department.

McCafferty's tenure of office has not been lined with roses. During his term there have been terrible crimes committed in New York, and the perpetrators of them escaped. Among the best remembered are the unsolved Elsie Sigel and the little [illegible]

HARTRIDGE'S SUPPER BILLS.

Spent $100 a Night on Chorus Girls in Thaw's Interest, He Says.

Just what the task of "seeing" reporters consisted of while he was running up an unsatisfied bill for $94,000 in fees for this and other services for the Thaws, during preparation for the first Thaw trial, was explained by Clifford W. Hartridge, one of the original Thaw counsel, to Judge Holt in the United States Circuit Court yesterday.

Mr. Hartridge continued his testimony as a witness in his own behalf in his suit against Mrs. Thaw. He said he did not wish any sinister significance to attach to his former testimony that he spent much time daily "seeing" the news writers, as all he did was to show them data, and then leave them to use it as they pleased.

Mr. Hartridge also went into further details about his Broadway detective efforts. He said he spent $100 a night every night for three months for food and drinks and cab fare for chorus girls and friends of Thaw, among whom he searched for likely witnesses.

Mr. Kellogg of counsel for Mrs. Thaw took offense at the mention of this era of $100 suppers.

"Your Honor," he said, addressing the court, "I have been a practicing attorney for a number of years, and I have never considered it proper for a member of the bar to charge a client for cab fare, supper, and wine for women he thinks it advisable to see in connection with a case. It appears to me to be unprofessional."

Mr. Wilder of counsel for Hartridge said that the bill of particulars of expenditures and fees was so long it would take him another ten days to get all the items before the court. Yesterday was the trial's fourth day.

Disclaimer from Mr. Hartridge.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My attention has been called to an article in your paper of this date. I am sure, from my observation of and intercourse with the representatives of the papers of this city, that the article was written through some misapprehension of my position in regard to my charging Mrs. Thaw in any part of my bill for interviews or communications with representatives of the press, except so far as they took up my time, and except so far as I had to use my judgment in what matters I would discuss with them, and what matters I would not. I have made it, or attempted to make it, perfectly plain, that I never in any way influenced or attempted to influence any New York or other newspaper. On the contrary, I have repeatedly said, both on the witness stand and off, that I found the representatives of the New York press eminently fair, and any person or persons attempting to influence public opinion by misquoting me, I think, deserves your rebuke, and not me, who never made any such statement.

Any protecting of the Thaws from the publication of any scandal or scandalous article that might possibly have been hurtful to the Thaw case, such as the Dix story, was done by getting the articles or stories from the individuals who had them, and not by attempting to stop the press from publishing articles, except where I could show that they were absolutely false.

I have been practically challenged by Mrs. Thaw to account for my time, and you must recognize the fact that some of my time was taken up with members of the press, whose duty it was, as you said, to see and interview me during and before the trial of Harry K. Thaw.

I sincerely trust, in justice to me, you will give this letter at least the prominence you have given an article which, perhaps, without intending to do so, has, or might, cause me much injury.

ASKS ARMOUR'S EXTRADITION.

Jersey Beef Prosecutor Sends the Papers and Indictment to Fort.

Prosecutor Garven of Hudson County, who succeeded in having six packing companies and twenty-one Directors of packing companies indicted for conspiring to raise the prices of foodstuffs, sent yesterday to Gov. Fort of New Jersey papers asking for the extradition of J. Ogden Armour from Chicago. Mr. Armour is one of the indicted packers. With the application was sent affidavits showing that Mr. Armour was in Jersey City at least twice in the two years covered by the indictment.

Samuel Untermyer, one of the lawyers for the indicted men, has always contended that none others than Samuel Patterson of Chicago, James E. Bathgate of East Orange, and Frederick B. Cooper of Montclair have been in the State of New Jersey during the past two years.

The Hudson County Grand Jury will go into court this afternoon and make a presentment to regulate the cold storage business.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 31.—J. Ogden Armour of Chicago celebrated his indictment in New Jersey for conspiracy in controlling the prices of meat products with a "good time" in St. Louis to-day. He said he didn't know much about the fact that extradition papers had been filed for him with Gov. Fort of New Jersey to-day, though he had read something about it in the newspapers.

The increased cost of living, Mr. Armour said, had no connection with the tariff or the Republicans. The farmers were to blame for it, he said. Hereafter, he believed, they would raise more crops and stock, and the cost of living accordingly would fall. Also, fewer farmer boys would come to the city, because they could get more remunerative work at home for a while.

He was the guest of Charles H. Huttig, President of the Third National Bank.

WIRE COMPANIES' MERGER

Western Union and Telephone Officers Discuss Joint Traffic Agreement.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 31.—Western Union Telegraph Company officials mostly from the New York offices met in joint session here to-day with officers of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company relative to the arrangement of joint traffic agreements on wire service. The move follows what was announced several months ago as a financial amalgamation of the two big telephone interests and the Western Union Telegraph Company.

In many instances the use of joint offices in large centres is contemplated. The officials of the Western Union departed from New York a month ago and went South and West, around the Atlantic and Gulf seaboards as far as Galveston.

"We came to St. Louis," said Mr. Hall, Chairman of the Executive Committee, "to arrange with the Bell Telephone Company of Missouri, which is associated with the Bell system, the details of closer traffic arrangements between the telegraph and telephone systems. We have agreed upon general principles, but there remains an immense amount of detail to be worked out.

"We intend to have the service so developed that from any telephone a message may be sent to any part of the world by the joint use of telephone, telegraph, and cable wires, and an answer received promptly at the sending point without the necessity of the sender moving from his office or his home.

"The telegraph and the telephone companies will continue separate and distinct organizations. There has been no absorption, no merging, no consolidation. Each has its own field, but there are certain points where they may meet on common ground and by mutual traffic arrangements increase their opportunities for public service."

Leather Men from the Swamp So Decide After Hearing from Fire Chief.

The seventh annual dinner of the Hide and Leather Association of New York was held in the Hotel Astor last night. Edward M. Saloman, the President, was toastmaster, and the speakers were Public Service Commissioner William McCarroll, the Rev. Dr. Nehemiah Boynton, and Deputy Fire Chief William Guerin.

Mr. McCarroll announced that the present city administration, from Mayor Gaynor down, was co-operating with the Public Service Commission in its effort to solve the rapid transit problems of New York. Chief Guerin told the history of the Fire Department, and argued for the installation of the high-pressure system of water protection in "the Swamp," as the leather district is known. Such installation would reduce the fire insurance rates in that section of the city at least 15 per cent., he said.

GRAND JURY DEFIANT, REFUSES TO INDICT

Ordered Back by Judge Rosalsky to Find True Bill Against Builders.

MUST DO ITS SWORN DUTY

Conceded Facts Sufficient to Convict, Court Says, in a Sharp Charge—One Juror Protests.

The February Grand Jury was soundly berated in the Court of General Sessions yesterday by Judge Rosalsky, who refused to discharge it when it reported its inability to find an indictment against the Building Trades Employers' Association for blacklisting the members of the Steamfitters' Union. Ten days before the court had told the Grand Jury it was its duty to indict, on the conceded facts, and its disregard of his instructions seemed to come as a shock yesterday. It was a defiance unprecedented in the memory of the present criminal courts' generation.

Judge Rosalsky pointed out that his legal interpretation had been sustained by Justice Fitzgerald's decision on the civil side of the same case. He reminded the jurors that it was their duty to find indictments wherever they felt a petit jury would be justified in convicting.

"The court has no power to compel you to do your duty, gentlemen," said Judge Rosalsky, "but the court has the power to remind you that you have taken an oath fairly to indict without fear or favor. Let me remind you that you are not above the law. When you ask for the court's instruction on conceded and undisputed facts, which unerringly point in the direction of guilt, it is your duty to follow the court's instruction. I therefore decline to discharge you, and direct you to continue your consideration of the case, arranging among yourselves such times as you shall see fit to meet for the purpose."

One Juror Speaks in Protest.

Most of the Grand Jurors had nothing to say, but Judson Lawson, who has served on the panel for fifteen years, was on his feet as soon as the Judge had finished. He took exception to the Judge's frequent repetition of the fact that they had asked him for instructions.

"We did nothing of the kind," he said. "It was the District Attorney who asked the court to interpret the law for us."

Assistant District Attorney De Ford quietly admitted that this was true. Judge Rosalsky made no comment.

"And is your Honor informed that since your first charge we have heard additional testimony in the matter," persisted Mr. Lawson, "testimony to show that the striking steamfitters could return to work at any time they saw it?"

"That does not matter at all," said the court. "The question is whether or not the law has been violated by acts done prior to the time when they were allowed to go back to work. This matter is of vital importance to the administration of justice in this city. If we are to have Grand Juries that set themselves above the law, there will be no way to bring a question of crime to a judicial determination."

With this the Grand Jury filed out, many of them appearing quite pleased. They left the building without arranging any time for their next meeting.

"My future action in the matter remains to be seen," was Judge Rosalsky's comment last night, a sentiment which District Attorney Whitman expressed himself as willing to indorse.

Steamfitters Were Locked Out.

The Steamfitters' Union went on strike after their withdrawal from the general arbitration treaty that had prevailed among the building trades for several years. This was followed by an agreement among the employers not to employ the steamfitters, "directly or indirectly, through sub-contractors or otherwise," a conspiracy, according to the interpretation placed upon it by Clarence J. Shearn, counsel for the union. He laid the matter before Mr. Whitman, who in turn referred it to Assistant District Attorneys De Ford, Ellison, and Breen, known as Mr. Whitman's "Trust-Busting Bureau."

The recalcitrant Grand Jury consists of Robert A. C. Smith, Foreman; Aaron Schubart, Hermen L. Emmet, William L. Mitchell, George B. McIntyre, Charles G. Moller, Daniel D. Wylie, Gabriel S. Boderheim, William I. Innes, Philo S. Hagar, Milton Einstein, Emil Frank, Frederick B. Tilgman, Frank C. Earle, William J. Bowe, Judson Lawson, Albert F. Cronhardt, Leon S. Chase, William T. Rooney, Aaron A. Fischel, Michaelis H. Fiegel, J. Harson Purdy, and William A. Castle.

Sinai Hospital, the Hebrew Benevolent and Orphan Asylum, the Montefiore Home, the Home for Aged and Infirm Hebrews, the United Hebrew Charities, and the Beth Israel Hospital, and $500 each to the Machzikel Talmud Torah and the North American Relief Society for the Indigent Jews of Palestine.

Steel Dividends Are Up, He Says, Why Not Salaries?

CHICAGO, March 31.—In the course of an interview in which he likened Speaker Cannon to Abraham Lincoln, declared that the United States Senate was the finest legislative body in the world, and admitted that he couldn't sit through one grand opera out of four, Mr. Carnegie was asked his opinion of the voluntary advances in salaries announced by certain Eastern railroads.

"I know that we in the United States Steel Corporation raised our dividends," he said, "so why shouldn't we raise salaries as well? Capital is always better able to suffer than labor, and it should always be made to suffer first. On the other hand, what is good for one should be good for the other."

TOTTENVILLE GETS NEW NAME

Changed to Bentley Manor—D. A. R. Protest to Postmaster General.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Historic Tottenville, S. I., named after a long line of patriots, will become Bentley Manor to-morrow, after a Tory who had to flee to Canada during the Revolutionary War. If the Daughters of the American Revolution want the name restored to Tottenville they will have to effect the change in the same way the Tory faction got it altered to Bentley Manor.

First Assistant Postmaster General Grandfield so decided to-day in response to protests, one of which came from Mrs. Donald McLean, Honorary President of the D. A. R. The Totten family, descendants of famous partiots, also objected. Mrs. McLean threatened to come to Washington to-day with a committee of fifty women and interview Postmaster General Hitchcock.

Mr. Grandfield says the department has no objection to chaging it back to Tottenville if the people there want it. There appeared to be no objection to Bentley Manor, he said, when the change was first proposed.

COURT PUNCHES A SPECTATOR

Indiana Judge Leaves Bench to Resent with His Fists Adverse Comment.

CHICAGO, March 31.—A new method of punishment for contempt of court was originated yesterday by Judge H. E. Kaske of Hammond, Ind. When Martin Solki, a spectator at a criminal trial in Judge Kaske's court persisted in applying the verbal lash to the court, Judge Kaske left the bench and landed a stiff right-hand swing on Solki's jaw, drawing blood.

"I wouldn't take the trouble of fining the man; that would do no good," said Judge Kaske afterward. "In the absence of the bailiff there was nothing left for me to do but get down off the bench and give Solki what he deserved."

Solki refused to have the court arrested for assault and battery.

AMBULANCE STRUCK BY CAR.

Was Hurrying to Accident Call—Doctor Escapes and Attends to Hurt Driver

While hurrying to attend three employes of the F. C. Farnsworth Co., who had been crushed beneath a heavy steel racket, weighing 500 pounds, which they were putting up in the Bush Building at Thirty-seventh Street and Second Avenue, Brooklyn, last evening, an ambulance from the Norwegian Hospital was struck by a northbound Church Avenue car at Thirty-ninth Street and Third Avenue. One front wheel of the ambulance was broken off, and the driver, John Mulcahy, thrown out, suffering a fracture of the skull.

Dr. Carr, the ambulance surgeon, jumped in time to escape injury, and then attended Mulcahy. A patrol wagon from the Fourth Avenue Police Station took the injured man back to the hospital, where an operation was performed upon him.

Meanwhile, the surgeon hurried in the patrol wagon to the first accident, arriving as an ambulance from the Seney Hospital appeared. He found the falling of the steel rack had caused the fracture of three rigs and internal injuries to Michael Clutsheck, of 277 Twenty-third Street, and painful bruises to Frank Scewinsky, of Fourth Avenue and Twentieth Street, and Henry J. Smart, of 260 Fifty-second Street. The two first named were taken to the hospital.

All three men and the ambulance driver will recover.

Officers of the defendant company are said to have valued the coal and iron lands at $5,000,000.

MERGER INQUIRY COMES TO AN END

Railroads Have Concluded Their Defense in Suit to Break the Union Pacific Combination.

MANY DELAYS SINCE START

Case Has Become an Old One and Principal Witnesses Have Died—Notable Men Have Testified.

The defense of the so-called Harriman lines in the Government's suit to dissolve the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger came to a close yesterday before Special Examiner Sylvester G. Williams in the Custom House, and next week the rebuttal testimony will begin. Before the Summer vacation season opens the lawyers expect to wind up the suit, which threatens to divorce the two big railroad systems brought together by the late E. H. Harriman.

Next to the Government's attack on Standard Oil the merger suit has been one of the longest drawn out of the kind. It was commenced a year and a half ago, and has had railroad men and those interested in railroads on tip-toe ever since.

Two of the chief officials in the Harriman lines have died since the suit started, E. H. Harriman himself and William D. Cornish, Vice President of the Harriman system. The testimony of each of these men, however, is in the record of the suit, for both Mr. Harriman and Mr. Cornish testified before the Inter-State Commerce Commission when the original inquiry leading up to the Government's suit was made.

Few cases brought by the Government have been adjourned so many times as this one. Beginning with last July a series of postponements was obtained by the Harriman lawyers which frustrated the plans of the Government's legal staff to have the case in the hands of the Judges early in the present year. In June last the Government completed the examination of its own witnesses, placing on the record a mass of statistics tending to prove that competition existing before the merger in 1901 came to an end when the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific came under the same control. Hearings have been held in New York, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco, and several other cities.

After the Summer vacation season last year, when it came time for the Harriman lawyers to go ahead with their defense, the death of Mr. Harriman brought about the first postponement. Judge Lovett, who had been conducting the defense, was obliged to turn the case over to his associates when he was elected to succeed Mr. Harriman as head of the system.

C. A. Severance, the Government's lawyer, agreed to give the defense until Oct. 4 to start in with their evidence. But another adjournment was asked for and the time was set in November. But again the Harriman lawyers were not ready, and the time was extended to Jan. 3, then to Jan. 17, and then to Feb. 15.

During this period, when the case was at a standstill, an appeal was made to President Taft by the Harriman lawyers to have the suit dropped on the ground that the Government had not made out a case against the Harriman roads. This was denied, however, on the advice of Attorney General Wickersham, and a few weeks ago the defense began.

Some of the best known railroad men in the country have testified in behalf of the Harriman lines. J. C. Stubbs, Vice President of the Harriman lines and Director of Traffic, was one of them. Lewis J. Spence, General Eastern Agent of the Southern Pacific, was another. Then came John A. Munroe, Freight Traffic Manager of the Union Pacific, and Julius Kruttschnitt, Vice President of both the Union and the Southern Pacific. A. L. Mohler, Vice President of the Union Pacific, and William L. Park, General Manager of the same line, were others.

Otto H. Kahn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. also testified in behalf of the Harriman lines, as did Edwin Hawley a few days ago.

Most of the Government's witnesses during the early stages of the suit were shippers over both of the lines, and the burden of their testimony was that whereas before the merger the Southern Pacific and the Union Pacific maintained separate agencies in most of the large cities of the United States, since the merger one agency attends to the business of both lines. This is not true, however, in New York and Chicago, where separate agencies are still maintained.

Just what witnesses will be called next week in rebuttal has not been announced, but on Tuesday the hearings will start again.

SUES DOCTOR FOR $25,000.

Dead Boy's Mother Says Physician Wrongfully Kept Son's Heart.

Mrs. Mary Hassard, as administratrix of the estate of her son, Francis Hassard, who died on April 2, 1907, in the Harlem Hospital, has begun suit in the Supreme Court against Dr. Timothy D. Lehane, a Coroner's physician, for $25,000. Mrs. Hassard charges that Dr. Lehane illegally abstracted and retained her son's spleen and heart when he made an autopsy on the young man who came to his death as the result of an accident at a funeral which ruptured his spleen.

Ex-Coroner Julius Harburger came to court yesterday to testify that he had ordered Dr. Lehane to return the missing organs to the relatives. It is alleged that they are still in Dr. Lehane's possession.

The case was not called yesterday, but it is expected that it will come to trial to-day before Justice Page and a jury.

Wants Picture Attachment Lifted.

Counsel for Emil Paculty, an art dealer, who is being sued for $3,800 by Dr. John E. Stillwell for alleged fraud, moved yesterday to vacate the attachment obtained by Dr. Stillwell on two paintings, a Rubens, entitled "Gathering of the Manna," and a Girard David, entitled "Virgin Holding the Head of the Dead Christ."

When these pictures were entered at the Custom House they were valued at $40,000 and $60,000, respectively. Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum reserved decision.

FIREMAN KIDNAPPED BY SUGAR STRIKERS

Taken from Home and Attacked with Knives in an Effort to Force All Men Out.

A SUSPICIOUS FIRE NEARBY

Many Rescues in a Tenement Occupied Chiefly by Families of Refinery Workers Who Have Remained Loyal.

Two incidents marked the strike yesterday of the sugar mixers of the works of the American Sugar Refining Company, at South Second Street and Kent Avenue, Williamsburg, who went out on Monday because the management had refused to permit any longer the bringing of intoxicating liquors into the factory. The foreman stoker was kidnapped in the morning and threatened by the strikers if he would not induce the firemen to walk out, and in the evening a fire took place in a crowded tenement house in which many of the men who have remained loyal to the company live, which the police believe was set ablaze by the strikers

As John Zuppner, the foreman fireman, was having breakfast yesterday morning at his home, 73 North Sixth Street, a number of the strikers called him down to the street. He was surrounded and was hustled along Kent Avenue and Grand Street to Cecella Hall. There he was told to order the men under him to walk out and, if possible, dump the fires. The idea was that if the firemen struck the engineers would be at a standstill and the works must close down.

Zuppner refused to obey the strikers' demands, and according to his story they became ugly. They drew knives and pricked him on the body and threatened to kill him if he still remained obdurate. One of the strikers was, however, his friend, and he slipped out and told Mrs. Zuppner what had happened. She hurried to the Bedford Avenue Police Station and called on Capt. Dooley for assistance.

The Captain with several of his men at once rushed to the hall, and the strikers, hearing them coming, stampeded through the windows to the fire escapes. Zuppner was found lying half conscious in a dark corner. His face was scratched and cut and his clothes were torn. He was taken to the police station, where he told his tale. He said that he knew some of his captors by sight, and at the suggestion of Capt. Dooley went to the Bedford Avenue Police Court and swore out warrants against six of them. They were arrested and fined $10 each by Magistrate Higginbotham.

The row of five-story tenement houses, 291 to 305 Kent Avenue, are in the main inhabited by employes of the sugar refinery. As it so happens No. 299, in which live twenty families numbering about seventy people, is occupied almost entirely by the men who have refused to go on strike. Yesterday evening, at about 7 o'clock, it was discovered to be afire, and the police are inclined to connect the blaze with the strikers.

The policemen rushed upstairs, calling to the tenants to make their way to the roof. On the third floor they stumbled over the bodies of Mary and Joseph Colosky, 4 and 3 years old, respectively. They were overcome by smoke and were unconscious. Their parents were too frightened to aid them and had already dashed to the roof. The policemen carried the children up after them.

On the fourth floor they came across Mrs. Julia Gwilster, an invalid, 60 years old. She also was overcome by the smoke and had to be carried to the top top of the house. In the same way the patrolmen helped about a dozen children to the roof.

The fire was confined to the ground floor of No. 299, but also spread through the archway of the cellar to No. 301. It was put out after it had done about $1,000 worth of damage. The police called the attention of Assistant Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy to it and asked him to investigate its origin. They believe that if it proves to be incendiary the man who started it climbed over the fence behind the houses on South Third Street and so gained admission to the cellars.

A good deal of violence took place yesterday morning in connection with the strike. As the men who have not come out were going to work the strikers attacked them, and the police were forced to use their clubs freely in their protection. Six men were arrested and were held in the Bedford Avenue Court to answer the charges against them.

It has been necessary to draw police lines around the sugar refinery, and all along Kent Avenue, from South Second to South Fifth Street and for a block either way beyond, policemen have been stationed. No one is permitted to pass their lines unless he can give his credentials. Meanwhile the company maintains that it has had no difficulty in filling the places of the strikers.

RUSH BILL TO GET SUNDAY SALOONS

Liquor Dealers, Alarmed by Gaynor's Excise Plan, Would Legalize Such Selling.

DENY THERE'S MUCH GRAFT

Occasionally Send Wine to Police Captains—Things Going Smoothly Till the Mayor Acted.

It got out yesterday that the Mayor's excise plan, which admittedly contains possibilities for closing on Sundays all the saloons in the city not protected by the Raines law, has crystallized a determination among members of the New York State Brewers' Association to press for passage at this session of the Legislature a bill legalizing the sale of liquor during certain hours of Sunday. There are about 5,400 saloons in Manhattan and the Bronx, about 38 per cent. of which are Raines law hotels.

Michael O'Hanlon, a member of the Legislative Committee of the Brewers' Association, who has a café and bowling alley but not a Raines law place at Twenty-third Street and Seventh Avenue, admitted yesterday that no saloon keeper in the city would take the risk of keeping his place open on Sundays if the police became active against them. He came out openly for legalized selling hours on Sundays as by far the best thing to be done.

According to Mr. O'Hanlon the Brewers' Association and their allies in similar organizations will urge the passage of a bill permitting saloons all over the State to be open from 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon to 11 o'clock at night. This, he said, would not interfere with church services, and would give the saloon attendants an opportunity to go to church or mass in the mornings, a privilege they do not enjoy now, since most of the bars are open all day from early morning until after midnight.

He said that if such a law could be obtained the reputable saloon keepers would obligate themselves to see that all the saloons were closed during the forbidden hours.

Several hurried conferences were held yesterday by members of the Brewers' Association, at which the new bill was discussed. It will probably be introduced next week. Mr. O'Hanlon said it had not been the plan to press it until the Mayor announced his plan, as things were moving smoothly before that. Mr. O'Hanlon denied that anything like the graft existed that the Mayor complained of. He said no one but a weak man would give to the police unless he wanted to do so, but that some saloon keepers sent a case of wine to a Captain occasionally just to say he knew the Captain of his precinct pleasantly. He considered it a sort of distinction to do so.

Another saloon keeper admitted in the same connection that his place had been raided five times, but he had never been convicted, nor had he ever paid the police a cent.

Mr. O'Hanlon said the most intelligent saloon keepers of the city took the view that because of the cosmopolitan character of the city's population it was unreasonable to deny to a large part of the population the refreshment demanded because of the wishes or convictions of comparatively few. The saloon keepers declare that if the citizens of New York could vote on the matter legalized Sunday selling would be certain.

With the intention of making a fight before the Legislature for a more liberal law, Mr. O'Hanlon said that the Brewers' Association had already got into touch with the Mayors and leading citizens of all the larger towns and communities of the State, thus finding that sentiment favored such a measure.

Whether the Mayor will press the new plan is a question the saloon keepers admit they cannot answer. They do not think the Mayor is opposed to a liberal Sunday law, and a member of the Brewers' Association was sent to see him soon after his election to see how he stood on the subject. The result of the visit could not be learned yesterday.

Police Commissioner Baker had a conference with the Mayor yesterday afternoon over the general excise plan and the rules for the instruction of the patrolmen. The Commissioner stated later that it would be impossible to get the plan perfected and the rules in the hands of the police in time for the coming Sunday.

The Mayor received a letter yesterday from Frank Moss, head of the Society for the Prevention of Crime, denying that either he or his organization had been backing Patrolmen Keenan and Cunningham in their raids in the Bronx. The letter said:

"If I may speak as an individual, and as one who has held the highest position in controlling the Police Department, I would say that whatever may have been the motive of the two men [Keenan and Cunningham] I could never countenance insubordination and unregulated police activity."

He added that if the Superintendent of his society was at the hearing he was acting without instructions, but attended of his own accord simply to be able to inform the society board what was going on.

The Mayor replied that he never had the remotest suspicion that Mr. Moss personally had the slightest thing to do with "aiding and abetting the two policemen in acts of insubordination," and that he was glad to receive the disavowal on the part of the society.

BROOKLYN MEN WORRIED.

Parkhurst Agents Are Looking Around Over There.

The uneasiness which Mayor Gaynor's letter on the enforcement of the excise law caused Brooklyn saloonkeepers was added to yesterday when it became known that the Parkhurst Society was looking into liquor selling conditions in that borough.

The first intimation the saloon men received that this organization was interesting itself in Brooklyn was the appearance yesterday in the Gates Avenue Police Court of Superintendent McClintock of the society. He gave attentive ear to the testimony in the cases of two bartenders, charged with selling liquor on Sunday to McClintock. He did not appear against either of the men, but, it was said, that agents of the society had been quietly at work in Brooklyn for several weeks getting evidence against saloonkeepers.

In addition to their other troubles Brooklyn liquor sellers are now in fear of raids by men of the Parkhurst Society. It is believed that many of them will close their places at midnight to-morrow rather than take any chances of getting into trouble on Sunday.

Already there is a great demand for experienced "light houses" or side door guards in the borough. Many of these, their services not being needed, had gone to work at other trades.

DIES IN A DANCE AT SEA.

Clarence McIlhenny of Philadelphia a Victim of Apoplexy on the Adriatic.

Clarence McIlhenny of 4,840 Cedar Avenue, Philadelphia, dropped dead while waltzing on the White Star liner Adriatic on her last trip from Southampton, which ended yesterday. Mr. McIlhenny was foremost in obtaining permission for the dance. He was traveling alone, but had a number of friends on board.

Early Wednesday evening he was one of a small party that sat down to a private farewell dinner in the saloon. While dinner was on Mr. McIlhenny got up and occupied the seat which had been used by Prof. Agassiz, the scientist, whose sudden death on board has already been told by wireless. His action was noticed at the time and afterward was commented upon. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hagen of New York and Mrs. Hagen's sister, Miss Eva M. A. Steimmetz.

Mr. McIlhenny was in the best of spirits. He danced several times with the young women. Shortly after 10 o'clock he asked Miss Steimmetz to dance with him. Suddenly he staggered toward the rail of the sun deck, where the dance was being held, and collapsed. His partner prevented him falling and another passenger ran to his side as he slipped to the deck. Some one signalled the orchestra, and the music stopped.

Dr. F. H. Martin, of Chicago, and Dr. Francis Carter, assistant ship's surgeon, were on deck at the time. With Dr. W. F. N. O'Loughlin, ship's surgeon, they worked over Mr. McIlhenny for an hour. It was useless. He had apparently died soon after he was stricken. Apoplexy is said to have been the cause of death.

Mr. McIlhenny was a member of the firm of C. Shillard, Smith & Co., woolen merchants of Philadelphia. He was 58 years old, a widower with several children. Mr. Smith, his partner, met the Adriatic and took the body to Philadelphia.

Prof. Agassiz died suddenly in his room on Monday night. He was returning from abroad with his son Maximilian. Another son, Rodolph, boarded the Adriatic from the revenue cutter yesterday. The body was taken to Boston last night. The funeral will be held from Appleton Chapel, Cambridge.

BAD BROOKLYN FIRE.

Lumber Yard Burns Up, Damaging Adjacent Property.

For the second time within a few hours, the Fire Department in Brooklyn was called upon at 4 o'clock yesterday morning to a "four alarm" fire in the lumber yard of Charles H. Pearson, Wallabout Street, between Walton Street and Lee Avenue. The first call was to the factory of the Ironclad Manufacturing Company, in Cook Street, early on Wednesday evening.

The fire yesterday morning started in the boiler room of the Pearson plant and spread rapidly through the piles of dried timber stored in the yard. Factories and tenements adjacent were threatened, and the sleeping occupants in the latter were aroused. No one was injured.

The fourth alarm brought Deputy Fire Commissioner O'Keeffe, Deputy Police Commissioner Reynolds and Borough Inspector of Police Holahan, who saw that the Pearson plant could not be saved and directed the firemen's efforts to preventing the destruction of the neighboring property.

The loss on the Pearson plant is about $45,000 and to surrounding buildings $5,000.

For a City Bath House at Coney.

Controller Prendergast wrote a letter to Borough President Steers of Brooklyn yesterday, asking for information as to the city's title to ocean front property at Coney Island, which was taken up by ex-Controller Metz last year. It is understood the Controller's interest is due to the agitation in favor of the establishment of a municipal bathing pavilion.

WOLTER MUST PLEAD TO MURDER TO-DAY

Counsel for the Youth Charged with Killing Ruth Wheeler Fails in Effort for Delay.

FOUGHT FOR TEN DAYS' TIME

District Attorney Hopes to Make Record in Getting Conviction—Ready to Meet Only Two Lines of Defense Open.

Counsel for Albert Wolter, in their desire to delay the trial of their young client for the murder of Ruth Wheeler, ran counter yesterday to the District Attorney's plan to deliver Wolter, if guilty, to Sing Sing in record time.

Judge Mulqueen, before whom the opening of the battle for delay occurred, listened to Lawyer Scott's plea for ten days of inaction, that he might acquaint himself with the case, and then granted him just twenty-four hours.

Wolter was taken from the Tombs to the Court of General Sessions, and thirty seconds after he stepped into the courtroom was asked to plead. "Esperanto, Chief of the Black Hand," and several others were head of him on the line, but his case was the first to receive consideration.

"How do you plead?" asked the Captain of the court squad.

Wolter made a move as if he planned to answer, but his lawyer, Wallace D. Scott, cut him short.

"If the court please," Mr. Scott said, in a tone of indignation, "we want more time to plead to this indictment. I am at present engaged in the trial of a case before Justice Goff, in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, and I ask a delay of ten days, that I may have time to confer with my client."

"The State opposes any such delay," put in Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss, simply.

Lawyer Scott told the court that even ten days was not enough time, but the court remarked that twenty-four hours was all it would allow.

"But I insist that is not time enough," retorted the counsel for the defense.

"I will put the case down for pleading to-morrow morning," said Judge Mulqueen, "and on the call calendar for to-morrow afternoon."

The tone was one of finality, but the defendant's attorney was not willing easily to give ground on so important a point. He demanded a copy of the indictment.

"You may have it," replied the Judge.

Lawyer Scott again insisted that he was very busy and that twenty-four hours was not enough.

"Why?" asked the court. "I am now giving you twenty-four hours to do that which can be done by any intelligent attorney in five minutes. This is a simple case of murder. The indictment is a very ordinary one that any lawyer can understand in five minutes. It sets forth circumstances of time and place and how the crime charged was committed. There is no complev question involved."

Only Two Lines of Denfense.

When Lawyer Scott attempted to demur to this statement, which was made in a tone bordering on impatience, Judge Mulqueen added:

"You will get a fair trial. Every opportunity will be afforded you for a fair trial."

"That's exactly what we want, a fair trial," said Scott, and his client was led back to his cell. Wolter wore a new suit of clothes and clean linen, and he looked much neater than when collarless and disheveled he faced the Coroner on Wednesday.

L. H. Saper, a young lawyer attached to the office of Wolter's counsel, spent twenty minutes with Wolter yesterday afternoon. He also obtained for Lawyer Scott the copy of the indictment. As he left the Tombs he expressed the opinion that Wolter was sane.

As there are only two practicable lines of defense in a murder case—insanity and self-defense—the District Attorney's office is assembling its data to meet either. If insanity is chosen the prosecution has Wolter's record as evidence that he has always been sane, but financially irresponsible, weak, and a habitué of dance halls. The plea of self-defense, it is believed, cannot be reasonably entered.

If an atempt is made to prove an alibi the prosecution has an accumulation of evidence through which it feels certain of breaking down. To make good such a plea Wolter will have to explain the paint spots on his clothes, made, it is claimed, while painting a marble slab in front of the fireplace covered with blood stains, and he will have to meet his own statement that he was taking tea with Katie Muller at the hour the clerk in the five and ten cent store said he was buying the brush and paint. And this statement the Muller girl denied.

Good Case Against the Prisoner.

Wolter said that when he bought the paint he induced the clerk to promise that he would testify that he bought it early in the morning. But when questioned she declared it was obtained after the murder and after the body had been burned.

The case against Wolter rests on the testimony of Principal Estey of the business college, that he received Wolter's postal card and sent Ruth Wheeler in answer to it; of Mr. and Mrs. Moll, custodians of the Seventy-fifth Street tenement, that they directed Miss Wheeler to his room and heard her enter; of Mrs. John Taggart, that smoke with a sickening odor penetrated her rooms, which adjoined those of Wolter, five hours after the Wheler girl entered; of Mr. Taggart, who found the body on Saturday afternoon; of Katie Muller, that she found Wolter painting the fireplace when she came home at 7 o'clock Thursday evening; of Miss Wheeler's sisters, and of Wolter's diary containing entries that could have been made only after he had met and talked to the fifteen-year-old victim.

This afternoon Assistant District Attorney Moss will move that the case proceed to trial at once, on account of its extraordinary character, and that it be assigned to Judge Foster for Monday, April 11.

A belief is current in the Criminal Court Building that Wolter 's counsel will apply for a change of venue, on the ground that the public mind is too much inflamed in this county to permit a fair trial.

THE BEST WAY TO EXERCISE.

Take Pleasant Country Jaunts, Says Dr. Gulick—Hard Muscle No Advantage

"How shall we do the thing we know we ought to do?" Dr. Luther H. Gulick asked, in the discussion of the relation of exercise and rest to public health at the weekly lecture at the Academy of Medicine yesterday afternoon.

He was speaking particularly of exercise and he asked those in the audience who had undertaken to exercise regularly every day and then given it up to raise their hands. There was a fluttering of hands here and there.

"Why don't the rest of you raise your hands?" asked Dr. Gulick, with a laugh.

"I have never known anyone, even an instructor in physical training," he said, "after he gave up the active for administrative work to continue the exercise he considers good for himself. I don't do it, and even in the Summer I take only such exercise as gives me pleasure."

Dr. Gulick told how unpleasant psychical disease germs could be sown in conversation, and the audience applauded heartily when he said the teacher with a grouch should be isolated and have a red card on the door as though she had scarlet fever.

"It is possible," he continued, "to keep the muscular system in good condition with a few minutes' exercise each day. But the cultivation of hard masses of muscle I consider rather undesirable. It does not improve the powers for good digestion, intelligent work, sleep or for a long life. But we do need something to balance the emotional life, which is done by pleasurable exercise. It is not pleasant to get up from a cosy corner and a good book to walk for half an hour alone. We want to do something that we can do with other people that is enjoyable and that is out of doors.

"Within half an hour after leaving this room we could be on the Hudson River in a boat, in a short time we would be in the wilds of the Palisades, where we could have our supper and cook it and later return to the city rested and refreshed and for a very small outlay of money."

Dr. Eliza M. Mosher and Dr. Henry Ling Taylor were also speakers.

Many Swear Off Their Taxes.

Yesterday was the last day for swearing off personal taxes, and the members of the Tax Board had a busy time. A superficial estimate indicated that the reduction in the tentative assessments has been about the same this year as last and that the gross income this year will be about the same, approximating $7,500,000.

N. Y. CENTRAL PAYS THE COST.

Gave Up $9,000 to D Cady Herrick, Referee—City Offers $90 for Fee.

The New York Central Railroad Company is in a peculiar position, with reference to the cost of the Eleventh Avenue track removal litigation. The railroad seems likely to find itself out several thousand dollars, even if the case is finally decided against the city.

Under the law the cost of reference proceedings of this nature must fall on the losing party. By an agreement entered into by the corporation counsel and counsel for the railroad, when the litigation was referred to D Cady Herrick to take testimony, the referee was allowed to charge a "reasonable fee," and not confine himself to the $10 a day rate provided by law. Nine sittings were held, and he presented a bill for $9,000. The decision was in favor of the road.

The railroad finally paid the full amount. Its counsel then, under the law, allowing costs and disbursements, presented a bill to the city for $11,000. The corporation counsel objected to this, but agreed to a fee of $5,000. This was rejected by the road, and the $10 a day fee was consequently set, allowing Judge Herrick $90 for his services. This reduces the entire bill to $1,100, and is all the city will have to pay if the case is finally decided against it.

At the corporation counsel's office it was said yesterday that the total time consumed in the nine hearings did not average more than three hours a day. It was only owing to the importance of the testimony taken and the mass of documentary evidence involved, it was said, that Mr. Watson was willing to agree to the $5,000 compromise. Mr. Herrick wore a broad smile when he was told of Mr. Watson's decision, eventually fixing the fee at $90.

"I do not care to discuss the matter in any way," he said.

RIGHT TO STREET CAR SEAT.

Man Who Gets It Entitled to Hold It, a Court Decides.

ST. LOUIS, March 31.—"Title to a seat in a street car rests in the man who gets its first in preference to the man who sees it first," declared Judge Kleiber in the Municipal Police Court to-day, his decision settling a long-disputed point in the conduct of straphangers.

William Glover, who got a seat first and fought to keep it from Oscar Wagner, who saw it first, was thereupon discharged.

"We Receive 1000 Orders By Telephone Each Day" says the proprietor of one of the largest meat, fish and vegetable markets in New York.

"Our best trade is telephone trade, for we find that our biggest and best customers do practically all their buying by telephone. It is a great convenience for them to order by telephone, and they do so with perfect safety, for they know that we are making a feature of telephone trade, and that they will get good service and the very best quality of goods."

"We receive over 1000 orders by telephone each day. These telephone orders are for the most part confined to New York City, although some of them come from the suburban districts. This shows that the telephone makes it possible to sell to people so far away that they would never come to the store in person."

The above story illustrates the possibilities of the telephone in developing business. It applies to every line of trade.

By the way, have you a telephone?

SENATE MAY TRY CARR FOR CONTEMPT

Senator Agnew Complains of Statement That Outside Influence Guided Allds Verdict.

MOTION GOES TO COMMITTEE

Insurgents Will Prevent Its Dying There—Assembly Suppresses Chanler's Graft Probe Measure.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 31.—An interesting aftermath to the Allds case was presaged to-day when Senator George B. Agnew of New York offered a resolution calling on the Judiciary Committee to take steps to have Lewis E. Carr, counsel for Jotham P. Allds, haled before the Senate bar for contempt, growing out of his denunciation of the verdict finding his client guilty of the $1,000 bribery charge preferred by Senator Benn Conger, as a "mockery of justice," and his accusation that the Senate jurors were guided by outside influences, notably those emanating from Washington, instead of the sworn evidence presented at the hearings. Mr. Agnew, in his resolution, recited the statement in full and asserted that it purported to have been made and published by Mr. Carr.

Asserting that the statement contained a "false and malicious report of the proceedings of the Senate and of the conduct of members of the Senate in their legislative capacity," Mr. Agnew asked that the Committee on Judiciary of the Senate be directed to inquire whether the statement was made and published by Lewis E. Carr, and in that case that the committee be directed to report to the Senate what further steps should be taken in the Senate to punish Mr. Carr.

Majority Leader Cobb moved that the resolution be referred to the Judiciary Committee. Those leaders whose sympathy went out to the accused Allds and his counsel throughout the investigation would be quite content to have the resolution slumber there for the rest of the session, but some of the insurgent Senators will fight to have it reported.

Mr. Carr is one of the most prominent lawyers in the State. He is chief counsel for the Delaware & Hudson and is also an attorney for the Lackawanna Railroad and many other corporations. When he heard of the Agnew resolution he said:

"It manifestly would be improper for me to make any comment on what occurred in the Senate to-day. At the proper time I shall have something to say. In the meantime I cannot say that I am worrying very much over the outcome."

The Senate has power to send a person adjudged guilty of contempt to prison for the duration of the session, or until he shall have purged himself of the charge.

In the Assembly, too, there was some trouble at to-day's session, directly due to the recent housecleaning activities in the Legislature, and the desire in some quarters for more of it, and in others for none at all. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, ex-Lieutenant Governor, called up his resolution providing for a broader graft investigation. The Chanler resolution was tabled six weeks ago by an overwhelming vote after Speaker Wadsworth had made a speech against that measure.

Speaker Wadsworth opposed it again to-day, asserting that the motion was out of order on the ground that the time for resolutions expires with the last Monday in February. Then Mr. Chanler asked for unanimous consent, but Majority Leader Merritt and others raised a vigorous protest.

It was of no avail, however, and Mr. Chanler afterward declared that he would try to frame some other method to move his resolution from the table.

Senator Benn Conger, who left for New York yesterday, has not returned yet. There is a general impression among his colleagues that he will retire voluntarily from the Senate, and that should he fail to do so he will be removed on charges growing out of the testimony he gave in the Allds investigation.

Two bills growing out of the Allds-Conger case were introduced to-day by Assemblyman Foley of New York. One of these makes it a misdemeanor for a member of the Legislature to receive compensation or an allowance for any service rendered to the State as attorney or counsel of any department or bureau. The other makes it a misdemeanor for any member of the Legislature or any constitutional officer of the State or clerk in the service of the State to receive any compensation for service to any person, either by himself or another, in relation to any matter in which the State is a party before any department of the State. A person found guilty of a violation of the law is disqualified from holding any public office in this State.

Denounce Efforts of South Bethlehem Strikers to Stop Contracts.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Penn., March 31.—President C. W. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel Company was assured to-night by several hundred prominent citizens assembled to voice their sentiments against the letters sent out by the striking employes of the steel company and the labor leaders that they are ready to support him. Resolutions were adopted denouncing "the work of the labor agitators in sending petitions to foreign powers and to Congress requesting that no more contracts be awarded the steel company."

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Committees representing business interests of South Bethlehem, Penn., and the striking workmen of the South Bethlehem Steel Works called upon Representative A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania to-day.

The committee of business men protested against a resolution adopted by the Executive Committee of the striking employes urging members of Congress to use their influence to see that the Government gave no contracts to the Bethlehem Steel Company until such time as they adjust the present difficulties with their employes. The committee representing the strikers asserted that the busines men were being used by the company to further its ends to procure the contracts.

Mr. Palmer indorsed the resolutions of the strikers advocating the eight-hour law, but in regard to the resolutions requesting the company to be deprived of Government contracts, he said he could take no action, as the United States Bureau [illegible]

TRICKED BY AUTO THIEVES.

Owner Now Hunting for Prospective Woman "Purchaser" and "Chauffeur."

The police started last night on a search for a well-dressed young woman and man who, they think, are unusually proficient automobile thieves. Several days ago Frank J. Homan, who keeps a garage at 317 West Fifty-ninth Street, advertised that he would sell a 1907 automobile for $3,000. The New York license number was 5,310.

Yesterday a woman who gave her name as Mrs. M. Morton called Homan on the telephone from the Manhattan Hotel, and asked him to send the car around. When Homan reached the hotel he found her talking to a young man, whom she introduced as her chauffeur. The three took a ride through Central Park. Returning to the hotel, the woman told Homan she liked the car, and asked him upstairs to talk over the price. The chauffeur remained down stairs to watch the machine.

When Homan reached the waiting room, the woman asked to be excused while she called up her husband. When she did not return in half an hour, Homan went to the street. His machine had vanished. So had the chauffeur. He reported the matter to the police, and an alarm was sent out.

The woman is described as being good looking, with dark hair and eyes, slender and wearing a black dress and black picture hat. She is said to be about 20 years of age. Her companion is of the same age, of medium height, with light hair and blue eyes, and wore a gray overcoat. At the hotel it was said the woman had registered there two days ago as Mrs. M. Morton.

A few weeks ago an automobile was stolen from in front of a house in Twenty-third Street in much the same manner. The police believe that the same man and woman were concerned in both robberies.

ITALIAN SLAIN IN THE STREET.

Five Shots Fired by Unknown Person—Dead Man Not Identified.

An unidentified Italian was shot and instantly killed in front of the saloon of Michael Rodelli, at 305 East Eleventh Street, at 1 o'clock this morning. Bela Rega, who lives at 214 East 111th Street, hearing a shot, rushed to the window in time to see four more flashes, but he could not see who fired them. Policeman Cashiel of the Fifth Street station, running up a moment later, found the dead body on the sidewalk with a bullet wound in the left eye and another in the back of the head. In the hallway of 305 East Eleventh Street Cashiel found a revolver, and on the steps of the adjoining house another, with three empty chambers.

In the absence of any clue, the police were inclined to attribute the shooting to a street brawl. They detained Rodelli and his son, Joseph, as material witnesses, although they denied all knowledge of what had occurred.

It was the part of Gustina, the Swedish maid, regularly played by Ethel Johnson. Miss Johnson arrived at the theatre with her voice completely gone. She explained in writing that her doctor said if she could be excused from one performance she would be all right again. Stage Director Fred G. Latham sent for the understudy, but it was discovered that she, too, was ill. Then Miss Zell took the part.

WORKERS BEGIN WAR ON LIABILITY BILL

Speakers at Mass Meeting Call It a Sop to Appease Clamor for Protective Legislation.

ALLEGED FLAWS POINTED OUT

Remedies Offered, They Say, Cover Only One-tenth of the Accidents—The Whole Measure Condemned.

A campaign of protest by workingmen against the employers' liability measure, generally known as the Workingmen's Compensation bill, reported to the Legislature by the Wainwright Commission on Employers' Liability, started last night with a meeting in Cooper Union. A thousand workingmen were there to applaud denunciations of the proposed bill and to hear uncomplimentary things said about the Wainwright commission. A set of resolutions, drawn up by a joint labor conference, and pointing out alleged flaws in the proposed Compensation bill, were ratified with a shout.

Several speakers told the workingmen that the bill reported by the Wainwright commission was merely a sop thrown to the working men and women of the State in an effort to appease their clamor for legislation to insure employes against accident or death. James H. Hatch, President of the New York Central Federated Union, said he was quite sure that the employers had brought sufficient power to bear on the commission to defeat the wishes of the workingmen.

"Certainly the committee could not have given the matter much thought," he said. "Taking the bill as a whole it is one of the most ridiculous forms of liability legislation the mind of man ever conceived."

There was only one dissenting voice to the general chorus of denunciations. It came from John Martin, a member of the Board of Education. He advised the workingmen to take the bill as reported, and be glad to get it in lieu of nothing. The other speakers laughed his arguments down.

The resolutions, which were ratified, said that the bill reported by the commission was utterly unsatisfactory to the working people of the State, and could not be regarded as an initial step toward adequate legislation of the subject.

In enumerating the objections to the bill, the resolutions started in by saying that the bill limited its scope to a small number of dangerous occupations, ignoring other occupations equally dangerous and employing large numbers of workers. It was stated that the provisions of the bill would not apply to more than one-tenth of the serious accidents occurring in industries in the State. It was said, too, that some of the occupations enumerated in the bill were already protected by more favorable enactments.

Other objections mentioned are that the burden of proof is laid upon the claimant, and that the recovery of compensation by injured workers or their families is in no wise facilitated. Further, it is said, that by limiting the compensation to half the injured workman's wages, and not more in any case than $10 a week, no account is taken of his actual loss.

The provision that dependents of any workman killed shall receive benefits not more than eight years, or a total sum not exceeding four years' wages, was condemned as inadequate.

Just before the attack on the bill began the audience was asked to stand and remain silent for about a minute as a tribute to the memory of Charles Sprague Smith, founder and head of the People's Institute, who died a few days ago. James L. Gernon, Chairman of the Brooklyn Central Federated Union, presided at the meeting.

Other meetings of a similar nature are to be held throughout the State.

The time was twelve seconds below the world's track record. Six timers agreed on the time.

Boston Debaters Beat Fordham.

In a debate between teams from Boston College and Fordham University, held in the Fordham auditorium last night, the visitors won by a unanimous decision of the three judges. The question concerned a fund to be raised by National banks for the protection of depositors. The winners urged that the Government should control such a fund. Supreme Court Justice Peter A. Hendrick of Brooklyn presided.

TO INVESTIGATE HER SANITY.

Inquiry as to Mrs. Mackenzie's Fitness to Control $500,000 Estate.

Supreme Court Justice Newburger has granted an order to examine into the competency of Charlotte L. R. MacKenzie of 37 West Eighty-ninth Street, whose husband, James S. MacKenzie, said to have been connected with the Singer Manufacturing Company, left her $500,000 when he died in 1907. Dr. J. Monroe Liebermann has been appointed Commissioner, and testimony will be taken before a Sheriff's jury next week.

The order was secured on the petition of Addy D. MacKenzie, the 22-year-old daughter of Mrs. MacKenzie, and Justice Newburger granted an additional order restraining the transference or disposal of any of Mrs. MacKenzie's property during the course of the proceedings.

Mrs. MacKenzie has four daughters, of whom Addy is the oldest, and a 15-year-old son. For the last year she has been acting strangely.

DORANDO BEAT LONGBOAT

In Closest 20-Mile Race Ever Run in This Country.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., March 31.—With a lead of only fifty feet Dorando, the Italian runner, to-night beat Tom Longboat, the Canadian Indian, in a foot race of twenty miles at Exposition Rink.

It was one of the closest races ever run in this country, for at no time was the leader more than half a lap ahead of his adversary. The time was 1:54:08 2-5.

Dorando took the lead at the start and was never headed save in the fourth and fifth miles in which Longboat led, but he was unable to retain the lead. Both the winner and the loser were almost exhausted at the end of the race, and ran the last two laps with not more than twenty feet separating them until just before the finish Longboat feel back just a trifle more.

McDonald Wins Roller Title.

Harry Burke of Bridgeport won the final roller skating race of the series last night that has been contested at the Metropolitan Rink to decide the Eastern championship. Although Burke captured the final race he only got second place in the championship, as J. McDonald of New York, who finished second to Burke last night, had the lead of 21 points, scored 4 more in finishing second, and netted a total of 25 points, while Burke, who had 19 points before entering last night's race, and with 5 points scored for first in the final, only scored 24 points in the series.

The series was contested for the Magner Cup for first place, with gold and silver medals for second and third places, respectively.

J. McCormick of New York led the five starters in last night's race for fully three and one-half miles, with McDonald and Burke following close behind. After three and one-half miles had been covered, Burke shot out from behind and opened a small gap, which he gradually increased to the finish, leading McDonald to the tape by fully thirty yards. The standing of the men at the finish was as follows: McDonald, 25; Burke, 24; McCormick, 17, and Brower, 15.

Three-Cushion Carom Billiards.

Three games were played last night in the three-cushion carom handicap billiard tournament at McGraw's Billiard Academy, Thirty-fifth Street and Sixth Avenue. In the first game of seventy-nine innings C. H. Beyers defeated Sylvester Levy by the score of 30 to 19. Beyers's high run for the game was 3 and Levy's was 2. In the second game, which lasted seventy-four innings, C. H. Wilson (scratch) defeated C. H. Beyers, handicapped at 5, by the score of 35 to 32. Wilson's high run 4, twice, and Beyers's was 2. In the third game Frank Becker, handicapped at 5, defeated C. H. Wilson (scratch) by the score of 35 to 26 in ninety innings. Becker's high run was 3 and Wilson's was 5. In the deciding game of the amateur handicap pool tournament John Schreyer defeated G. W. Hayman last night by the score of 65 to 54, thereby winning first prize. This evening G. W. Hayman and "Kid" Andrews will cross cues in a battle for second place.

Department Stores Baseball.

At a meeting of the Greater New York Department Stores League last night at Macy's Recreation Hall, Hawthorne Field, Brooklyn, was selected as one of the places for holding the baseball games. Another field is yet to be selected, and one in Manhattan or the Bronx will probably receive the choice. The games at Hawthorne Field will be played every Sunday morning during June, July, and August, and double-headers will be played Saturday afternoons during July and August. The schedule of games will probably be decided on at the next meeting. The team winning the championship of the league here will be sent on a tour to Philadelphia, Boston, and Chicago.

Change in Athletic Territory.

KANSAS CITY, March 31.—A new division of the Amateur Athletic Union, to be known as the Missouri Valley District, was assured by officials of the organization here to-day. E. C. Brown, President of the union, and James E. Sullivan of New York, Secretary and Treasurer, have been here for two days investigating the application for the change in territory. Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma will be included in the new division, and possibly Nebraska and South Dakota.

Bunch Team Wins on Court.

The Bunch basket ball team of the West Side Branch of the Y. M. C. A. defeated the Antediluvians, the inter-Bible class team, in the west side gymnasium last night by the score of 18 to 9. The victory makes the Bunch the Bible class champions. The Bunch's marvelous speed was the feature of the game.

FLIRTING DISRUPTS SCHOOL FOR CO-EDS

Methodist Institute at Hackettstown, N. J., to Bar Out Boys After This Year.

WINKING SHOCKED PASTOR

President Meeker Forced to Separate the Students Even at Prayer—Football Player's Vain Plea.

Believing that parents prefer not to send their daughters to co-educational institutions, the Methodist Episcopal Conference, which manages the Centenary Institute at Hackettstown, N. J., decided yesterday after a long argument to make the institution a "school for girls only" after the close of the present year.

President Jonathan M. Meeker of the institute, addressing the conference at the close of the morning session in Newark, said that he believed that co-education was objectionable. He said that the attendance had fallen off during the year and that co-education was the cause of it.

At the night session President J. Floyd of the Pennington Seminary urged the Methodist clergymen to make the institute "a Christian school, not a courting school."

"The Dean of my own seminary told me about a year ago that, during the Day of Prayer, the boys were winking across the room at the girls," complained President Floyd, amid a shocked buzz. "On our Day of Prayer this year, I put a stop to this by taking the boys into one room and by having my wife take the girls into another room."

Bishop Nicholson said that, although theoretically he liked the idea of co-education, the trend of modern times seemed to be against it.

"I am personally acquainted with brilliant women who have been educated at co-educational institutions, who now refuse to allow their daughters to attend them," the Bishop said.

Bishop Anderson, although he intimated that he did not agree entirely with Bishop Nicholson, said he would leave the matter to the Board of Trustees of the institute.

A remarkable plea to keep the institute co-educational was made, on the other hand, by one of the institute's seniors named Brooks.

"Co-education should not be brought into disfavor merely because a boy happens to meet a girl in an ice-cream parlor or to talk with her outside the institute," said Brooks. "But if you must make a change, please make the institute a boys' school. Our football, baseball, and field teams will bring the institute much more prestige than the girls' basketball teams."

In spite of young Brooks's plea, the conference decided, by a unanimous vote, to make the institute a girls' school after this year.

The Rev. Jesse Hurlburt startled the Methodists considerably by telling them that, in spite of the district's rapidly growing population, there were only four more Methodist churches in the Newark district than there were twenty years ago. He ascribed this to the fact that the newcomers were mostly foreigners. Financially, however, the district, he said, was doing splendidly.

The Rev. George Smith, speaking for the Jersey City District, said that last year the Methodist churches of his district had made a remarkable showing financially in the way of paying off mortgages and other debts. Similar reports were made by other pastors.

"Yet there are well-to-do people who writhe and squirm as though undergoing a surgical operation if asked to give $5 to save the world," the Rev. Dr. Randolph remarked. "Some of the congregations let their pastors' salaries get three months behind."

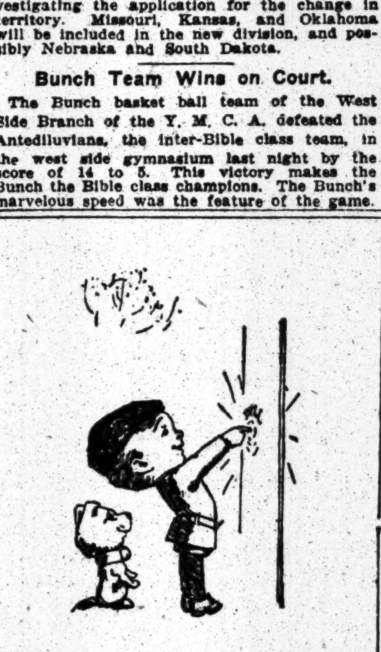
NAT GOODWIN BUYS A RANCH.

Actor, Together with A. F. Webster, Pays $55,000 for California Land.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN JACINTO, Cal., March 31.—Nat Goodwin, the actor, and A. F. Webster to-day bought the Gladysdale ranch for $55,000. About ten days ago Webster and the actor purchased the Zuber ranch of 600 acres adjoining the Gladysdale property on the west. The two ranches contain 860 acres of land in the State. On the tract 300 acres laying close to the mountain side are frostless and will eventually be set to oranges, lemons and pomelos.

Goodwin says he will spend considerable time in San Jacinto during the coming Summer, leaving in September for New York, where he will remain one year filling engagements for which he is already booked. This will be his last year upon the stage, he says, and he plans then to make his home in this place.



Small boys have been pushing the Spring—

Our sales of wool Russian and sailor suits for youngsters from 2½ to 10 years old, show an increase over last year of over 100%.

That shows what is thought of the quality and design of the stock.

But thanks to much larger provision we have to-day a larger stock than ever before at this season.

Same thing applies to washable suits for small boys.

For little fellows' heads—

Straws, if you're ready, but as a suggestion for Spring—stitched brimmed cloth hats are practical, and unusually attractive.

Gray, red, blue, black and white checked.

What's better than a romper for small boys?

Saves other clothes and gives the youngster freedom.

YANKEES SMOTHER BOSTON NATIONALS

Stallings's Hilltoppers Play Best Game of Their Training Season in South.

Special to The New York Times.

ATHENS, Ga. March 31.—Playing in midseason form the New York Yankees this afternoon humiliated the Boston National League Club by a score of 9 to 1. A somewhat fluky home run by Outfielder Moran in the eighth inning alone saved Boston the fate of a shutout. Had Foster's relay from Cree not taken a bad bound to Sweney, Moran would surely have been caught at the plate. Moran's hit was but one of five of the kind made in the contest. Four of these fell to New York. Earl Gardner, with two homers off White, assumed the lion's portion. Harry Wolter had oe and Russell Ford the other. Wolter and Gardner each hit for the circle in the fifth.

Ford got his long hit in the eighth on his only appearance at bat. Southpaw pitching is meat for this sturdy twirler as Mattern will testify. Ford's drive was the most vicious of the year. The ball would have cleared any fence on the Yankees' home lot. It traveled so far that Ford had crossed the plate before Liese could get to the ball. Like the swat of Gardner in the opening round Ford's home run brought in a waiting base runner.

Boston looked cheap in comparison to New York. This was because the Yankees were hitting like demons. White and Mattern are supposed to be the best right-hander and southpaw, respectively, on the Hub team. They were selected for duty because until to-day they had been almost invincible in exhibtion games. Both were well supported, but neither had a chance to stem such a tide of bingling as New York launched in the first inning.

New York not only showed great hitting power, but its general all-round work could not have been improved upon. The team rose to the occasion gallantly and played major league baseball from start to finish. There was such excellent team work and system in its efforts that any club would have found a tartar.

In six innings Jack Quinn proved himself almost fit for the opening of the season. Not a man saw first base after two had been retired in the fourth. Only once did Boston ever threaten Quinn. His only pass was followed in the sixth inning by Moran's single. On the next play Foster started a sensational double play that retired the side. For at least part of his effectiveness Quinn should thank Lou Criger. The veteran catcher fo rthe first time this season assumed the mask and chest protector. He looked like a milion dollars to the club. Criger coached the young twirler so successfully that during the entire six innings not a Yankee outfield had a chance to make a play. Russell Ford was not at his best. He has been worked hard lately in order to rid his slight muscular soreness in the arm. He did not get properly warmed up in the seventh. After Moran's home run in the eighth he struck out Leise and finished the ninth by fanning two more. The score:

GIANTS WORKED HARD TO WIN.

Southern League Champions Drive Raymond Off the Mound.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 31.—New ork Giants won a victory over the Southern League champions in Atlanta this afternoon by a score of 4 to 3. They had no easy time of it, however, for the Southerners fought them every inch of the way. Raymond started badly and seemed to have lost his control. McGraw promptly took him out of the box after three hits in succession had been made and substituted Ames, who was later relieved by Crandall. Ames and Crandall both did excellent work and the Southerners were headed off for the rest of the game.

The Giants scored two runs in the first inning on hard, clean hitting. Shaw got his base on balls and tried the hit and run play with Doyle. Doyle popped out and Shaw had a narrow escape in getting back to first. He had barely settled himself, however, when Murray hit to deep right field for three bases, scoring Shaw in a trot. Seymour also popped out, but McGraw welted a long single into center and Murray crossed the plate.

In the fourth inning two batters walked and Ames filled the bases by beating out a scratch hit past second base. Shaw was safe on an error and Devlin scored. The next time up Ames convinced the crowd that he was a regular hitter. Devlin singled and got to second on an out. The red-headed pitcher thereupon slammed a long single into left and again Devlin scored.

The Giants leave for Greenville, S. C., at an early hour in the morning. The score:

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 31.—The Brooklyn Dodgers opened their series to-day here with a "swatfest," piling up seventeen hits for a total of twenty-four bases off the Nashville pitchers. John Hummel led in the slugging with four counters, Daubert, McIntyre, Wheat, McElveen, and McMillan assisting with two or three hits apiece. Runs came easy in consequence, and as McIntyre and Wilhelm had everything in the pitching line. Bill Barnhard's Volunteers were beaten 12 to 4. The runs of the locals were mostly gifts. McIntyre went seven innings, and could easily have gone the route, but Dahlen decided to let Wilhelm have a work-out. "Handsome Harry" looked good on the slab, and on his performance seems pointed for a successful season. He batted strongly besides pitching a star game. The score:

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Unable to hit Ewing and McQuillen of the Philadelphia National League team, the Washington American League team was defeated in an exhibition game here to-day by a score of 4 to 1. All the scoring was done in the third inning. Although the visitors got three hits in the first inning, a fast double play prevented them from scoring. Score:

Kling Must Pay the Fiddler.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 31.—"Kling has danced—now he must pay the fiddler," said Manager Frank Chance of the Cubs, today. "The Chicago League Club will not contribute one penny toward the payment of that $700 fine imposed by the National Commission. John alone is to blame, although I think the penalty is beyond reason. Other players have committed greater offenses and escaped with smaller fines. With Kling back and in the shape he displayed two years ago, I am confident no club on earth will ever stop us."

Georgetown Gets Even with Cornell.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The Georgetown University baseball team turned the tables on Cornell to-day, winning the second game of the series by a score of 8 to 7 in eight innings. The heavy hitting of the Georgetown players was the conspicuous feature of the game, Pitchers Carvajal and Abbott being driven from the box. Score:

The final game for the championship will be played at the Crystal Palace on April 23, Barnsley meeting New Castle in this contest.

TRAVIS TRIUMPHS IN LONG GOLF CONTEST

New Yorker Downs W. C. Fownes at Twenty-first Green on Pinehurst Links.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 31.—Walter J. Travis of Garden City and W. C. Fownes of Oakmont, Pittsburg, friendly rivals in many hard-fought golf battles, met again in this afternoon's second round of the tenth annual united North and South amateur golf championship, and as usual, the contest waged fast and furious, and not until the twenty-first green was reached did the smoke clear and the Garden City expert claim the brilliant victory.

It was a case of give and take on the way out, the score being 1 up in the favor of Mr. Travis at the turn. On the tenth green he increased the lead to 2 up, but the score was all even again on the twelfth green. An alternate win and lose on the thirteenth and fourteenth and halves on the fifteenth and sixteenth kept the big gallery in suspense, a win in 2 on the seventeenth shifting odds in favor of Mr. Travis only to see the pendulum swing back again when Mr. Fownes took the eighteenth in 4 to 5. The nineteenth and twentieth holes were halved in par fours, and the gallery waited around the twenty-first tee for the final test.

The Pittsburger's drive was slightly pulled and his iron missed the green. Travis's drive was a trifle short, but straight down the course, and his iron made the green. Fownes's approach ran past the hole, and Travis played safe. Fownes made a try for a half, but missed, and Travis went down in four. Fownes was outdriving his opponent at all stages of the contest, but Travis's irons were deadly and his putting "uncanny."

Allan Lard of Chevy Chase, twice winner of the championship, and C. B. Fownes of Oakmont played a fast match. The Chevy Chase player was 2 down at the turn, but he evened the match on the fifteenth green. The sixteenth went to Fownes, the seventeenth to Lard, and a twelve-foot "English" put around a stymie decided it in Mr. Lard's favor on the home green. Summary of match play rounds:

Egan Indoor Golf Champion.

CHICAGO, March 31.—H. Chandler Egan added the rather unique title of Western indoor golf champion to his achievements yesterday, when he defeated Harry S. Rockwell of the Calumet Country Club by 6 up and 5 to play, in the final over the Minnakahda course at the Wabash Avenue School. The tournament has been in progress for over a month.

Military A. C. Games in Brooklyn.

The Military Athletic League championships, which will be held at the Twenty-third Regiment Armory in Brooklyn on April 9, promise to eclipse any meet ever held by the league. Practically every champion in the metropolitan district will compete. Three races promise to furnish stirring finishes. The quarter, half, and one mile races will bring together the fastest middle-distance runners in the country. Melvin Sheppard will start in two of these events, and so will Harry Gissing and Abel Kiviat. In an effort to win the title for the Twenty-second Regiment, Sheppard will start in the half-mile and the quarter-mile events, while Gissing will try for the mile and the quarter. Kiviat, wearing the colors of the Thirteenth Regiment, will compete in the half and one mile events. Fifteen championship events and two novice races will make up the programme.

Navy Fencers Congratulated.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 31.—Supt. Bowyer has issued an order congratulating the fencing team of the academy for its fine work in winning the championship of the Intercollegiate Fencing Association. The order also compliments Lieut. A. W. Johnson, officer in charge of fencing, and the others who have had part in developing the foilsmen.

TOMMY MALONEY WINS.

Danny Goodman Takes a Beating at Long Acre Club.

Tommy Maloney earned a decision over Danny Goodman of the east side in a ten-round bout at the Long Acre Athletic Association last night, pounding his man at will after the early rounds and executing most of the punishment with a swift left hokk which peppered Goodman's face until it was crimson. That wasn't the only attraction on the evening's bill, though, because Phil Cross hammered away at Harry Phillips for ten rounds savagely, and gave him the worst pummeling he ever received. Phil's brother, Leachie, dropped in about the middle of the contest and shouted his advice to Brother Phil so thot it could be heard above the cheering mob, but pound as hard as he could Phil couldn't send Phillips to dreamland.

And even that wasn't all, for there were two preliminary battles which bubbled with excitement. Mike McDonough knock Kid Hyland out in about half a round, and the destructive fireworks continued in the next bout when Tiger Young put Eddie Moran asleep in the early stages of the second round.

The Maloney-Goodman affair promised a thrilling match in the first round, when each man took his turn at doing the punching. But after that session Goodman became too anxious and judged his opponent badly. Moleny was cool and had an effective defense. He picked his openings well, and let Goodman come rushing at him, only to smash a wicked left jab to his jaw, which after a while became distressing to Goodman. In the clinches Maloney was working every second, and sent many swift right uppercuts against Goodman's chin and body. Goodman had an assortment of swings, but he shot them about the ring at random, and Maloney never happened to be within range, which was fortunate for Maloney.

The Cross-Phillips chapter was a fine exhibition of stalling by Phillips, only he stalled too long and too often. Several times during the go he bluffed at being groggy, and when Cross whaled into him he shot a stiff right hook on Phil's jaw. But under the shower of wide left swings which Cross planted on Phillips's jaw he became groggy in a way which was no bluff, and at the final gong he was reeling aimlessly about the ring, very much exhausted. Cross was tired also—tired of punching Phillips.

ATTELL-MORAN BOUT.

Englishman Anxious to Win for More Reasons Than One.

Owen Moran has a double incentive confronting him in his ten-round bout with Abe Attell at the Fairmont A. C. to-night. Besides the natural desire to beat Attell he wants to come out of the fray with more distinction than his countryman, Jem Driscoll, did when he fought this handy Hebrew pugilist.

Attell has shown a wholesome respect for Moran in dealings heretofore pointing to a bout, and the details he then insisted on were more or less difficult for the promoters to meet. That is the reason this go has hung fire for so long, until the astute managers of the Bronx organization got down to real work on the proposition.

Moran's friends say that he would rather beat Attell than be King of England, which goes more to show how strongly he feels about the fight than his real sentiments in regard to the biggest job in his native land.

The semi-final to-night will show "Neil" Regan, the little Irish featherweight, who just managed to get by the officials at Ellis Island. The little Irish boxer will get a good tryout on his first appearance in this country. In his training he has shown that he is possessed of a good "kick" in either hand. "Billy" Gibson is looking around for a good boy to pit against Regan for a star bout.

Burns and Langford in Ring.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., March 31.—Tommy Burns, the ex-champion heavyweight, will meet Sam Langford of Boston in a forty-five round fight, to be held in America on Sept. 5.

COCHRANE RACING YACHT LAUNCHED

Westward to Compete in Germany and England with Barr as Skipper.

Special to The New York Times.

BRISTOL, R. I., March 31.—The big steel schooner yacht Westward was successfully launched at the Herreshoff yards at 11:10 o'clock this morning. She is the property of Alexander S. Cochrane of Yonkers, N. Y., a prominent member of the New York Yacht Club, who intends to race the craft in waters in Germany and England this Summer, and Capt. Charles Barr is to be her skipper.

Mrs. Robert L. Beekman of this city broke the traditional bottle of wine against the Westward's bow as the yacht started down the ways. Among Mr. Cochrane's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Beekman, Harry S. Lippitt, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter K. Sturges of this city, Frederick N. Dewles and Gifford A. Cochrane of New York, and Martland S. Griggs and Robert Perkins of Boston. There were also many prominent Bristol folks present. The schooner carried a yachting pennant at her stern, her owner's pennant, and the flag of the New York Yacht Club, and the Union Jack at her bow.

The Westward was constructed to conform to the rules of the International Yacht Racing Union and to get the highest rating in Lloyd's. She will spread about 16,000 square feet of canvas and carry a crew of thirty men. Her dimensions are 135 feet over all length, 96 feet water line length, 27 feet 6 inches beam, and 17 feet draught.

Capt. Barr would make no statement for publication regarding his new charge, but he is undoubtedly most favorably impressed in this latest Herreshoff product. He said that she would certainly have great sail-carrying power and seaworthiness. So far as her probable speed was concerned, Capt. Barr refused to say anything for publication before he had tried her out thoroughly in neighboring waters.

The Westward's crew is now in course of selection, and Capt. Barr said he saw no reason for doubting that he would be able to sail for the other side before the end of June. His destination will be Kiel, where there is to be a great deal of big schooner class racing this Summer. It is expected that the Westward will exceed the wonderful showing made abroad by Commodore Mortimer F. Plant's Ingomar and J. Rogers Maxwell's Queen, both Herreshoff-designed racing schooners.

Capt. Barr recently returned from abroad in order to be here in time to select the Westward's crew and be present at her launching. He knows, of course, just about what the German Emperor's Meteor and Cicely and Hamburg are capable of doing, and the Westward will be raced against all these. Cicely is larger than the Westward and will have to allow her some minutes in a thirty-mile contest. Meteor and Hamburg are smaller than Mr. Cochrane's new yacht, although there is not very much difference between them. But Capt. Barr is not saying a word about the relative merits of his craft and the foreign cracks. His whole attitude is perhaps well expressed by his curt statement, "Westward's a wonder."

SIMULTANEOUS POLO GAMES.

Teams of Raymond Belmont and J. M. Waterbury Win at Lakewood.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 31.—The players in the polo carnival here encountered the first unfavorable weather of the tournament this afternoon. There was a raw air, and the atmospheric conditions reduced the usual crowd of spectators, comparatively few going out to the grounds. Two games were played simultaneously, both the east and west fields being used. On the west field the team Captained by Raymond Belmont defeated R. J. Collier's team by a score of 9 to 5 goals.

J. M. Waterbury's green colors lowered the white colors of L. E. Stoddard by the score of 9¼ to 4¼. The teams lined-up as follows:

CAPT. WATERBURY'S GREENS.	CAPT. STODDARD'S WHITES.

Specifications of the WHITE
Gasoline Car

CHAPTER III

The more closely the White gasoline car is examined, the more apparent becomes the superiority of its design. In minor details, as in its main features, the White is in advance of all other American cars. For example, the White is fitted with:

Compression Relief

To facilitate starting the engine, the compression is relieved by means of a small lever, located on the dash. The use of this lever allows the exhaust valves to remain open during the greater part of the compression stroke. As a result the White is the EASIEST TO CRANK.

Lubrication of Connecting-rod Bearings

Oil is forced to each connecting-rod bearing, through oilways cut through the crank-shaft, and oil pipes carried upon it. (A connecting-rod bearing cannot be properly lubricated by the splash system.)

Crank-case Construction

The lower half of the crank-case is simply an oil-well and it may readily be removed WITHOUT DISTURBING THE CRANK-SHAFT BEARINGS.

Adjustable Pedals

The pedals operating the foot-brake and the clutch are adjustable in height. Therefore, the driver of a White may operate the car in perfect comfort, whether he is tall, or short, or of medium height.

Radiator Support

The radiator is supported on a cross-member of the frame in such a way that it cannot receive any of the stresses and strains which come upon the frame. (This is a great advance over the usual practice of supporting the radiator on the side-members of the frame where it is subjected to the same strains which the frame receives.)

THE RAILROAD BILL.

"There is now no further complaint from shippers of unreasonable rates," said Senator ROOT in his argument in support of the Administration railway bill. This accords with the testimony given by the Inter-State Commerce Commission during the committee hearings upon the bill. To be sure there is more to the railway question than the question of rates, but there is nothing so urgent, and if rates are satisfactory the rest may await leisurely and discreet action, so far as the railway business is concerned. But the betterment of the railway business is the smaller part of the force behind the Administration programme. The Fall elections are approaching, and it is inadvisable from a political point of view to go to the electorate with the record of achievement as it stands. Accordingly the larger but not the better part of the Senator's argument was occupied with citations of the party record behind the bill. Presidents ROOSEVELT and TAFT are for it, and so should their friends be.

It is a compelling argument for the politician, but the country should consider with caution a matter which, in the Senator's words, "vitally affects every business and industry." Such considerations are superior even to the necessities of the Grand Old Party in a hurry. Accordingly it is to be wished that the Senator had been more explicit when he admitted certain defects in the bill, but added that he was inclined to waive his personal views "when these interests come to us" and ask for the bill. Such a passing reference to the interests which are asking for the bill whets the curiosity. We know the interests which are opposed to the bill on the record. Among them from this immediate neighborhood, to name no others, are the Chamber of Commerce, the Maritime Association, and the shipping interests of the Produce Exchange. The entire railway equipment industry has formally asked that nothing be done to disturb their business, which is reviving after a great shock. One or two railway men have spoken more or less favorably regarding the bill, but as a whole the railway interests have boycotted the proceedings at Washington, for the alleged reason that they thought they did not have a fair chance, and that they preferred to defend their interests before the courts. On this head the Senator's argument would have been more convincing if more informing.

The political argument has its dangers as well as its force. If the bill should be surrendered to the insurgents who are in control in Congress, as they are in the country, it would no longer be the Administration bill, but something much worse. While the Administration spokesman admitted a tenderness for the country's commercial interests the coalition against him is above any such weakness. To pester the rich and to worry the corporations is a merit in their eyes. The bankruptcy of the railways is not their object, but they are in some danger of arriving at that destination through their belief that the railways are so rich that they can endure any mistreatment. The Des Moines Register and Leader, for example, says that it will go as far as anybody in defense of Presidential leadership, but that it draws the line at this bill. "Decreeing that Congress may consider amendments offered by Senator ALDRICH, and may not consider amendments offered by Senator CUMMINS, is not party leadership in any proper sense."

Senator ROOT admitted his personal dislike to erecting courts with special jurisdictions, but he waived his personal views in deference to the wish of the interests which he did not name, so far as his remarks have been reported. But Senator CUMMINS's report condemned the court of inter-State commerce because it was unnecessary, and because of a certain obscurity in the functions of the court. In the years since the passage of the Hepburn law only twenty-six cases suitable for the court have arisen, and it hardly seems worth while to create a special court for this limited practice. Moreover the bill which Senator ROOT vouches for as "progressive" the followers of Senator CUMMINS regard as reactionary. They suspect and assert that the Administration bill was framed covertly to weaken the powers of the Inter-State Commerce Commission by giving the new court greater powers of review than the Federal [illegible] that Federal courts have no authority to review the constitutional and lawful acts of the Commission, which therefore is in a stronger position than ever before. One of the amendments offered yesterday covers this point, but it remains uncertain what the powers of the new court may be, or how they will be exercised by Judges of unascertainable personal views upon this and other subjects. Some have even suggested that this court clause is a joker.

STOCK EXCHANGE REFORMS.

The new rules of the Stock Exchange, designed to prevent the making of false prices by familiar tricks, come none too soon. They are welcome. Hereafter bidders cannot phrase their offers in such a manner as to enable them to make a quotation without taking all offers in the usual units of business. An offer to buy or sell cannot be evaded because it is for a specified quantity larger than ordinary operators care to handle. Manipulators must clean up the market as they go along, and cannot leave behind them other lots vainly seeking a market at the reported prices. To allow thousand share lots to change hands, and make a market, when hundred share lots could not be traded in at the same prices was obviously to falsify the market.

In foreign markets the point is reached differently. The dealer who corresponds to our specialist is asked to make a price at which he will either buy or sell, not knowing which he may be called upon to do. Our specialists have been accustomed to be both buyers and sellers, and naturally more to their profit than to that of their clients.

It is obvious at what a disadvantage the courts or the Legislature would have been in establishing rules on such a technical subject. They would be at an equal disadvantage in enforcing them. What is needed is a high professional standard, and strictness in exacting it. The Exchange has always prided itself upon this, and not without reason, but in this respect it has allowed its standards to fall below those outside its membership, and to the disadvantage of those who dealt through it. These new rules must be enforced if the Exchange is to retain public respect. Its action is a high tribute to the action taken by the Hughes Commission.

TROUBLE.

The language of the brief message sent to Congress by President TAFT on March 28 is as bland and innocuous as that of any high-school composition, but the document is heavily charged with possibilities of trouble. It is a very simple request that the President makes. He wants $250,000 for the expenses of the Tariff Board for the current and next fiscal year, and urges upon Congress that appropriation. Appended is a statement prepared by Prof. EMERY, Chairman of the board, showing that it is proposed to employ "special experts for special investigations covering such a period, whether one month or six months, as may be necessary to the work." These experts are to be "of the very first order, and of long experience in the practical study of cost accounts in particular industries." It is intended that they shall carry on "the investigation of trade conditions and cost of production in this country and abroad, intended both to make clear the character of the concessions granted by the minimum tariff of the United States, and of those granted in return by foreign countries, and also 'to assist the officers of the Government in the administration of the customs laws.'"

A proposal to appropriate money to inquire into the cost of production here and abroad will attract the attention of Senator HALE, we predict. Nor will the Senator from Maine and the Chairman of the Finance Committee, to which the President's message was referred, fail to note the significance of the inclusion by the President in this brief message of an extract from his annual message, in which he said concerning the Tariff Board:

> I believe that the work of this board will be of prime utility and importance whenever Congress shall deem it wise again to readjust the customs duties. If the facts secured by the Tariff Board are of such a character as to show generally that the rates of duty imposed by the present tariff law are excessive under the principles of protection as described in the platform of the successful party at the late election, I shall not hesitate to invite the attention of Congress to this fact, and to the necessity for action predicated thereon.

When a tariff has been enacted and is in force, it is proverbially dangerous to meddle with it. This innocent little appropriation, which the Secretary of the Treasury will put in statutory form, will inevitably bring on a tariff discussion if the insurgents are awake. Upon their side they might affix the most flagitious "riders" providing for a reduction in the cotton goods schedule, for instance, or for a removal of the duty on zinc ore. Then the fat would, indeed, be in the fire.

Upon the other hand, Senator HALE and Senator ALDRICH, whether or not they yield to the impulse, will be most strongly moved to question the authority the President assumes under the language of the act of Aug. 5. They did not intend to give him the broad powers outlined in his annual message. The ascertainment and publication of the true difference between cost of production here and abroad would bring on a tariff revolution. We should have [illegible] bill at the next session, and be[illegible] would be the views of the people raised to a volume and pitch never yet heard in support of a tariff bill. The President is to be commended for his courage in asking of Congress the means to ascertain the truth about the rates fixed in the Payne-Aldrich tariff.

TOTTENVILLE.

It seems poor policy to change the name of a town, or even of a street in a town, at the request of a few of the inhabitants. Tottenville, in the Borough of Richmond, this city, has been renamed Bentley Manor by the Post Office authorities. The new name is surely not better than the old. The use of "Manor" inevitably suggests a real estate speculation in this part of the world. It turns out that a large number of the residents of Tottenville like the old name better, and intend to work for its restoration. Both names have some sort of historic significance.

There were BENTLEYS and TOTTENS alike in the neighborhood in pre-Revolutionary days. But the BENTLEYS were rank Tories and fled to Canada when the patriots of the neighborhood took up arms against King GEORGE. The TOTTENS, on the other hand, were stanch patriots. Perhaps some of the folks who have built homes in the neighborhood since Staten Island became a part of the municipality think the new name has a pleasanter sound and a less rural one than Tottenville. But few of them can desire to have the name of a Tory perpetuated and the memory of a patriot slighted. Tottenville is, in fact, a name of many very pleasant associations to old New Yorkers. It is to be hoped that the new letter stamp with the name of Bentley Manor will soon be discarded in favor of the old Tottenville stamp.

THE TRAMP MAY YET BE AN ASSET

Let not the Legislature forget the Farm Colony bill, which provides for the sanest correctional treatment of the tramp evil yet devised, according to such sociological experts as Dr. EDWARD T. DEVINE, ROBERT W. HEBBERD, and others who have made the subject a study for years. All admit that something should be done in the interest both of the people at large and of the tramp and vagrant himself. Nothing but neglect or the workhouse, in exceptional cases, has been the rule until now.

The tramp evil has grown without effort to check it—an evil which cuts many ways, and it seems particularly unfortunate that such a plan as is provided in the Farm Colony bill cannot be promptly put into execution. The proposed law would have the effect of relieving the State of the vagrancy nuisance by teaching the tramps themselves to become useful, self-supporting citizens, with new ideas of the dignity and desirability of work. Surely it is better to transform a tramp into a self-supporting man who is an asset to the community than to send him to the workhouse where he becomes a burden with no hope of a changed condition.

The Farm Colony bill is before committees of the Senate and Assembly. It should be promptly considered, amended if necessary, and reported. It is constructive, remedial legislation which deserves a better fate than being "put to sleep."

IMPROVIDENCE AND HIGH PRICES.

When the hotels and restaurants (eating houses our plain-living New York ancestors called them) ask prices for food beyond the capacity of the ordinary man's purse he is not in danger of starvation. He may shun the restaurants, but even that will not be necessary, for when some restaurants put their prices too high others will take advantage of the mistake to attract new customers. The most instructive outcome of the recent controversy over the high cost of living is the revelation of the wide divergence in the prices demanded for provisions. It has been pointed out that three or four several prices are asked for the same article in as many shops only a few blocks apart.

The careful housekeeper can still supply her table at very little if any increase of expenditure through a little extra effort. When an habitué of a popular restaurant notes the increase of the price of a simple dish from 75 cents to $1, when the retail price of the meat of which it is composed has only increased two or three cents a pound in the most expensive shop, he is justified in assuming that the owner of the restaurant is turning the "high cost of living" to profitable account. Plain living undoubtedly costs more than it ought to. But the recklessly improvident are the chief sufferers. Starvation is not staring the people in the face.

NO MORE "ABANDONED" FARMS.

The Willimantic Journal reports that the "abandoned farm" no longer exists in that part of Connecticut. Farms are in demand. One real estate dealer announces that he has thirty eager customers for farms, and no farms in sight to sell to them. Willimantic was in the very centre of Connecticut's abandoned farm district. The New Haven Register says that the Willimantic report is repeated from other parts of the State. Connecticut farms once neglected are generally being tilled again and with profit. Reports to the same effect come from other New England States.

This is good news, which means much for the welfare of all the Eastern States. There is a tendency, to be sure, toward fruit farming and the growing of expensive vegetables. Meat, milk, eggs, butter, potatoes, and onions would in the long run pay the farmers better than peaches and asparagus. The production on a large scale of staple provisions near the large cities of the East is much to be desired. At present the New England cattle raiser cannot compete profitably with the Western ranches, but in course of time the problems of the care and feeding of cattle in Winter and quick transportation to market can be solved. There is no reason why all our food should be brought to us from far-distant States.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Let Trial Be Prompt and Brief.

There would doubtless be an element of impropriety in asserting at this time that ALBERT WOLTER murdered RUTH WHEELER. He has, like everybody else, the presumption of innocence until his guilt has been formally proved, and law no less than custom justifies his lawyer in seeing to it that all of the boy's rights are protected. One cannot help noticing however, and with some impatience, when one happens to be a layman with doubts as to whether the criminal lawyer's usual purpose is to save his client from injustice or from justice, that Mr. SCOTT, the moment he took the case, announced that WOLTER was really, not presumptively, innocent, and took effective measures to prevent the confession which the police were seemingly about to secure.

At that time Mr. SCOTT knew nothing that everybody did not know, and it is hard to believe that his personal conclusion from the published reports was exactly contrary to that reached by the rest of us. But there is no use in arguing that point, for in it the lawyer always silences the layman, which for some purposes, though not for others, is the same as convincing him. But, admitting that Mr. SCOTT has a right to get WOLTER off free and clear if he can, and, if he can't, to secure for him the lightest possible punishment, there is no denying the fact that any delay in bringing the case to trial, and any unnecessary prolongation of it, will be deeply resented by the public. It will also strongly tend to increase the already widespread feeling that, as administered nowadays in this country, the criminal law, under pretense of guarding the innocent from a negligible danger, has made the conviction of the guilty indefensibly difficult, expensive, and uncertain.

This trial should be prompt, and it should be brief. That WOLTER has no money himself and no rich relatives adds appreciably to the chances that it will be both. That not because his poverty deprives him of any privileges he ought to have, but because it decreases the likelihood that in his favor will be invoked and utilized the too abundant technicalities and procrastinations to which the rich criminal often owes complete or partial immunity from deserved punishment.

Stripes Are Out of Style.

According to a dispatch from Pittsburg, the Warden of the Western Penitentiary, for the very poor reason that among his prisoners are included many "gentlemen" whose sensibilities are hurt by wearing striped clothes, has decided to substitute a neat blue uniform for that equally ugly and ignominious garb as the wear of all his charges who repay the privilege with good behavior. It is to be hoped that the report is correct as to the Warden's intention and wrong as to his motive, and such in all probability is the truth.

Of course one object of imprisonment is still punishment, but it is no longer the only object, and it is steadily and rapidly being more and more subordinated to the better end of turning bad citizens into good ones—of reform, that is. When a man has committed a crime there is a certain satisfaction in making him suffer for it, and this satisfaction is increased when the pains inflicted are analogous to those endured by the offender's victim. The joy thus derived, however, is that of vengeance, and the new and better ideas as to where the responsibility for criminal acts lies and as to how it is shared are weakening the inclination for legal revenge and strengthening that for hunting out and developing such elements and remnants of strength and virtue as exist in the convict.

That any of our prisons are yet very successful as reformatories can hardly be claimed, but already many of them are so conducted that they are no longer colleges every graduate from which emerges a criminal for life and a professional enemy of society. From all except the worst prisons the infliction of bodily pain has been banished, and in one after another it has been found to be not only compatible with discipline, but an assistance in its preservation, to minimize the humiliations and degradations of the prisoners. As these new ideas have come in striped clothes, the lock step, and like devices have gone out.

From the old point of view this change is a weak coddling and petting of the vicious, but modern, and presumably more enlightened, penology sees in it an advance toward better things. Certainly the results of the old methods were extremely bad—so bad that any change must almost necessarily be for the better.

Ferries Ceasing to Pay.

Some of our ferries have already been abandoned as a result of building bridges across and digging tunnels under the waters encircling Manhattan Island, and the others lag, if not yet superfluous on the rivers, yet with their prosperous days obviously past and the ultimate doom of complete banishment already audible in the distance.

The ferryboats will be missed by their old patrons, for in good weather the morning ride on them is a good preparation for work, and that at night is a pleasant and reviving relief from ill-ventilated shops and offices. But weather is not always good, and the boats, though magnificently navigated, are slow in their movements and uncertain in their schedules. Also, they are a trouble and a menace to the larger and more important commerce of the port, and their departure will free many a pilot burdened with heavy responsibility from much of his present anxiety.

Bridges seem almost as much out of date as ferryboats—which is unfortunate, considering how many millions New York has recently invested in them. The interurban travel of the future is to be in tunnels, and the resident metropolitans will see less and less of their city as the years go on. Already it is the country cousin who knows it best. Soon he will be alone in his ability to find his way about on the surface, for New Yorkers will not walk when they can ride, and they will always ride by the conveyance that carries them fastest.

A Forfeited Bail Bond.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is not a forfeited bail bond a thing of rather doubtful expediency as recompense for the State? And is the judicial authority that presents the alternative just what the people look for as a deterrent of crime? SPECTATOR.

ANSWERS MRS. JOHNSON-WOOD

Suffragist's Arguments on Laws for Women Refuted by Mrs. Scott.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Every paragraph under "Children" in Mrs. Johnson-Wood's pamphlet can be referred to the theory that the family is the unit, with the father held responsible for the support. It is only the craze for economic independence which can make a monstrous thing of existing conditions, which, while they are humanly fallible, and so under some circumstances unfair and burdensome, would not be under those which were assumed to be normal as the law grew into being.

In addition to the paragraph quoted at the beginning of this letter we quote from Mrs. Johnson-Wood:

"The mother inherits no part of the property of the child if the father is living unless the property come to the child through her." But the mother must be supported out of that property if the father has no other. This right to be supported of the mother, and the father's assumed engagement in business and knowledge of affairs, is the evident reason for all these laws in regard to the property of children.

In the case of illegitimate children as cited by Mrs. Johnson-Wood: If the law of the State does not recognize the father as having any legal standing in regard to the child's person, it is surely just to make the mother the guardian and the inheritor as next of kin.

This emphasizes the theory of responsibility and consequent inheritance on which all these laws have been built.

The law in regard to the immoralities of the father and mother is identical, and as a matter of practice the courts, when called upon to award the custody of minor children in cases of separation, determine the question with reference solely to the interests of the child, with a strong leaning, however, in the mother's favor.

In 1860, when the woman suffrage movement was in its infancy, there were many industrial and social disabilities under which married women were laid. Single women could always engage in commercial and mercantile pursuits without hindrance or restriction. Owing to the legal fiction of the identity of man and wife, married women found a practical impediment to their engaging in business because they could not deal with their separate property without the consent of their husbands. That, as has been seen, is now entirely changed, for the "legal fiction" referred to has ceased to be a sentimental or even a desirable fiction. There has been a constant removing of legal restraint and extension of legal privilege to women for a half century, and this has been brought about by the growth of democracy with its tenet of equal privilege, by the spread of general knowledge and education, and by the force of public opinion.

The women who have worked to bring about suffrage for women have been concerned in many of the movements which have led to the modification of old laws and the creation of new in favor of women, and so have women who have been opposed to the extension of the suffrage to their sex and the men who helped the agitation and brought the reformed laws into being. Laws bettering the conditions in which women work have been placed in the statute books faster than those affecting the workingmen.

The mischievous assumption that men are antagonistic to women may retard the good work that has been going on so steadily, but it cannot stop it. That public opinion which holds women as the half of the race to be protected because it is the child-bearing half, the half which conserves and binds together the straying atoms of humanity into what we call the family, was never so strong as to-day, never so little in danger of being swayed from the strong base of reason by the violent wind of emotionalism and individualism gone mad.

The identity of interest, the aspect of partnership, which is the foundation of the marital relation in anything but its sentimental aspect, is deliberately ignored or denied by Mrs. Johnson-Wood. If the woman suffragists are determined upon a division of interest, a rivalry instead of a partnership, let them hasten to the Legislature and demand that the laws favoring women be repealed.

There are two ways to re-form the laws in regard to women. The first to continue along the well-marked path already trodden into a firm foothold by the many who have high-heartedly passed along its way and to extend that care and privilege to the half of humanity whose most important work must always be done under such conditions as shall best conserve their energy, even though that led to some restrictions; the other to refuse to consider the physical peculiarities of women which mark her as needing protection and support, and to withdraw from her anything but an economic basis of living, and to thereby thrust her into the bitter industrial fight in which she is sure to be worsted. Happily men will not do this, for so far the antagonism between men and women has been fostered and felt only by the women, and those the women who have either been forced by circumstances or by predilection into the industrial arena.

I heard a wage-earning woman say: "We are down in the pit, fighting men, fighting for our lives," and she said it with all the theatric intensity of an emotional orator. But that is the second way of trying to settle the question. The first appears the better. When the need of reform arises, let the cry be: "We are out in the world, and we are not so well fitted for the struggle as you men. Come to our aid, then, and give us help." There is no mortification in that cry, for our sex should be our pride, and not, as it appears to be so often considered, our disgrace.

In a necessarily brief review of the position of women in the law of this State there are three noticeable points:

First—The recognition of the responsibility of the husband and father to his family and the danger to wife and child should that recognition cease.

Second—The many discriminations in favor of women which have resulted from this attitude, and their justice.

Third—The fact that all these ameliorations and alterations, which have gone steadily on for sixty years or more, have been accomplished without the ballot in the hands of women.

On the score of their standing before the law women have no cause to demand the ballot. If further change shall be necessary to the betterment of their condition, it can be attained in the future, as it has in the past, and so one by one the reasons for the demand of the woman suffragists fall away as time passes. They have no "Cause."

Miss Strachan on Equal Pay.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of March 17 last there is an article entitled "Equal Pay Defeated. Teachers' Hope Gone."

In this article appears the sentence, after the final vote, "The advocates of the plan admitted that it was dead, so far as the Board of Education is concerned, for at least a decade."

I am possibly the most prominent advocate of the "equal pay" plan. The women teachers have never been more hopeful than they are at present. They would have been surprised if they had received a majority vote in the Board of Education this time. We desired, however, to have the members of the board put definitely on record as either for or against the principle of "equal pay." Many of our friends were surprised that the women teachers had even sixteen votes.

BREWER ON PROPERTY.

Denied the Right of Confiscation Through Prohibition Laws.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The admirable editorial article in to-day's TIMES on Justice Brewer emphasizes his common sense and his habit of straightforward thinking and discrimination. As you say, "It is of interest to the public to know the views, the legal reasoning, and mental leaning of the late Judge Brewer."

A case in point is his decision as Judge of the United States Circuit Court for the District of Kansas, sustaining the claim of Mr. John Walruff, a brewer of Lawrence, Kan., that the law depriving him of the use of his property without compensation is in conflict with the Constitution. This decision was subsequently reversed by the Supreme Court of the United States (in 1887,) much to the amazement of the most thoughtful lawyers in the country. But Justice Brewer, although reversed, was not convinced, for, speaking before the Yale Law School in 1891, he said: "I am here to say to you in no spirit of obnoxious or unpleasant criticism upon the decision of any tribunal or Judge that the demands of absolute and eternal justice forbid that any private property, legally acquired and legally held, should be spoliated or destroyed in the interests of public health, morals, or welfare, without compensation."

Referring to the action in which he had been reversed, he made this statement, at once a plea and a justification:

> "There were four or five breweries, with machinery and appliances, valuable only for use, worth a few thousand dollars, a mere bagatelle in comparison with the wealth of the State, built up under the sanction of the law, owned by citizens whose convictions were different from those of the majority, and who believed the manufacture and sale of beer to be right and wise. As good citizens it was fitting for the majority not to destroy without compensation."

Still unpersuaded by the voice of the highest tribunal in the land, Judge Brewer went on to affirm that "when a lawful use is by statute made unlawful and forbidden and its value destroyed, the public shall make compensation to the individual." And finally he reaffirmed his position in this boldest declaration of all:

> "We must recast some of our judicial decisions, and if that be not possible we must rewrite into our Constitution the affirmations of the Declaration of Independence in language so clear and peremptory that no Judge can doubt or hesitate and no man, not even a legislator, misunderstand. I emphasize the words clear and peremptory, for many of those who wrought into the Constitution the Fourteenth Amendment believed that they were placing therein a National guarantee against future State invasion of private rights, but judicial decisions have shorn it of strength, and left it nothing but a figure of speech."

This view is in accord with the opinions of such British authorities as Lord Selborne, Lord Chief Justice Coleridge, Mr. Gladstone, John Bright, John Morley, Mr. Chamberlain, Arthur Balfour, and even the leader of the Temperance Party, Sir Wilfred Lawson.

Judge Brewer and Woman Suffrage.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the many laudatory accounts of and editorial articles on the life and work of the late Justice Brewer I find no mention of the fact that he was a strong supporter of and believer in suffrage for women.

Known to be a great and progressive thinker there is yet one more item to add to his already long list of public services, namely, his advocacy of giving the franchise to women.

A Country Problem.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The milk investigation is blowing over, and what has the farmer won? Nothing except the privilege of producing milk and selling it at a loss; of subjecting himself on the one hand to rules and restrictions of increasing severity, and, on the other, to a market over which he has no control.

Forty thousand farmers supply milk to New York—2,000,000 quarts a day.

Many of these dairies are being conducted at a loss, and many would be found to be paying little or no profit on capital invested, if the time and labor of the farmer, his wife, sons, and daughters were counted in.

While thousands of men are without employment in the city, farmers in the country cannot secure sufficient labor at any price. Laborers from the city are not content with country conditions. When will the city wake up to the fact that there is a country problem and give the farmers a square deal? S. FRANCISCO.

AN HONEST PIRATE.

(Suggested by the Picture, "Their Hopes.")

They dreamed in the firelight's crimson,
 A mother and little son,
As the Winter day drew its curtains close,
 For its shining was all done;
On the carpet the toys, forgotten,
 Waited the small eager hand;
A train of cars on a shaky curve;
 Some soldiers, gaudy and grand;
A tumbled Ark, with a blue Noah
 Prostrate on the roof, like a rag;
A reeling ship—a young Teddy Bear
 On a most disgraceful jag;
At their feet the playthings, forgotten;
 Around them the firelight's glow—
Around them that fair-visioned future
 That only home twilight can show;
The mother saw a reverend man,
 In vestments of sheerest lawn—
Her little boy, proudly grave and great,
 Proclaiming the Easter Dawn!
But the little lad saw—Oh the visions
 We dream when our eyes are new!
Oh the fleet chameleon sparkle-globes
 That play in the tireless blue!

The little lad saw in the twilight,
 Distinct on the darkling wall,
The figure his man-fancy painted
 The most greatest hero of all!
A very splendid Pirate Man,
 Swarthy and swagger and big,
Standing with arms defiant crossed,
 On the deck of his tossing brig;
A Pirate Man, with wrinkly boots—
 Ah, they are the boots for you!
A fierce cocked hat, a blood-red sash,
 With dirks and knives stuck through!
In either hand a new-primed gun,
 A dagger between his teeth,
The dire Black Flag flapping aloft,
 "The treacherous waves" beneath!
A man of courage, force, and fight,
 All things a man should be,
Or if he digs gold from the earth,
 Or rakes it off the sea,
I looked at the lad's sweet, wistful face,
 At his eyes, with dreaming dim;
I thought on the crimes of the world's gold-ways,
 And my heart said low to him:

"Go be an honest Pirate, Boy,
 And sail 'the Spanish Main,'
Scuttle the stately merchant ships
 And get you golden gain;
Go be an honest Pirate, Boy,
 Wear a silken sash of red,
Fly bold the grinning Skull and Bones,
 And knock your foes in the head;
With pistol, dirk, and hempen rope
 Heap high your 'treasure hoard,'
The grim old world honors the man
 Who steals above the board!
No graft, no Wheat Exchange for you,
 No coins from the orphan's bank,
No gains so foul the Devil himself
 Excludes them from Hell as 'rank';
No dripping drops of honey-gold
 From Labor's groaning hive;
No pearls that once were widows' tears
 Where the money sharks deep dive;
Go be an honest Pirate, Boy,
 Heap high your 'glittering hoard';
The gray old world honors the man
 Who steals above the board!"

RICH, BUT GOES BACK IN THE SECOND CABIN

German on the Washington, Who Came Here Poor, Will Tour Fatherland in His Auto.

TAKES HIS FAMILY ALONG

Satisfies a Life-Long Ambition to See Germany Without Having to Walk—Made His Pile on an Oregon Farm.

Wearing many diamonds, his face wreathed in smiles, and his big touring car stowed in the hold, John Matthiesen, who came to this country in 1887, sailed yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner George Washington with his wife and son Edward to see his native land from the seat of his touring car. When he left Germany there were many places he never had seen. Now he satisfies a life-long ambition.

Matthiesen is the proprietor of the Hotel Zur Rheinpfalz, in Portland, Ore. He and his family are traveling in the second cabin. He and his wife had one stateroom, his son another, and a third was full of baggage. He is rotund and of pleasing address, and in every link of his massive watch chain that stretched from vest pocket to vest pocket a diamond was set.

Matthiesen had many more pieces of jewelry, and he was told that he had better register his property with the customs officials to avoid trouble over the duty when he returns, but he did not think this was necessary, exhibiting bills to show that every piece had been purchased on this side.

Why He Travels Second Class.

When Mr. Matthiesen went to the office of the line to make arrangements for shipping his automobile the officials could not find his name on the booking list. The agent was apologizing when the hotelkeeper told them it was in the second cabin. He explained that he went second cabin by choice, because he did not like those who travel first class.

"I am making this voyage for pleasure alone, and I am going to travel in my own way," he said. "I am not much on style. I don't want to dress for dinner, and I want to be in a place where if I don't dress the others will not criticise me. No, Sir, I am going second class and I am going in comfort.

"Out West I have my meals served the way I want them. I don't propose to sit down to eat and have a waiter come in juggling a bit of Frenchified cooking, then wait twenty minutes for him to bring another mouthful. No installment-plan meals for me; I want as much as I want, and all at once. That's my style."

Matthiesen beams good nature. Speaking of his trip he said:

No Longer Will Have to Walk.

"Me and the wife are going to have a great time. When I was in Germany I never saw much of the country. If I visited a nearby town I had to walk there and back. Now I can afford to go back and see things the right way. Instead of walking we will travel in an automobile."

New York is a much finer place now than when he last was here, according to Mr. Matthiesen, but he rather deplored that it was growing up instead of spreading out. Before going to the steamer he took his wife and son down to West Street to see one of the old horse cars. The car, he explained, was not the attraction, but he wanted them to see a horse car with a stove in it. They took a ride in one of the cars.

The Oregon man was frank in speaking of his money. He admitted he had $20,000 worth of jewelry. He said he came here a poor young man in 1887, went to Oregon and took up a homestead in the Hood River section. The property became so valuable that he sold it for $72,000. This was his start. He went to Portland, became a hotel proprietor, and prospered. He modestly declined to state the amount of his fortune, but admitted it would keep him from want.

Son Succeeds Finn as Leader.

Daniel E. Finn, son of the late Magistrate, has been chosen to succeed his father as the Tammany leader of the First Assembly District. He will be formally elected in a few days. The young man is an Inspector in the Department of Licenses, to which he was appointed in October, 1904, and receives a salary of $1,500 a year. His selection is a victory for the conservative element in the organization. The Sullivans had Frank Farrell slated for the leadership.

Czar and Finland.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a reward for her faithfulness to Russia in contributing Finnish money and Finnish soldiers to that country's pocketbook and army the Czar has abolished all Finnish stamps, forbidden to be sung the beloved national song written by Runeberg, installed tyrannical Russians in high places of Finnish officialdom, imposed an enormous tax (3,000,000 rubles, I think,) on the people of Finland to help Russia pay off debts resulting from a war in which Finland was not even remotely interested, insisted that the Russian language must be taught in the schools, and—probably worst of all—instituted compulsory military service. This military service abolished any distinct Finnish military organization and drafts recruits from Finland into the Russian Army, making them liable to service anywhere though paid out of the Finnish exchequer—length of service eighteen years.

If public opinion has done so much for justice in the recent trials of reformers in Russia, could not that same public sentiment, if sufficiently aroused, accomplish great benefit to the oppressed people of Finland?

The first case involved two individuals only, while the last affects some 3,000,000 souls.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your recent reference to the direction in which rivers run—which is usually both down and southward—vividly recalls the oddity that most people experience in seeing a stream run to the north. Some important rivers though do this, as far north as Canada and as far south as Florida. To mention only one of these, almost any one who has seen the Red River of the North, in North Dakota, as it goes from Fargo to Grand Rapids, will well remember how much it seems like running up hill on a hunt for the North Polar Sea.

But your reference reminds me also of a story of a river in the South. When Amos Kendall was Postmaster General in Andrew Jackson's Cabinet, he wrote a letter to some Postmaster of a small office in Georgia, in which he asked: "How far does the Tombigbee River run up?" and he received, substantially, this reply: "The Tombigbee River doesn't run up; it runs down." As Kendall did not care to encourge humor of this sort, the responding Postmaster was promptly relieved of the cares of office.

MISS ADAMS TO BE COCK OF CHANTECLER

Will Act Here Title Rôle of Rostand's Fantasy, Played in Paris by Guitry, Tragedian.

ACTRESS GETS MANUSCRIPT

Her Idea Is That Chantecler Is a Composite of Gravity and Gayety, and the Play a Poetic Lesson.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 31.—Charles Frohman cabled from London to-day that Miss Maude Adams will appear in the American presentation of "Chantecler," playing the title rôle now being acted in Paris by Guitry, the French tragedian. At the close of her present season in Barrie's comedy, "What Every Woman Knows," Miss Adams will begin rehearsals of the Rostand fantasy, and will have it ready for production in the early Fall. Until to-day it was the general impression that Otis Skinner would be Mr. Frohman's selection for the rôle, although Miss Adams's name had been mentioned in connection with the performance of the part of the Pheasant, which is interpreted in Paris by Mme. Simone.

It was announced some time ago that the English text of "Chantecler" would be prepared by the playwright's son, Maurice Rostand. At Powers's Theatre this evening, however, Miss Adams said that the translation would be undertaken by Louis Napoleon Parker, the English dramatist, who prepared Rostand's "L'Aiglon" for the American stage. Mr. Frohman had intended that Miss Adams should play "What Every Woman Knows" all of next year, but his contract with Hertz & Coquelin, proprietors of the Porte Sainte Martin Theatre and of the producing rights of "Chantecler," stipulates that the first English performance of the piece shall be done in America not later than October, 1910.

"Rostand's manuscript reached New York last Tuesday, having been sent from London by Mr. Frohman. Immediately after its arrival it was put into the hands of John D. Williams, Mr. Frohman's general representative, who delivered it personally to Miss Adams to-night at the Congress Hotel. To-morrow she will receive the scene models and costume plates of the Paris production.

Miss Adams said to-night that she had already determined upon her interpretation of the rôle of the cock and had practically crystalized in her own mind the message the play contains, not only for the French, but for all people, and in a particular sense, for Americans.

In the mind of the elder Coquelin, who died before the play came to a first performance, but who devoted much thought and preparation to the part, Chantecler was a creature of gayety, with rarely a grave moment, an observer of the world and its ways, an inventive, resourceful, and somewhat artful creature of buoyancy, self-belief, which at times fell away to mere vanity.

But with the death of Coquelin the rôle devolved upon Guitry, who believed Chantecler was more than the symbol of man, always jealous of his lordship over woman, but a great worker—so great a believer in work that all else was insignificant beside it. As played by Guitry, Chantecler is "presque un dieu," almost a god. He is a hero, a creature of gravity, a lover of beauty, a thinker.

Miss Adams's idea of Chantecler is that he is a composite of gravity and gayety. The theme of the play she believes is that one should do one's work, even though it costs one's love and one's life. A man's work in "Chantecler" is exemplified by the Cock's vain thought that it is he who at the morning's crow raises the sun and lights the world. He lives to learn that in a moment of distraction, attracted by a woman, the sun rises despite him. He finds that his work is not so important as he thinks, but he persists just the same.

"I call the dawn," he says, "but I do more than that. When the days are gray and all these poor beasts cannot see the light, the sound of my voice assures them that the sun is there, nevertheless."

"Aside from its epochal success in Paris," she said, "I look forward to its even finer reception in America, where the doctrine of man's exaltation by work has a greater import than even in France."

Miss Adams says that in her mind "Chantecler" is an exquisite poetic lesson in the doctrine of faith and hope through work.

The play will be acted by an entirely American company, and will be produced first in New York, probably at the Knickerbocker Theatre, since a large stage is essential. The costumes will be made under the direction of the American artist, John W. Alexander, President of the American Academy of Design.

PRESENT BALLET "HUNGARY."

Russian Dancers Again Display Their Art at New Theatre.

Every seat was again sold in The New Theatre yesterday afternoon when the Russian dancers finally appeared in the twice-postponed ballet divertissement, "Hungary," which had been arranged with music by Glazunow. Pavlowa and Mordkin again did their brilliant best, and some of their ingenious manipulation of the wild Hungarian rhythms was quite as extraordinary in its effect as anything they have done here. For some unexplainable reason several members of the corps de ballet appeared. The divertissement was in no sense dramatic, and the unskilful dancing of these coryphees only detracted from the art of the Russians.

"Hungary" was preceded by the first performance of "The Pipe of Desire" which has been given at The New Theatre, in which Mme. Mariska-Aldrich appeared as Naoia for the first time, and a "dance poem" called "The Awakening of Woman," in which two "Peer Gynt" suites of Grieg were used as accompaniments and the principal dancing was done by Rita Sacchetto.

"DER FREISCHUTZ" REPEATED.

Mr. Jorn Heard as Max and Mme. Destinn as Agathe.

The revival of "Der Freischütz" at the Metropolitan Opera House came so late in the season that only two performances of it have been possible. The second occurred last evening. There were two changes of cast on this occasion in two important rôles. Mr. Jörn was heard for the first time here as Max and Mme. Destinn as Agathe.

Mr. Jörn was not in the best of voice. Mme. Destinn, however, sang brilliantly. Her singing of Agathe's second act air was most excellently conceived and executed, and aroused well-deserved enthusiasm.

The others in the cast were Miss Alten, and Messrs. Goritz, Blass, Witherspoon, Mühlmann, and Reiss. Mr. Hertz again conducted.

"Der Freischütz" was followed by the ballet divertisement, "Hungary," in which the Russian dancers, Pavlowa and Mordkin, again delighted the eye.

Irving to Give Brieux Play at Comedy.

Laurence Irving and Mabel Hackney, in Mr. Irving's adaptation of Eugene Brieux's play, "The Three Daughters of Monsieur Dupont," will follow Mary Mannering in "A Man's World," at the Comedy Theatre, opening on April 13. Hooker Wright, Alfred Cahill, Henry Scarborough, Pauline Whitson, Louise Wolfe, and Henry Mortimer.

The Russian dancers, Pavlowa and Mordkin, will make their final appearance this season next Monday evening at the Waldorf-Astoria at a concert given for the benefit of the Russian Immigrants' Home. There will be several other soloists, including Carl Joern and Mme. Mariska-Aldrich, and the Russian Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Modest Altschuler, will assist.

THOMPSON'S THREE PLAYS.

"Call of the Cricket," "Spendthrift," and Musical Farce to be Presented.

Frederic Thompson returned from Chicago yesterday and sent out an announcement of Spring and Summer plans that will keep him busy for some time. He will take possession of the Belasco Theatre on April 18, and will present Mabel Taliaferro there in her new play, "The Call of the Cricket." The run of Charlotte Walker in "Just a Wife" will end on April 9, and during the following week rehearsals of Miss Taliaferro's play will be held.

Mr. Thompson has engaged Edmund Breese for the leading part in Porter Emerson Browne's new play, "The Spendthrift," that is to follow William Collier at the Hudson Theatre, on April 11. Mr. Breese will succeed William B. Mack, who originated the principal male rôle.

This coming Summer Mr. Thompson will be the impresario of the Aerial Gardens, on the roof of the New Amsterdam Theatre. He will present there, about June 1, an entertainment that he thinks will prove a novelty in the way of Summer shows. He calls it "The Comic Supplement in a Rainbow of Color: Being a Musical Farce with Incorporated Novelties Designed to Relieve the Monotony of the Season's Editorial Page of Drama." The show will contain a number of mechanical effects of the sort that Mr. Thompson supplied to the Hippodrome and Luna Park.

OPERA DISCOUNTS ABANDONED

Metropolitan Says Ticket Agencies Took Most of the Subscriptions.

The announced intention of the Metropolitan Opera Company to do away with the present discount which has been allowed subscribers in the past has caused a great deal of discussion. Many subscribers who have been in the habit of getting their tickets from the agencies at no increase in price in the past have not been pleased to read of the new arrangement.

In this connection the Metropolitan Opera Company says:

"The subscription privilege was availed of mainly by ticket agencies, which then sold the tickets to subscribers for one performance each week at the regular box office price, retaining the discount for themselves.

"The cost of giving operatic performances has increased enormously of late years, and owing to the continuously augmenting demand for subscription seats at the Metropolitan Opera House the company reached the conclusion that there was no longer any occasion for allowing discounts on subscriptions, and such discounts have consequently been discontinued for next season."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Petley, who originated the title role in the London production, is now appearing in the same part here.

After Charles Cherry has concluded his engagement under the management of Daniel Frohman he will be starred again by the Shuberts, who announce that they have already commissioned a prominent playwright to prepare a drama for Mr. Cherry's use.

SUFFRAGIST PLAYS AT BENEFIT MATINEE

Showing What the Women Want and How They Went About to Get It.

IN THREE CLEVER PLAYS

Equality League Thousand Dollars Richer by Performance—Addresses in Favor of Suffrage.

If Equal Rights will result in many more entertainments as pleasant as the one arranged in aid of the Equality League of Self-Supporting Women at the Maxine Elliott Theatre yesterday, then Equal Rights by all means! That, at least, may be recorded as the opinion of the play reviewer, however much it may be flying in the face of more definite political opinion.

Presumably the three or four ladies named as authors of these one-act plays are ardent suffragists, and presumably each of the several actresses who appeared is in harmony with the movement. If not the more credit to the art which made it seem so. Miss Beatrice Forbes-Robertson certainly, if not positively militant, has courage of the suffragist convictions, for she arranged the matinee, came in strong in the honors that were awarded in Mrs. Blatch's speech, and acted in two of the plays herself, each time being a definite symbol in the cast of WHAT WOMEN DO WANT—this last, by the way, in direct opposition to mere man's opinion as represented in Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman's poem "Women Do Not Want It." The poem was very agreeably recited by Miss Maxine Elliott, quite becomingly feminine and charming in a very smart gown of cream broadcloth, with white furs and a big, smashing black tulle hat, which, however, made ingress and egress through the narrow first entrance somewhat difficult.

The three plays of the afternoon might be described very properly as representing anticipation, expectation, and realization of the hopes of suffragists. In "Before the Dawn," by Bessie Hatton, an exceedingly proper Jane Austen sort of miss, aged 24, and brought up according to the approved early Victorian pattern, with a very deficient education and no "rights" to speak of, is face to face with the necessity of getting married to a man she does not love. We get the key to the general status of the household in the mother's unaffected delight at the fact that Caroline is "getting on so beautifully with the Maiden's Prayer," and in the father's assertion that it is woman's place to bring children into the world and to attend to the comforts of the male. Very old-fashioned notions, of course, as any suffragist will tell you. This, apropos of a suggestion that the girl shall be sent to a finishing school, promptly vetoed by the father, though he avers, of course, the son of the family must go to Rugby to be prepared for his proper place in the world. A clash comes with the appearance of a friend of the girl—an emancipated creature who has the temerity to drive in a hansom all alone, a proceeding which shocks Caroline's mother beyond expression. She is doomed to a greater shock when this brazen creature dares to discuss things which the mother has not even allowed herself to think about, and which, coming from the mouth of an unmarried woman, is worse than sacrilege. This awful person suggests that the girl go with her to Paris, there to become self-supporting. But the idea that her daughter shall earn a living for herself is too much for the pattern of domestic propriety. And the upshot of the whole matter is that Caroline, very much against her will, is forced to accept the proposal of an undesirable suitor rather than face the awful danger of becoming an old maid.

All this very amusingly developed in this fragment of a play was very neatly acted by Mr. Montague Rutherford, Mrs. Harriet Otis Dellenbaugh, Miss Janet Beecher, Miss Evylyn Weedon, and Mr. Leonard Howe.

The second playlet was "A Woman's Influence." After Mrs. Lawrence and her friend, serious-minded women, have failed to interest Mr. Lawrence in reforms looking to the improvement of the conditions of certain sweatshop workers, an acquaintance of theirs, a Mrs. Perry, makes a wager that she can do it. Mrs. Perry is a widow, a flighty little person, a butterfly and a flirt, and by working on Mr. Lawrence's vanity she succeeds in getting him to agree to the proposition. She learns a few minutes later that as her trustee he has invested all her money in the stock of the factory in question, and that agitation will probably mean depreciation of its value. Then she tries to hedge. Eventually Mrs. Lawrence opens her husband's eyes, he decides to help her in the cause, and the curtain falls on a mutually satisfying agreement. Some capital acting by Mollie Pearson and Arthur Forrest resulted in an especially entertaining little scene, following a moment vibrant with real feeling, resulting from the beautifully artistic playing of a factory hand by Miss Haidee Wright. Miss Beatrice Forbes-Robertson and Miss Allison Skinner also contributed materially to the effectiveness of the play.

Now that they have given the scheme away, mere man will be prepared; otherwise it is possible to understand that the means employed in "How the Vote Was Won," by Cicely Hamilton and Christopher St. John, might overcome the most stubborn of the antis. And how was the vote won, forsooth? Why, very simply, according to these authors, who, by the way, put the time as "the near future." Woman having been repeatedly denied the suffrage, having as repeatedly been told that her place is at home, agrees to the superior finding and promptly acts upon it. Since they are denied the rights which self-support implies, it is agreed that they will cease to make the effort; they will look to their nearest male relatives for support. Those who have no such relatives will betake themselves to the workhouse, the result being increased taxation to support the institution. Thus it is up to the man finally, whether he likes it or not. When Horace Cole, clerk at £3 per week, finds himself saddled with his sisters and his cousins and his aunts, and faces the possibility of extra taxation, through the departure of his household servants for the Workhouse, he suddenly becomes acutely interested in the rights of women and joins the suffragist parаders.

The brief outline does little justice to an extremely amusing piece, in which the arguments for the cause are presented with full force and in a vein of very delightful satire. It was played with much spirit by Miss Fola Le Follette, Miss Forbes-Robertson, Miss Mollie Pearson, Alexander Casey, Ernest Glendinning, Miss Helen Ashley, Miss Margaret McKinney, Miss Janet Beecher, Miss Ruth Holt Boucicault, and Miss Kate Carlyon.

In the intervals between the plays addresses were made by Johnstone Forbes-Robertson and Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch. During the former's address one voice was raised louder than the speaker's, but whether in protest to the sentiment of the occasion could not be determined. It was the voice of an infant hidden somewhere in the balcony.

More than $1,000 was realized by the performance, which was good enough to be repeated. Miss Elliott, who lent the theatre and the orchestra for the performance, sat in a box with Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch.

On the other side of the theatre Mrs. Mackay had a box, with the Equal Franchise League banners displayed. Mr. and Mrs. Bourke Cockran were her guests. Mrs. Mackay's little daughter was with her, and Mr. Mackay joined the party later. Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw gave a luncheon at the Metropolitan Club and brought her guests to the matinee.

MYRA KELLY, WRITER OF CHILD LIFE, DEAD

Teacher Who Took Her Types from East Side Aliens a Victime of Consumption.

"LITTLE CITIZENS" ROMANCE

Author Wedded to Allan Macnaughtan Soon After Book Was Published—Dies at English Watering Place.

LONDON, March 31.—Myra Kelly, (Mrs. Allan Macnaughtan,) the American educator and author, died yesterday at Torquay, where she had been stopping with her husband. Mrs. Macnaughtan had been in ill-health for a long time. Her American address was Oldchester Village, Orange Mountains, N. J.

As a delineator of child life on the east side and a writer of stories in which pathos and amusing incidents in the lives of children were strikingly portrayed, Myra Kelly endeared herself to thousands of readers of magazines and books during the last few years. Especially in portraying the struggles of the alien child of the slums in trying to master the idioms of the English language was she strong, and her stories of these struggles proved popular with the publishers almost from the very first of her literary efforts.

Many of her stories were based upon fact, for Miss Kelly was for several years in close touch with the children of the east side. She taught in the public schools there and in other parts of the city for awhile, and it was during that period of her life that she caught the odd tricks of dialect and the spirit of the lives of the infantile aliens which paved the way for her later literary success. The pathos and humor of their home life was gained, too, by frequent visits to the homes of her little pupils after school hours, and she was usually welcomed by the mothers of the little ones, for Miss Kelly had a personality which drew the parents as well as the children to her.

Born in Dublin, Miss Kelly came to New York when a child with her father, Dr. J. E. Kelly, who afterward became a well-known physician here. Miss Kelly studied in the public schools here and fitted herself to become an instructor of the young. Her first attempts at writing were simple little recitals of the happenings in the school room, but in spite of their simplicity there was a touch of humor which could not fail to appeal to the reader. It was her friends who first urged her to try her hand at writing, for she used to tell them of the odd little happenings in her school in a way that never failed to leave a lasting impression. She soon found that she could write the stories as well as she could tell them, better in fact.

Unlike the average beginner she did not have to wait for publishers. In fact, the publishers of two magazines vied with each other in an effort to get one of her first manuscripts, and she had to decide between their rival claims. Probably the best known works from the pen of Myra Kelly were "Little Citizens," "Isle of Dreams," "Wards of Liberty," and "In Loco Parentis."

The romance which led to her marriage a few years ago had its beginning in "Little Citizens," so say her friends. Not long after the book was published Allan Macnaughtan, President of the Standard Coach Horse Company, got hold of a copy and read it with keen appreciation. That was in 1905. Soon after reading the story Mr. Macnaughtan met Miss Kelly. They were married in August of that same year and their future looked very bright. But about two years after the wedding Mr. Macnaughtan was forced into bankruptcy through an attempt to establish a colony of literary folk at Oldchester Village in the New Jersey hills. And it was not long after this blow that Myra Kelly began to develop tuberculosis, according to some of her friends. At the office of her publishers, McClure, Phillips & Co., it was said yesterday that the death of Miss Kelly came as a surprise, although they had learned some time before that she had been suffering from tuberculosis.

One of the admirers of Miss Kelly's writings was Theodore Roosevelt. When Mr. Roosevelt was President "In Loco Parentis" was published. Upon reading it President Roosevelt wrote an appreciative letter to the authoress and said that he had been deeply impressed with the true ring of the story.

JAMES GALWAY DEAD.

Veteran Turfman Owned the Once Champion Trotting Gelding St. Julien.

James Galway, former Fire Commissioner, a veteran turfman, and member of the Jockey Club, died at his home, 312 West Fifty-sixth Street, yesterday. Mr. Galway was more than 70 years old and had been in failing health for some time. He leaves a widow. Mr. Galway was a native of Ireland and came to New York when a boy. His first connection with sports was when he went on the trotting turf. While associated with the trotting turf he owned the world's champion trotting gelding St. Julien.

From the trotting turf to the running turf was an easy step and Mr. Galway became a member of the racing firm of Carr & Co. and afterward a member of J. G. Nelson & Co. Following this partnership he raced in the name of the Preakness Stable and later in his own name.

The Galway colors were black, yellow sleeves and red cap, and were very similar to the famous Magpie colors of Lord Falmouth in England. One of the best horses raced by Mr. Galway was Ethelbert, sire of last year's champion, Fitz Herbert. Some of his others were Macduff, Macbeth, Himalaya, winner of the Nursery in 1883; Bonnie Lizzie, three years in succession the winner of the Congress Hall Stakes at Saratoga. The last horse to bear the colors was Lindale, who performed up to a few seasons ago.

BROKERS WELCOME EXCHANGE REFORMS

Look for Increased Public Respect Now There's to be a Curb on Speculation.

MORE CHANGES EXPECTED

Talk of Abolishing Small Margin Trading and Hotel Branch Offices—May Open the Books, Too.

The feeling was general in Wall Street yesterday that the Stock Exchange authorities are not going to stop with the three radical changes in rules announced Wednesday afternoon, but as to what the next move would be no one pretended that the conjectures advanced had any official basis. What has been done, however, was regarded as a substantial victory for the element on the Exchange which has long chafed under the apparent indifference of the authorities to the recommendations of the Hughes Committee, which investigated Wall Street last year.

When the report was submitted to the Legislature without action having been taken by the Stock Exchange in the way of incorporating some of the reforms suggested in the constitution and by-laws of the Exchange, there was a quiet movement to see what could be done toward forcing the Exchange to act by making the overthrow of the "stand-pat" policy, which had so far been followed, an issue at the election of officers this Spring.

It has been a matter of comment in the Street that the attitude of a large part of the brokerage fraternity toward practices which were looked upon as entirely legitimate a few years ago has been undergoing a marked change in the last few years. There has grown up a younger element which has felt keenly the disrepute toward which the brokerage business seemed to be tending in the popular estimation. The old-line houses have also felt the odium which has attached to the numerous legislative attempts to cure by way of the penal code the abuses which the series of exposures since the panic of 1907 showed to be possible under the constitution of the Exchange as it stood.

What the Street Is Saying.

There was a general atmosphere of satisfaction yesterday over the final public recognition by the Exchange of the justice of some of the criticism, although there was comment in some quarters on the tardiness of the authorities in taking action, it being argued that the benefit to Wall Street in increased public respect for the Exchange would have been greater had the changes been made before the Legislature showed its intention to take a hand in the situation by the crop of anti-Wall Street legislation which this session has produced.

Of the possible additional changes discussed yesterday, one conjecture was that some definite rule would be formulated to prevent the acceptance of business on narrow margin, which is one of the most fertile causes of losses to small speculators and perennially feeds the outcry against "Wall Street gambling." Another revived the proposal advocated last year by a number of the large commission houses and odd-lot brokers, who really constitute the backbone of the public's participation in the market, that the books of Stock Exchange houses should be subjected to periodical examination by properly authorized examiners, as are the books of all banks and trust companies.

This idea was advanced after the disclosures of fraud in the failures of several previously well-thought-of houses two years ago. The Exchange authorities already have power under the rule to examine the accounts of members of the Exchange, but in practice this has seldom been brought into play until too late. The plan was at first warmly advocated by houses which were suffering from the public distrust which radically reduced business just after the string of failures in 1908, and was then looked upon as almost a necessity if public confidence were to be restored.

The idea has been lost sight of since failures of the McIntyre, Coster, and Knapp stamp have not been repeated, and Stock Exchange "scandals" turned to those like the Reading flurry and the collapse of the Hocking pool, which focused attention on manipulation.

May Abolish Hotel Branches.

Another change spoken of as possible yesterday was the discouragement of branch offices in the uptown hotels. After the A. O. Brown failure in 1908, when it was shown how large a part the purely gambling side of stock market operations bore in the business catered to by branch offices of this class, there was a movement to have it made obligatory for branches to be directly in charge of partners.

While the question of making the percentage of margins acceptable for transactions on either side of the market something closer to the usual equity demanded by banks in real estate or collateral loans was agitated at the time the Hughes committee condemned the small-margin transaction in its report, the sentiment of the Street generally tended to the belief that this was one of the matters which could be best handled by the "unwritten law."

In fact, about the time the Hughes report was made public last Summer the word went out from the Stock Exchange authorities that stiff margins should be exacted wherever there was any question about the resources of the customer. A number of houses which had been notorious for handling "shoestring" accounts were then called up before the authorities and properly impressed with the power of the Exchange to see that this dictum was obeyed.

With the reforms made public on Wednesday, the abolition of the "unlisted department," which goes out of existence to-day, and the handling under existing rules of the matters of narrow margin, and such manipulation as resulted in the Rock Island flurry and the collapse of the Hocking pool, the friends of the Exchange feel that much has now been done toward carrying out the recommendations of the Hughes committee.

DORANDO FANCIES HAYES.

Italian Thinks Marathon Winner Will Have to Beat Olympic Champion.

The twelve runners who will make up the field for the second annual Marathon Derby, which will be held at the Polo Grounds to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, are all taking a rest to-day after the hard siege of training they have been putting in for the past few weeks. According to reports sent out from each training camp they are all in the finest fettle for the struggle.

Speculation as to the probable winner is very heavy at the sporting resorts throughout town, with the two Swedes, Ljungstrom and Johanson; Fred Meadows, the Canadian, and Johnny Hayes the popular favorites. The biggest surprise in local circles is the improvement which Hayes has shown in his work since his recent trip to the Pacific Coast. Hayes's old opponent, Dorando, is authority for the statement that the man who wins will have to defeat the hero of the famous Olympic Marathon.

It has been arranged to open the gates at the Polo Grounds to-morrow at 12 o'clock. The track will be laid out to-morrow morning by Sparrow Robertson, assisted by an official surveyor. It will be six laps to the mile, with the start in the vicinity of third base, and the finish near first base.

As in the Derby of last year, the camps of the runners will be situated around the border of the track, each of the nationalities being denoted by flags of the countries represented.

SPORTING BRIEFS OF INTEREST.

The Richmond Hill High School baseball team defeated the St. Francis Xavier Intermediates at Richmond Hill 7 to 3.

As next Sunday will be the last invitation run of the Morningside A. C. this season, a cordial invitation is extended to all athletes to attend. The run will be held at 3:15 P. M. from the clubhouse, 400 West 126th Street.

Jack Johnson is 32 years old to-day. Jeffries will complete his 35th year April 15.

Eddie Walsh, a Harlem lightweight, who has been out of the game for some time, and Jack Curley will furnish the main attraction at the stag of the Northwestern Athletic Club to-morrow night. Walsh is a former amateur champion at 125 pounds and has been in steady training for the past two months. A semi-final of ten rounds and four good preliminaries will precede the main bout. George Godfrey, one of the competitors in the recent heavyweight tournament, will appear in one of the special bouts against another heavyweight.

The ten-round bout between Battling Hurley and Tommy Murphy will be held at the Empire Athletic Club, 155th Street and Eighth Avenue, on Friday evening, April 8. Both boys have been training hard in anticipation of the contest, and each is already in fine physical condition. Jim Buckley, who, with the McMahon boys, has the charter of the club, declares that all the members of the Olympic and Sharkey Athletic Clubs have been elected to membership in the Empire. Abe Attell will be pitted against the winner of the bout at the next succeeding weekly show.

HIGHER PAY MOVE GAINING RECRUITS

Steel Trust Expected to Follow the Railroads' Example—Will Affect 225,000 Men.

LESS TOIL FOR ITS WORKERS

Corporation Orders All Its Works but the Blast Furnaces Closed Down on Sunday.

Following the announcement of a 6 per cent. increase in wages by the Pennsylvania Railroad and by the Philadelphia & Reading, the settlement by the Baltimore & Ohio and the New Haven of the demands of their men by substantial increases, and the offer of a 6 per cent. advance by the Erie to meet similar demands, rumors were current yesterday, though unconfirmed, that the United States Steel Corporation would recognize the movement with a voluntary advance in the wages of a large part of its 225,000 employes.

Although it was stated yesterday that no definite steps have yet been taken by the management of the Steel Corporation in the matter, it is generally believed that, in accordance with the company's past policy in dealing with its men, some percentage of increase will be granted should the movement toward wage increases among railroad employes succeed as generally as seems now indicated.

Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, is now at Hot Springs, Va., and President William F. Corey refused to discuss the question on the ground that "it was too personal."

The United States Steel Corporation has gradually eliminated union control of its men, and last Summer threw open what was practically the last of its union shops when the strike of sheet and tin plate workers proved a failure. The corporation has aimed to keep its men satisfied with the open-shop conditions by liberal recognition of changes in the cost of living, and by giving them a share in the company's prosperity by a system of bonuses and rights to make investments in the company's stock at advantageous terms.

It would be no new thing for the management to decide on an increase in wages should present conditions continue. In fact, it was pointed out yesterday, another reason for a percentage increase in wages among certain classes of employes exists in the growing enforcement of the policy of avoiding Sunday work at the mills. By the closing down on Sunday of practically all of the company's works except the blast furnaces, which must necessarily be kept going night and day, the men lose a certain considerable percentage of their total earnings, taking them on an average, and an increase in the per diem rate would have the effect of offsetting the Sunday shutdown, giving the men, however, equal or better pay for a shorter week's work.

The determination of the Steel Corporation to give a weekly day of rest is shown in the following telegram, sent out a short time ago by Elbert H. Gary to the operating officials:

> Mr. Corey, Mr. Dickson, and I have lately given much serious thought to the subject matter of resolution passed by Finance Committee April 23, 1907, concerning Sunday or seventh day labor. Mr. Corey has written you on the subject within a day or two. The object of this telegram is to say that all of us expect and insist that hereafter the spirit of the resolution will be observed and carried into effect. There should and must be no unnecessary deviation without first taking up the question with our Finance Committee and asking for a change of the views of the committee, which probably will not under any circumstances be secured. I emphasize the fact that there should be at least twenty-four continuous hours' interval during each week in the production of ingots.

The Steel Corporation is one of the few of the steel producers which did not make radical reductions in wages following the 1907 panic, when the trade had the heaviest reaction in its history. It made its economies by reducing the number of men employed. Since the upturn in the steel trade, which began over a year ago, the force has been gradually increased, until the employes now number nearly 225,000 men, the largest in the company's history. The company's average annual payment per man has increased without a break, except during the reaction of 1903-04, from $717 in 1902 to $776 in 1909.

KING JAMES TOP WEIGHT.

Carter Handicap Brings Out Crack Field for Race on April 15.

Handicapper Walter S. Vosburgh yesterday announced the weights for the Carter Handicap, the feature race of the Queens County Jockey Club, which begins the racing season about New York at the Aqueduct track, April 15. The Carter is a seven-furlong affair with a guaranteed value of $2,500. Ever since 1895 the Carter Handicap has been an Aqueduct feature, and its roster of winners contains the names of many sterling performers. It is of especial interest for the reason that it is the first Eastern handicap for three-year-olds and upward.

The only break in the race was last season, when the Queens County Jockey Club had no Spring meeting. This year the field is a notable one, and under the weights as assigned by Mr. Vosburgh, it should bring a large and representative field to the post. The weights:

King James (5)	136	King Cobalt (5)	104
Jack Atkin (6)	135	The Squire (5)	104
Restigouche (5)	123	Grasmere (3)	104
Glorio (5)	122	Berkeley (6)	103
Firestone (5)	122	Far West (a)	103
Prince Ahmed (6)	119	Gretna Green (6)	103
Nealon (a)	116	Arcite (6)	103
Alfred Noble (5)	115	Hill Top (4)	102
Trance (4)	115	Mary Davis (4)	100
Righteasy (4)	114	Guy Fisher (4)	100
Falcada (5)	114	Prince Imperial (3)	100
Fort Johnson (5)	110	Tony Bonero (6)	98
Jack Parker (4)	110	Quantico (4)	97
Beaucoup (5)	110	Pretend (3)	97
Magazine (5)	109	Charlie Hargrave (3)	96
Besom (5)	109	Hampton Court (3)	96
Arasee (5)	108	Arondack (4)	92
Dalmatian (3)	107	Duke of Ormonde (3)	92
Wise Mason (4)	106	King Olympian (3)	90
Fauntleroy (3)	105

It was expected that S. C. Hildreth's King James, winner of both the Metropolitan and Brooklyn handicaps of last year, would be the top weight in the race. He is one that will not be sent to the post, but Hildreth has three others to depend upon, and he will undoubtedly have a starter. His others are Restigouche, under 123; Firestone, who took the measure of James R. Keene's Maskette in the Fall of last season, under 122, and the two-year-old Dalmatian, who has to take up 107, and the one in the handicap that leads the three-year-olds. The weights in the younger division would intimate that Mr. Vosburgh has a good opinion of the son of Ethelbert, when he is required to give weight to Fauntleroy, Grasmere, and Prince Imperial.

With King James out of the way Jack Atkin will become the top weight. One hundred and thirty-five pounds is something of a burden for even as good a horse as Barney Schreiber's wonderful sprinter, but the seven furlong distance suits him admirably, and his recent performances at Jacksonville would indicate that he is as good as ever. It was Jack Atkin who won the Carter the last time it was run—1908—and on that occasion he took up 122 pounds. The same season he came back in the mile of the Metropolitan handicap and, under 128 pounds, led his field home.

George Odom's Trance did not get any weight off by being idle all of last season. She is required to carry 115 pounds, but on her two-year-old form she earned a right to the handicapper's respect. She has been training nicely at Sheepshead Bay, but it is doubtful if she will be made ready for the Carter. Odom is doubly careful this Spring after having lost Trance for 1909 by reason of training her for a start at Pimlico.

Glorio leads the list of Western horses in the Carter, with an impost of 122 pounds. This horse comes from the other side of the Rocky Mountains with an excellent record, and since his arrival on Long Island he has been going along for W. P. Fine, his owner, in a way that has impressed horsemen.

Alfred Noble, under 115 pounds, should give an excellent account of himself in such a race. He has been training particularly well of late, and it is probable that he will be seen at the post. The long stretch at Aqueduct will be to his liking, for he has never been a handy horse on sharp turns, and with the same race to be run over the Jamaica track he would hardly have a chance.

Nealon is the second dependence of Barney Schreiber, and the old son of Sain, who won the Suburban Handicap of 1907, and who is now seven years old, has been doing exceedingly well at Jacksonville. The Carter is more to the liking of Jack Atkin though, even under 135 pounds, and barring accident he will be the one to carry the Schreiber silks.

The colt Dalmatian, though he has to give weight to all the other three-year-olds that are engaged, will like the long stretch at Aqueduct better than any of the other three-year-olds. It is doubtful if his public performances as a two-year-old would warrant his giving weight to Fauntleroy, Prince Imperial, Pretend, and Grasmere, but he had a fashion of finishing that gave the impression that he would develop into a first-class three-year-old. This same quality will help his chances greatly in the long straight run of the Aqueduct stretch.

Jimmy McLaughlin has two strings to his bow, for in addition to Fauntleroy, with whom he expects to win the American Derby at Jacksonville, he has the four-year-old filly Arondack. She has been leniently treated when handicapped at 92 pounds, and has run many races that would make her a factor in the Carter under such weight.

There never was a handicap that pleased all the horsemen, and the Carter this year will be no exception to the rule, but under the weights it is certain that the field will be both a large and representative one.

Those that are reasonable certain to be seen under colors are: Jack Atkin, Glorio, Alfred Noble, Jack Parker, Magazine, Dalmatian, Wise Mason, Fauntleroy, King Cobalt, Grasmere, Mary Davis, Quantico, Arondack, and Duke of Ormonde, while several of the others have been training in a way to suggest that they are intended.

National Sporting Club's Show.

Tom O'Rourke calls the show of the National Sporting Club on Monday night a light-heavyweight entertainment. Porky Flynn will box Jim Savage in the main bout of ten rounds. This will be Flynn's first showing in this city. There will also be a ten-round go between the lightweights Kid Gleason and Kid Burns.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Sugar Trust Wins in Fight with the Government—Other Decisions.

Judge Somerville in a decision for the Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday sustained a contention made by the American Sugar Refining Company, when it was decided that countervailing duty was erroneously assessed on the invoice or shipping weight of the sugar instead of on the net landed weight, as reported by the United States weigher.

The General Appraiser, after a consideration of the evidence, takes the view that the Collector erred in his return, and the classification imposed is accordingly reversed. Judge Somerville holds that a decision made some time ago in the case of the Franklin Sugar Refining Company of Philadelphia is controlling in the issue raised by the American Sugar Company.

Davis, Collamore & Co., importers, of Fifth Avenue, were successful yesterday in securing a reversal of Collector Loeb's ruling for a high rate of duty on so-called "wood-framed furniture." It seems that the furniture is upholstered with tapestry, and on this account the Collector assessed duty at the rate of 44 cents per pound and 55 per cent. ad valorem under the tariff of 1897. The importers, on the other hand, set up the contention that the merchandise should be regarded as "furniture of wood," with a tax of 35 per cent. General Appraiser Chamberlain in his decision for the board sustains the claim.

The board denied free entry on importations of watches made by the American Express Company in behalf of a prominent importer in this country.

NOTES OF THE TURF.

Evidence of the increased interest in steeplechasing this season is found in the fact that there are no less than 249 qualified hunters registered with the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association. The most recent registrations are Miss Perigord, Pall Mall, Ontario, Alice Carneal, Duke of Roanoke, Jiu Jitsu, and Lady Ann.

Raymond Belmont has been appointed racing agent for August Belmont, his father. The younger Belmont is also a gentleman jockey of some experience, and he will take a livelier interest in racing this season than ever before.

Capt. E. B. Cassatt has registered the famous red, white, and blue silks used by his father, the late A. J. Cassatt, as his life colors. When Capt. Cassatt came into racing the colors were in use by James Buchanan Brady, but were surrendered last season. The registration of the colors for life, with both The Jockey Club and the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, assures them for Capt. Cassatt as long as he cares to continue in the sport, and if that may be measured by his enthusiasm the red, white, and blue are destined for a long stay on the turf.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The consular and trade report will note the following trade opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of the item referred to:

4,742. MACHINERY FOR PRESSING OIL FROM HERRING.—A new plant is being constructed in Northern Europe for the purpose of extracting oil from fresh herring. American machinery, especially presses, has been used with satisfaction by similar enterprises in that country, and one of the interested parties has requested an American Consular officer for the addresses of firms in the United States making the machinery suitable for this purpose.

4,743. CRACKERS.—A special agent of the Department of Commerce and Labor reports that in his travels in the West Indies he has met three different brokers who are anxious to secure accounts with shippers of crackers from the United States.

4,744. SUGAR SUPPLY FOR GREEK MONOPOLY.—The American Minister, George H. Moses, at Athens, Greece, reports that the bids for the supply of sugar for the Government monopoly which goes into effect on Dec. 1, 1910, will shortly be advertised. The first order will be for 12,000,000 okes (equivalent to 33,000,000 pounds) of sugar, which is to be delivered at Piraeus, in September, put up in cartons or other packages. The Minister believes that American bidders would be welcome, and offers to assist in every way possible representatives from firms in this country.

4,745. ELASTIC BLACK ASPHALT.—A letter received from a foreign agent in New York City asks to be put in communication with firms exporting elastic black asphalt for covering cable and electric wire. He represents a leading manufacturing establishment in a European country that is desirous of buying material of this kind.

4,746. SOAP.—A special agent of the Department of Commerce and Labor, now in the West Indies, reports that there is a market in one of those islands for toilet and laundry soaps. Americans manufacturers of soap can address the special agent in person, as he is willing to arrange for the agency.

4,747. SHOES, SHOEMAKERS' SUPPLIES AND LEATHER GOODS.—There is a good demand for American shoes of all descriptions in an important Chinese city. According to an American Consular officer, who makes the report, not only shoes, but shoemakers' supplies and leather goods of all kinds should find a steady market, though it would be necessary to meet some foreign competition.

4,748. CLOTHESPINS.—In a letter a Canadian firm asks to be put in communication with manufacturers in the United States of clothespins who can furnish them for export.

4,749. BOWLING ALLEYS AND SUPPLIES FOR SAME.—An American Consul in Germany writes that several organizations in his city are building or changing bowling alleys in their clubhouses. Catalogues and other literature relative to this line of goods should be sent to the Consul referred to.

4,750. MACHINERY FOR MAKING CEMENT BLOCKS.—An architect in a Mexican city would like prices, complete description, &c., of machinery for making cement blocks. An American Consul supplies his address, and it is his intention to order machinery of this kind within a short period. It is to the interest of American firms to secure this initial order.

4,751. ASPHALT.—A responsible importer and exporter in a large German city desires to hear from firms in the United States engaged in the exportation of asphalt to his country, or willing to do so.

4,752. WRAPPING PAPER OF A CHEAP GRADE.—A special agent of the Department of Commerce and Labor, now traveling in the West Indies, reports that he has found a good opening for wrapping paper of a cheap grade. Mills making a paper of this kind should address the special agent, who is willing to find an agent to handle it.

4,753. MACHINERY FOR MAKING PAPER FROM THE HUSKS OF COTTON SEED AND CORN STALKS.—An American Consul in India reports that a firm in his district wants to communicate with American manufacturers of machinery for making paper from the husks of cotton seed and also from corn stalks.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Wheat Firm on Kansas Damage—Corn and Oats Weaker—Provisions Heavy—Cotton Lower on Rains.

Wheat was rather nervous all day, and at times irregular. It was firm early on the weather reports showing no rains in Kansas and Nebraska, and there was a good covering in the May wheat at the West. Later the advance was lost and the market showed considerable irregularity in the afternoon. The weather map showed good rains in other parts of the wheat belt, and during the week there have been rains through almost the entire belt excepting Kansas and Nebraska. The reports from the Northwest are extremely optimistic, and it is stated that the season has been a record-breaking one for favorable March conditions and early advancement of Spring seeding. The market rallied a little on a report by a Western authority making the present Winter wheat condition only 81.3, against 96.2 in December and 81.8 last year, with no allowance for abandoned acreage, which it was said would be large. Analysis of the report was made indicating that even with this report the prospects favored nearly 10 per cent. larger wheat crop than last year. The reports regarding the conditions in the Southwest are so conflicting that it is extremely difficult to arrive at a correct idea of the situation. Conservative reports do not indicate extraordinary damage. Cash wheat quoted No. 2 red Winter, $1.25, cost, insurance and freight; No. 2 red spot nominal, free on board, afloat, for export, $1.26½; No. 1 Northern Duluth, opening, $1.26¾; No. 2 hard Winter, nominal; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $1.18¾.

Corn was quiet and about steady during the morning, but there seemed to be very little support, and notwithstanding small receipts there developed selling pressure, under which the market weakened. Cash corn was reported quiet, with limited demand, and the decline apparently brought considerable stop-loss selling. Cash corn quoted: No. 2 nominal, elevator export basis; No. 4, 62¼c, and steamer, 64¾c, all elevator export basis.

Oats were also weaker. The decline was evidently due to liquidation and the favorable crop and weather news. The weather has been unusually favorable for field work during the month of March, and advices indicate great advancement in plowing and seeding, with early seeding about completed as far north as the lower Northwest. Cash oats quoted: Natural white, 49@51c, and white clipped, 50½@53c.

Provisions were dull and heavy. There was considerable speculative liquidation, and in the absence of any new feature prices eased off. Live hog receipts were small, but live hog prices were weaker with the decline in futures.

COTTON.

The cotton market was active and weak early on the weather news and the lower cables, but later showed some recovery with shorts fairly good buyers. The cables were disappointing, partly due to news regarding rains in Texas. The official reports showed rains in several points in Texas, and private reports were of rains at numerous points, and the rain varied from one-eighth to one inch, with some points reporting over an inch, and one as high as five inches. There were private dispatches claiming that the rain was the best of the season. The decline of the market, however, did not bring as much cotton out as expected, and later, when early sellers tried to cover the market was easily advanced. There were claims to the effect that the rains were not sufficient in Texas, and that it was getting quite dry in the eastern sections. The market was also influenced by the continued firmness of the April delivery here, for which 10 points premium was bid over May for 100,000 bales.

The market was heavy in the last hour with prices the lowest of the day. This decline was accompanied by a rumor that a settlement had been reached between the two big interests contending for control of the near positions, and there was belief that the rains in Texas had been general enough to afford relief. Southern spot markets were reported unchanged.

New York spot market quiet, 10 decline. Middling uplands, 15.10c; middling Gulf, 15.35c.

COFFEE.

Coffee was quiet, total sales amounting to 7,250 bags. Price changes were narrow, the final figures ranging from 5 points decline to 5 points advance. The French market closed unchanged. Hamburg showed a decline of ¼ pfennig, and both Rio and Santos were unchanged. The visible supply of Brazilian coffee in and afloat for the United States is 3,352,382 bags, compared with 3,373,621 last week and 3,960,719 last year. The spot demand, however, continues quiet, and the poor spot business has resulted in a decline of 25 points in all the old crop positions during the last month, while the later months are unchanged, to 10 points lower. Spot coffee quiet and steady, unchanged; 8 11-16@8¾c for Rio No. 7.

Trading Less Active on Curb, with Fluctuations Narrowly Confined.

SOME GAINS IN COPPERS

Several Issues Show Fractional Advances and Others Close Even with Opening Levels.

Price movements were narrow in a somewhat less active market on the Curb yesterday. The coppers were strong in most instances, but gains were fractional, and many issues closed even with the opening levels. Butte Coalition closed ¼ above the opening. Chino closed ⅛ up, as did Miami, and Ray Consolidated gained ¼ on the day's trading. In the bond list fluctuations were narrow. Atchison convertible contracts steadied and sold $40,000 between 103⅝ and 104.

DEFECT IN POSTAL BANK BILL.

Pointed Out in City Bank's Circular—Securities Sales to Europe Large.

The National City Bank in its April circular takes a firm stand against the Postal Savings Bank bill in the shape it passed the Senate. The circular gives the amount of American securities sold in Europe since the beginning of this year at from $150,000,000 to $250,000,000. On these subjects the City Bank says:

From every point of view the Postal Savings Bank bill as it passed the Senate is open to objection. The provision relative to the investment of deposits in Government bonds in time of war or great National crises is particularly unfortunate. In order to secure the passage of the bill through the Senate a compromise was effected, whereby postal deposits invested in Government bonds at such times should be only in bonds bearing not less than 2½ per cent. per annum. This is construed as a deliberate discrimination against the $731,000,000 2 per cents which the Government has already issued. It is a discrimination so far-reaching and so unreasonable that it is difficult to understand how it could have been hazarded even to secure the passage of the bill. Apparently, the fact was lost sight of that the 2 per cent. bonds are almost exclusively the basis of our present National bank note circulation. The subject was treated rather lightly in debate. Its gravity to the people as a whole should have commanded the most serious attention.

The export movement in the early part of the year was due entirely to natural conditions. Owing to the plethora of money abroad, as well as here, various corporations deemed the time opportune to issue new securities, and these all being more or less of a high grade character, giving a fair return of interest, European capital was attracted thereby and acquired quite an important amount, estimated variously at from $150,000,000 to $250,000,000. The figures can never be exactly determined.

The budget difficulties in England are having their effect by enhancing the value of money abroad. Consequently, the taking over of securities on the part of Europe may possibly be brought to a halt and the result will be that we may expect gold exports between now and the end of the fiscal year. However, signs are not lacking that perhaps this may be counteracted by the export of merchandise, notably cotton.

The bank points out that the Government's finances are improving from day to day, and [illegible]

RALLY AFTER DECLINES

Morning Weakness Followed by Dullness and Indifferent Trading—English Bank Position and Speculation.

The pressure exerted against prices from professional quarters in earlier sessions of the week was renewed in the first half hour of business on the Stock Exchange yesterday, with resultant declines of a full point or so in the active stocks under Wednesday night's prices. Buying in some volume, partly for London account, seemed to be attracted by the declines, and the market turned upward sharply, with short covering very general. Around midday this rally, in turn, came to an end, and prices settled back to such an extent that final quotations represented in the main only nominal gains for the day. While there was much discussion on the Stock Exchange, and off it, of the meeting of the Supreme Court on Monday, labor difficulties, and the lack of rain in the Winter wheat country, it is doubtful if the market was in the lease influenced by these matters. Prices responded to professional operations, with the London buying and small purchases for investment on home account as minor factors. News developments of sufficient importance to attract attention were wanting, although some little interest attached to the better February returns made by several of the leading railroads, including the Chesapeake & Ohio, with its gain of $515,000 gross and $221,000 net, and the Lehigh Valley, with corresponding increases of $300,000 and $205,000. These two properties appear to have been able to retain a larger percentage of their gross earnings as net than has been the case with other roads recently reporting for February. While not of any market consequence in a general way, the announcement of the two drastic amendments to the Stock Exchange rules were of importance, and should, in connection with steps already taken and others practically certain to be made, help to secure for the market a larger measure of public confidence. As evidence of the intention of the management to go to all reasonable lengths to deserve such confidence, the new rules are most acceptable.

Contrary to expectations entertained in some circles, the Bank of England made no change in its discount rate at the regular weekly meeting of the Directors yesterday. The Bank's return for the week was not a good one, however, reserves falling 2.64 points, to a figure less than 5 points above the traditional "dead line," a fact which foreshadows continued efforts on the part of those managing the Bank to strengthen its position. Curiously enough, on the very day on which a return of this sort is made, and demands upon our gold supplies thereby indicated, the speculation on the London Stock Exchange is described in the cables as buoyant, with rubber shares "booming furiously." If it were a boom of this kind in our own market which threatened to force a higher Bank rate and to embarrass the London money market through gold losses, English comment may be readily imagined.

PHILADELPHIA, March 31.—There was much difference of opinion in financial circles to-day over the reported melon cutting of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. It was pointed out that if the plan as outlined yesterday, which practically amounted to a 100 per cent. stock allotment at 50 per cent., should be carried out the market had already fully discounted it.

Minority Suit Against New Haven.

The New Haven road, it is said, has decided to appeal from the decision of the New York State courts overruling the railway's demurrer to the Howe suit for an accounting, brought in the interests of the minority stockholders of the Boston & New York Air Line, part of the New Haven system. One of the chief points of interest in this suit, apart from the claims of these minority stockholders, is that the demand on the New Haven for an accounting may bring to public knowledge the contents of the Stevens valuation report on the New Haven property, made two years ago, and expected to be made public, though it never has been. The minority stockholders of the Boston & New York Air Line represented in this suit, contend that the amount offered to them in payment of their stock when the Air Line was merged with other lines in the New Haven system, was less than should have been offered.

⁂

A Phenix "Hidden Asset."

A detailed account of the discovery of an overlooked asset worth $500,000 by the Phenix National Bank was published in the financial district yesterday, along with the suggestion that $50 a share had been added to the liquidating value of the Phenix National Bank's stock by this discovery. The story was that the bank, years ago, had taken $189,000 par value of Copper Queen stock, since converted into Phelps, Dodge & Co. stock, in settlement of a debt, and that this stock was carried on the bank's books at $1, and the fact overlooked that it was really worth a great deal more. Officers of the bank, when their attention was called to the story, admited that the bank holds this stock and that it is entered on the books at a nominal value of $1, but in support of their contention that the real value of the stock had not been overlooked drew attention to the detailed reports the bank has published for the last five years, in each of which was entered the estimated market value of this Phelps-Dodge stock. The latest of these reports placed a value of $200 a share, or $378,000, on it. Its value is greater now, as the stock is quoted at about $250 a share.

⁂

Exchange Action Approved.

Although some features of the changes in the Stock Exchange rules will roughen the way for the professional element in the market, few Exchange members yesterday were willing to criticise a move which by general admission is for the greatest good of the greatest number. There is no doubt in the minds of those who observe things broadly that there has grown up a very general distrust of the market, which has made itself felt in lessened public participation. The final recognition of the Hughes Committee's recommendations by the governing body of the Exchange is expected to do much in the way of reassuring the public.

⁂

Wage Increases and Rates.

The concessions to their men in the way of wage increases have been made by the railroads only after a long campaign of publicity, in which great pains were expended in bringing out figures to show how heavily the increases of the last decade have bitten into earnings. The showing went somewhat lame, in view of the large dividend increases in the same period, but the railroads were able to demonstrate, aside from coincident increased profits, that the men have fared well through good and bad times alike. The facility with which they are obtaining at least a large measure of their demands and the rapidity with which these concessions are being followed by proposals to increase passenger and freight rates, proposals which were abandoned before an outburst from shippers and the public two years ago, taken together, have relieved the Wall Street mind of undue apprehension as to the effect of wage increases on income accounts.

RAILROAD RATES GOING UP.

More Going Out in Wages and More Receipts Must Be Taken In, They Say.

Railroad men with practical unanimity express the belief that the logical outcome of the wage increases now being granted by the railroads to their employes will be an increase in freight rates or in passenger rates, or in both. President W. C. Brown emphasized this point again yesterday in discussing the wage demands of the Central's men.

The present margin between earnings and expenses, the railroads very generally contend, is no more than enough to pay charges, provide reasonable dividends, and insure maintenance and necessary reserves. The New Haven has given practical effect to this contention by following its grant of increased wages with a notice to the Inter-State Commerce Commission of increases in passenger rates.

President Brown said yesterday that the increases in wages which had been offered to the system's employes would call for an additional annual outlay of not less than $7,500,000 for all the lines in the New York Central system, and it is estimated that the 6 per cent. increase granted to the employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad system will add an equally large sum to the payrolls of the Pennsylvania and its affiliated lines.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

American Securities Close Dull on the London Exchange.

LONDON, March 31.—Money was in increased demand to-day for month end requirements and calls for $10,000,000 Treasury bills. Discount rates were easy on expectations of an inflow of gold from New York.

Trading on the Stock Exchange continued firm and fairly active, with renewed excitement and further substantial advances in rubber shares. Home rails and trunk lines closed buoyant, while various foreign bonds and Kaffirs advanced quietly. Mexican rails were weak on the disappointing dividend announcement.

American securities were marked up by professionals at the opening, but only a limited amount of business was done at the higher level during the early session. In the afternoon prices weakened sharply, following New York selling. There was a fractional recovery in the late trading, but the market closed dull.

Bar silver, steady, 24 3-16d per ounce.

Money, 3½@4 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3⅝ per cent.; for three months, 3⅝@3 11-16 per cent.

PARIS, March 31.—Prices were firm on the Bourse to-day.

First Mortgage Five Per Cent. Bonds:

The Republic Iron & Steel Company has authorized an issue of $25,000,000 10-30 Year Five Per Cent. Sinking Fund Mortgage Gold Bonds, whereof $15,000,000 bonds are reserved for future issue subject to the restrictions set forth in the Mortgage, and bonds up to $10,000,000 are now to be issued for the purpose of taking up its First Mortgage Bonds, which this Company has agreed to call for payment on October 1, 1914, and for other corporate purposes. On or before October 1, 1914, the new Mortgage will therefore become a First Mortgage on all of the property of the Company.

The earnings of the Company for the past four and one-half years have averaged nearly six times the amount of the annual interest on the $10,000,000 bonds; at no time within these years have they amounted to less than four times the amount of said interest. The total value of our mineral reserves, fixed assets and quick assets is estimated at over $78,000,000, or nearly eight times the amount of our present bond issue.

The bonds carry a minimum Sinking Fund, payable in cash or bonds at par, of 2½ per cent. per annum on $10,000,000 bonds and on all further bonds issued; to be increased whenever annual extraction of minerals exceeds amount specified in mortgage.

The Republic Iron & Steel Company hereby offers to the holders of its First Mortgage Bonds to purchase their bonds at 105 and accrued interest in cash, and has also arranged with Messrs. Hallgarten & Co. and J. & W. Seligman & Co., that such bondholders as may desire to do so, shall have the privilege of taking in exchange the new bonds par for par and cash for the premium.

This offer may be withdrawn at any time without notice.

The coupons due April 1, 1910, of the First Mortgage 5% Bonds will be paid at the office of Hallgarten & Co., 5 Nassau Street, New York.

Sale of West 25th Street Plot Foreshadows Big Loft Building—Builders Secure Bronx Block Front—$203,000 Paid for East Side Corner at Auction.

A new loft building to be occupied by several large printing concerns is forecast by the sale yesterday of five plots from 209 to 217 West Twenty-fifth Street by the Publishers Printing Company. The property was owned by various owners, 209 being sold by John C. Purdy, 211 and 213 by Irving I. Kempner, and 215 and 217 by Dr. Furman Clayton of Brooklyn, who recently contracted to purchase the property from Mayer S. Auerbach. The plot is 105 by 98.9, and is now occupied by five three-story houses, which will soon be torn down for the erection of a modern loft for business purposes. The Metropolitan Printing Company is located on the Twenty-sixth Street side of the block, and opposite is the new loft recently finished by the National Cloak and Suit Company.

To Improve Bronx Block Purchase.

Benjamin N. Gruestein, representing a syndicate of builders and investors who have been large operators in the past, purchased yesterday from Theodore J. Chabot the entire unimproved block in the Bronx bounded by East 151st and 152d Streets, Wales and Tinton Avenues. Jacob Gordon of 346 Broadway represented the purchasers in the deal, and the broker was R. I. Brown Son. The plot contains twenty-two city lots, and plans are being prepared by the purchasers to erect on the property a series of high-class five-story apartment houses. The property is situated in a rapidly growing section of Bronx Borough, and there has been considerable building of late in the immediate vicinity. The consideration in the deal was about $150,000.

Upper Fifth Avenue Residence Sold.

An important Fifth Avenue sale in the upper residential section was made yesterday when the purchase by a Brooklyn resident of the residence of the late Edward P. Hatch of Lord & Taylor, at 1,033 Fifth Avenue, was announced. The sale was made through Henry D. Winans & May, and the price was close to $150,000. Mr. Hatch bought the property in 1879 for $46,000. The plot is 20 by 125, between Eighty-fourth and Eighty-fifth Streets, having a stable in the rear of the lot. The house was one of a row built by the late Benjamin I. H. Trask, who spent, it is said, $125,000 on each house. The Countess Annie Leary occupies the adjoining house at 1,032.

Investors in Sixty-Seventh Street.

Heilner & Wolf and Daniel B. Freedman announced yesterday that they had purchased the plot of six lots on the north side of Sixty-seventh Street, 100 feet west of Central Park West.

The plot, which has a frontage of 150 feet and a depth of 100.5 feet, is part of the Russell Sage estate, which has been reported sold several times recently as a site for a theatre.

This is one of the few large unimproved plots to be found in the vicinity of Columbus Circle, and is well adapted for a theatre. The sale was negotiated by Francis B. Robert.

Automobile Exchange for Thirty-Eighth Street.

Harriet S. James has sold, through J. Arthur Fischer, 209 to 217 West Thirty-eighth Street, inclusive, and for Dr. William Stubenbord, 219 West Thirty-eighth Street, six four-story dwellings, in size 120 feet in width and half the block in depth, to a syndicatee. The purchasers are contemplating erecting a fifteen-story automobile exchange and storage house, and the architects will commence on plans and specifications during the Summer.

This is the first large purchase that has been made contiguous to Seventh Avenue in this vicinity, and the parties interested are in the main engaged in the automobile business.

Trustees of the estate of Benjamin S. Wells sold 6 West Thirty-seventh Street, a four-story dwelling, on lot 21.6 by 100, to the Midville Realty Company, owners of adjoining property.

William P. Jones & Son have sold the four-story brick three-family dwelling, at 462 West Forty-third Street, size 19 by 50 by 100.5, for Mary Bush, to George Whiteside on private terms.

Lexington Avenue and Eighty-fifth Street Sold.

Froman & Taubert have sold for William I. Jacobs the southwest corner of Lexington Avenue and Eighty-fifth Street, and the adjoining two buildings, 1,256-58 Lexington Avenue, consisting of three four-story flats, with stores, making a plot 62 by 67. This property is one block south of the proposed Eighty-sixth Street express Subway station. The purchaser bought for investment.

Many East Side Deals.

Charles W. Eidt has resold for Theodore J. Breitwieser 48 Prospect Place, a three-story and basement brownstone dwelling, to an investor, who will occupy it.

George Dudley Waring has sold for M. F. Duff 118 East Twenty-fifty street, a three-story dwelling, 20.10 by 98.9. This house was formerly owned and occupied by William R. Mead of the firm of Mead, McKim & White.

A. Gottman has sold to Joseph Isaac & Sons 261 Monroe Street, a six-story fireproof tenement, with store, on lot 25 by 100.

S. Miglionico, in connection with F. Sica, has sold for a client to James E. March 182 Mulberry Street, a five-story tenement house, on lot 25 by 100.

I. Rubenoss has bought from the Friedman estate 789 Lexington Avenue, a four-story dwelling, on lot 20 by 100. Mr. Rubenoss has resold the property to Maurice Bloom.

Henry Kopperl has sold for Jacob and Rebecca Larchaw the four-story double flat, at 337 East Seventy-ninth Street, on plot 27 by 102.2, to L. and A. Frank, who will make extensive alterations.

Buys to Protect Light.

T. J. McLaughlin's Sons have resold to Walter Wells 3,470 Broadway, a three-story and basement stone-front dwelling, on lot 20 by 70. H. C. Senior & Co. were the brokers.

The house, which adjoins the ten-story Woodmere apartment house, at the northeast corner of 140th Street, built by the McLaughlins, and sold by them last Fall, was secured to protect the light and air of their building.

Trading Bronx Property.

Harris Ratner has sold 908 Freeman Street, a six-story apartment house, with stores, between Simpson Street and the Southern Boulevard. The purchaser is Charles Kroets of Yonkers, who gives in exchange the southeast corner of Cauldwell Avenue and 161st Street, a four-story flat, with stores, on lot 100 by 27. The Freeman Street house figured in the deal at $58,000 and the Cauldwell Avenue corner at $40,000. The trade was negotiated by Brokers Trattner, Klein, Steg & Fetzer.

The Wahlig & Sonsin Company has sold the three three-family brick dwellings, on plot 77 by 65, on the north side of 178th Street, 33 feet west of Daly Avenue. The purchaser is Charles Levy, who gives in exchange the plot, 100 by 100, at the southwest corner of Trinity Avenue and 166th Street, opposite the Morris High School. The plot will be improved with apartment houses.

Bronx Sales.

Joseph Edelmuth has bought the northeast corner of Stebbins Avenue and 167th Street, a lot 25 by 75 and irregular.

B. Morris has sold for the estate of H. B. Kirk a plot 82 by 135 on the west side of Tinton Avenue, 267 feet north of 161st Street, to Weisman & Herman, who will improve the same with two five-story up-to-date apartments.

The Stability Realty Company has sold through B. Morris a plot of 150 feet on the west side of Minford Place, 100 feet north of 172d Street, to the Foxvale Realty Company, which will improve the same with four four-story buildings.

Clement H. Smith has sold the northeast corner of 175th Street and Clay Avenue, a plot 45 by 95.

East Side Sale Brings $652,000.

The sale of thirty parcels of east side property, conducted yesterday by Joseph P. Day in the Vesey Street Salesroom, brought a total of $652,000. Most of the property was situated on Forsyth, Delancey, Eldridge, and Chrystie Streets, consisting of old-fashioned brick and frame buildings, the sale being held by order of the Supreme Court to partition the Shrady-Appley estate. It was the largest offering of this class of property that has occurred in some time, and it attracted a large number of bidders, chiefly tenement house speculators and small investors from the locality in which the property is situated.

Practically every parcel aroused lively bidding, and the prices obtained were highly satisfactory. Gustavus A. Rogers gave the highest price for a single parcel, being the northwest corner of Eldridge and Delancey Streets, covering 154 to 160 Eldridge Street, for which he paid $203,500. It was said that Mr. Rogers represented Simon Lind, who contemplates improving the plot with a theatre. A block of five three-story houses, from 108 to 116 Forsyth Street, went to Harris Fein for $87,575. Archibald M. Shrady, one of the parties in interest, bought 91 and 93 Chrystie Street for $32,000. Detailed results of the sale will be found in the list of auction offerings.

Mr. Day said prices ranged 25 per cent. higher than he had expected.

Suburban Sales.

Coney Island Title Cleared.

Charles Wirtz, through his attorney, Charles J. Doherty, has just obtained a policy of insurance on the title to premises owned by him on West Twenty-fifth Street, Coney Island, between Surf and Mermaid Avenues. These premises have been in Wirtz's possession since 1904, but owing to a mistake in the description, made in 1888 and perpetuated through several transfers, he was unable to get a clear title.

The matter was further complicated by a blanket deed of the entire tract, of which the above premises were a part, the reason for which deed is not apparent, but which was given by the owner of the tract, one Andrew Sheehan, to one, Jeremiah Hayes. It is understood that numerous other titles in the immediate vicinity are affected by this latter conveyance.

Plans have been filed for an eight-story warehouse of ornamental brick, 60.11 feet front and 70 feet deep, from designs by William H. Dewar, as architect, with R. E. Moss, as associate, to be built at 156 and 160 Leonard Street, for James H. Cruikshank, as owner, at a cost of $125,000.

More Room for Victoria Theatre.

W. H. McElfatrick, as architect for Oscar Hammerstein, filed plans with Building Superintendent Miller for an extensive remodeling of the interior of the Victoria Theatre, at Seventh Avenue and Forty-second Street, rebuilding the balcony and gallery boxes and erecting a new ornamental proscenium, new columns, and staircases with marble steps. All the improvements will be made with fireproof material, and as rearranged the modernized auditorium will have a seating capacity of 1,798, a large increase over the present capacity of less than 1,400. The improvements are to cost $40,000.

BUILDING MATERIAL.

Exteriors and Value.

THE drawing qualities of an apartment house or office building depend greatly upon the exterior.

It costs as much to lay a poor brick as a good one. The difference in cost of material may be but slight; but color, richness of tone, durability of color, may mean the success or failure of a building as an investment.

Want Philosophy.

The Lost and Found department is one of the most interesting features of The New York Times. There is a fascination about anything lost or found, and a great many people read it just as a matter of news interest—to see what the great public of New York has lost with the passing of each twenty-four hours.

Thousands of people also glance over the help and situations wanted, even though they may not be directly interested in either, but the thing that fastens the deeper interest in the lost and found articles is due to the intelligence with which the advertisements are written.

Every possible detail connected with the loss is printed—the street where it was possibly lost, or even two or three streets; street cars are specified, and so are hotels, department stores, office buildings, &c. A detailed description of the article is given, and every possible clue is concisely but clearly told.

It is no wonder that The Times, with its large and far-reaching circulation, has been so successful in restoring lost articles to their owners.

* * * * * * * *

New York is probably the greatest "show me" town on earth—business people haven't got time to spare to go gumshoeing after help, and the man or woman who goes into detail in advertising for a position is pretty sure to get attention.

Many employers glance over the columns of situations wanted each morning, just to see if there is anything that appeals to them—whether they may be in immediate need of help or not. The average advertisement does not appeal to the busy man, but an advertisement that stands out with some touch of individuality will get his attention. If there is any way of making use of the qualifications advertised, he will send for the advertiser.

BONDSMEN WORST OFF BY BURGLARS' FLIGHT

Sympathetic Persons Put Up Good Real Estate to Give "Poor Tailors" a Chance.

NOT TOLD WERE BURGLARS

The $15,000 Bail Forfeited and All the Security They Have Is a Bankbook Showing $850 Deposits.

Magistrate Barlow refused yesterday afternoon to reconsider his action, in declaring forfeited the $5,000 bail of Jacob and Joseph Goldberg and Harry Rothstein, who had been brought before him in Jefferson Market Court as fugitives from justice, and whom the police declared were the most notorious burglars in the country. They are known to the police as Jake Itchsky, "Red" Tracey, and "Kovak der Schmidt, or the "Blacksmith," respectively. Their counsel, Moses A. Sachs of 63 Park Row, was certain that he could produce them in the next forty-eight hours, but the Magistrate would not listen.

All the papers in the case were sent to the office of District Attorney Whitman, but so perturbed was the Magistrate by the strictures of the police that he followed them as soon as court was adjourned, to explain that his reduction of the bail from $10,000 to $5,000 in each case, was in the regular course of procedure, and that he had taken every precaution.

The Magistrate told District Attorney Whitman that the police, who now blame him for letting three crooks slip through their fingers, had been fully warned that the bail might be reduced. When the men were arraigned on Tuesday morning and he set their bail at $10,000, their counsel, Mr. Sachs, protested vehemently. The Magistrate then said in the hearing of the police that if satisfactory bondsmen were produced he would consider a reduction to $5,000. Absolutely good security had been produced and he had accepted the smaller figure, as the police had advanced no reason why he should not.

Not Told They Were Burglars.

Speaking of the matter yesterday, Magistrate Barlow contended that his action was perfectly regular, as there was nothing in the affidavit on which the prisoners were held to show that burglary or grand larceny was alleged against them.

"Did not the police say they were men with a long criminal record?" he was asked.

"The police always say that," he replied. "But I had no idea that they were expert burglars, and I never even heard of such a tool as a 'can opener' for safes."

David Glick and Harry Sechery, who put up the $15,000 bail, feel that whatever the police may say, it is they who have the real grievance. They knew nothing of the prisoners, and they find themselves debtors to the county for an inconveniently large sum as the result of yielding to the appeal of Mr. Sachs to their humanity.

The two spent yesterday hunting up and down the city for the fugitives, but Mrs. Sechery at her home, 272 East Tenth Street, spoke freely of the way in which her husband and his brother-in-law came to get into trouble.

"Mr. Sachs knew us, and we thought him a fine lawyer," she said. "He came up here in a taxicab and asked us to go on the bond, pledging his word of honor that it was all right. The men were tailors in Goerck Street, he said, who had been arrested in Boston while they were going home from the theatre. He said they could prove an alibi if only they could get out to find their witnesses.

"Then he spoke of their families, and said one of them had six children, another four, and the other three, and he appealed to me as a mother. He took us up to Jefferson Market Jail and we saw the men and their wives. When one of them kissed a baby it was too much for me.

Bank Account Has Been Attached.

"Mr. Sachs told us that if we went up to Magistrate Barlow's house he would grant bail, and it seemed to us that if we could sign the bond at his own house it could not be for a very serious matter."

"Did you not understand when the bond was signed that the prisoners were charged with burglary?"

"No; nothing at all was said to us, and we thought it was all right. There was some mistake in the papers, and one of the Goldbergs was only out of the Tombs two hours before he had to appear in court. I wanted to send a boy to watch him, but they told me it would be all right."

The only thing that the bondsmen have with which to recoup themselves for the $15,000, if the order of forfeiture is carried out, is a bank book belonging to one of the men, and showing deposits of $840. The bank has been notified to refuse payment of all checks, and Mrs. Sechery declared yesterday that $500 of it would be offered as a reward for the fugitives.

She also said she had seen a red-bearded saloonkeeper in Hester Street, whose place she believed was a resort for crooks, speaking to the prisoners. She had informed the police, and they were looking for him.

The Lawyer's Version.

Lawyer Sachs did not agree with Mrs. Sechery as to the way in which Glick and Sechery came to give bail. He declared that he was informed that they were interested in the men, and so he had applied to them.

"Nevertheless I am responsible for their going on the bond," he said yesterday. "There was nothing unusual about the reduction of bail. I could have got a writ from a Supreme Court Jsutice in an hour on the ground that $10,000 was exorbitant if it had not been reduced.

"If Mrs. Sechery says I didn't tell her husband the charge against the men was burglary, I suppose I didn't, but I thought they would understand, from the amount asked ,that it was a serious charge. I was as surprised as any one when the prisoners did not show up. The police brought forward no real evidence against them. The Boston jeweler said he had seen one in his place for a minute, and his colored porter had seen another the next day. The third was arrested because he had a watch that the jeweler claimed was his.

"They told me that for them to prove an alibi it was absolutely necessary to get out and find witnesses, and that it could be shown that the watch had been bought by Goldberg some time before from a friend. I know nothing whatever about their being old convicts or about this 'can-opener' tool. However, I am convinced that I have information which will result in their capture within forty-eight hours."

At a meeting of the Board of Magistrates at the West Side Court, Magistrate Barlow, who is the President, explained the circumstances of the reduction of bail. He said he recognized that $10,000 was "an enormous sum,' and that Mr. Sachs might apply for a writ of certiorari. When a mistake had occurred in making out the "delivery" of one prisoner, he refused to sanction his release till he was in court next morning.

The board then appointed a Committee of Grievances, the duty of which will be to take action in all cases where acts of any members of the board are assailed.

BANKRUPTS INDICTED.

Kushner & Taft Charged with Getting Goods on False Assets.

Charged with obtaining goods on a false financial statement, Newman Kushner and Louis Taft, of the bankrupt firm of Kushner & Taft, which did a cloak and suit business at 105 Prince Street, pleaded not guilty before Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions yesterday to an indictment for grand larceny in the second degree. The case against them was prepared on behalf of the Merchants' Protective Association by former Assistant District Attorney Bosler.

In December, 1908, the firm issued a financial statement to the effect that its assets exceeded its liabilities by more than $40,000, whereas "in truth and in fact," says the indictment, they did nothing of the kind. On the strength of this statement, according to Mr. Bosler, they made many purchases in the next six months, and then failed in September for $60,000.

They are specifically charged with obtaining 1,071 yards of cloth from Faulkner, Pages & Co. of 78 and 80 Worth Street, valued at more than $900. The indictment was filed yesterday, and the two men were arrested immediately by Detective Flood. Kushner, who lives at 1,796 Clinton Avenue, the Bronx, was paroled in the custody of his lawyer until to-day. Taft, who lives at 113 South Second Street, Brooklyn, was held in $5,000 bail.

There were thirty-one witnesses before the Grand Jury which filed the joint indictment.

ONLY POETS AT COLUMBIA.

Story Writers and Essayists Not Up to the Spingarn Prize Mark.

None of the essays or short stories having come up to the required standard in the Spingarn belles-lettres competition for 1910, the judges at Columbia University yesterday announced that the prizes in those branches would be withheld.

The sixty-dollar award for poetry will be divided this year among three students whose compositions were of equal merit. G. M. Lapolla, Daniel Leary, Jr., and E. H. Pfeiffer are the winners. The three contributed alone, it was announced, twenty-nine poems. Eleven other contestants submitted twenty more.

Essayists and short story writers, the contest served to disclose, are not as numerous at Columbia as their poetically inclined fellow-men of letters, for only two essays and twelve stories came up for consideration. While none were deemed good enough to merit an award, honorable mention was made of the following: A. P. Springer's critical essay on "Taine on Bunyan," Sidney Born's story, "The House with the Purple Santem"; A. L. Drew's "The Sentimentalists," and W. B. Ebeling's "The Toilers."

This is the second year that some of the prizes in the Spingarn belles-lettres contest have been withheld. In 1909 only the short story prize was awarded.

NOVEL WEDDING CONTRACT.

Breach of Promise Suit Reveals a Sort of Trial Marriage Plan.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., March 31.—A novel marriage contract was brought to light here to-day when Henry Webendorfer, a wealthy resident of this city, who is also a New York manufacturer, filed an amended answer to a $50,000 breach of promise suit brought against him by Miss Mary Horner of this city.

According to the terms of the contract Webendorfer and his bride might separate at any time, at the will of either, and without cause, and thereafter live apart. At their separation the husband was to pay the bride a stipulated sum, the amount to be regulated by the period of their married life. Webendorfer now says in his answer that this stipulation "was contrary to the interests of society and the policy of the State of New York," and is therefore wholly unenforcable.

The suit is scheduled to be tried in the Supreme Court, this city, next week. In addition to promising to marry her, Miss Horner says Webendorfer promised to settle $50,000 upon her as soon as she became his bride.

CONTRADICTS COUNT'S STORY.

Barnes Drew Copper Co.'s Money from Bank to Save It, He Says.

The trial of Noah E. Barnes for grand larceny of the funds of the Cottonwood Creek Copper Company, of which he was President and of which the Crown Prince of Germany and other German nobles were stockholders, continued yesterday before Justice Goff in the Criminal Term of the Supreme Court.

Barnes took the stand and contradicted most of the evidence of Count von Hochberg, the star witness for the prosecution.

Barnes said his drawing of $30,000 from a bank during the panic of 1907 and placing it in a safe deposit company was for protection. He testified that he did not touch this money until June 18 of the following year, two days after the money had been voted to him by the Directors of the company as commissions on stock sales.

The trial will continue to-day.

BERLIN, March 31.—The papers today publish the series of letters exchanged between Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany and his friend, Count Ferdinand von Hochberg, which were made public in New York at the trial of Noah E. Barnes, charged with the misappropriation of $30,000 of the assets of the Cottonwood Creek Copper Company, in which von Hochberg induced his friends here to invest.

The press accept the Crown Prince's letters as genuine and declare they contain nothing embarrassing to the heir to the German throne. On the contrary, they reveal him as a true friend possessed of a sincere and open nature. Generally the letters excite sympathy with the Crown Prince rather than criticism of him.

LENOX SUBWAY BLOCKED.

A Rush Hour Train Fails to Take the Slippery Rails.

As a northbound Lenox Avenue express train of eight cars, packed with a homegoing crowd in the rush hour just before 7 o'clock last night, put on a spurt of speed to climb the incline above 149th Street, where the Subway becomes elevated, there was a sudden screeching, grinding noise as the wheels refused to bite the slippery rails, bringing the train to a sudden stop and throwing from their feet many passengers in the aisles.

For twenty minutes, as the motorman alternately turned on and off the current, the car was shuttlecocked backward and forward for five or ten feet at a time without making any headway. The confusion among the crowded passengers was added to by the excited guards rushing from one car to another to find out the cause of the trouble.

Finally, after the rush-hour service, all the way down to the Mott Avenue station, had been blocked for twenty minutes, the rails were sanded, and the train took up its interrupted course.

Bequests of Ernest H. Clabburn.

"In appreciation of her many kind and thoughtful attentions," Ernest H. Clabburn, who died March 24 at the Hotel Lafayette, left $10,000 "to be paid before any other bequest" to his friend, Louise Capdeveille of 8 Rue Notre Dame de Lorette, Paris. He left $5,000 to his friend, Max Paul Muller of this city, and divided his residuary estate after a few minor bequests between his brother and sister, Mrs. Hugh Mack of Brandon and Claud Herbert Clabburn of Ketton, Stamford, England. The will was filed yesterday.

MURPHY HOME AGAIN.

Won't Talk Politics or Even Answer Questions About His Letters.

Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, returned to town last night from Hot Springs, Ark., where he has been spending three weeks with his family and Philip J. Donohue, Treasurer of the organization. Mr. Murphy refused to talk politics either with regard to the latest defiance from Chairman Conners of the Democratic State Committee or his own conferences at Hot Springs with Chairman Mack of the Democratic National Committee. He even wouldn't say whether or not he had left any letters behind him this trip.
